TRIBUNE LISTS NAMES OF MORE FREED YANKS

Hundreds Are from Chicagoland

The Tribune today presents the names of several hundred more midwestern Yanks who have been freed from German prison camps. These names were gathered by John Thompson, correspondent with the United States 1st army, Hal Foust, correspondent with the 3d army, and an Associated Press reporter. Mr. Thompson obtained more than 2,200 names. The names of those outside Chicagoland were distributed by The Chicago Tribune Press Service to its clients thruout the United States. Mr. Thompson cabled that he was unable to complete his file of all the names last night, so additional ones will appear in tomorrow's Tribune.

HALLE, Germany, May 3—Twenty-two hundred American prisoners of war, liberated April 26 by the 104th division, are relaxing here in unaccustomed luxury of American army life. They now have plenty of good, hot food, clean clothing, and hot showers. Many of them had been prisoners two years or more.

As soon as the weather permits mass movement by plane these lean but happy Yanks will be starting the long trip home.

There are infantry men and artillery men here, some from Stalag 3-A [at Luckenwald]. But the great majority are air force personnel from Stalag Luft 4 which had been moved from Hydekrug in East Prussia to Grosstychow in Pomerania.

The latter reached Grosstychow after a 550 mile trip requiring 80 days. They walked all but 90 miles of the distance. But the men were in better shape than some prisoners and despite the usual starvation diet survived the trip with only about three fatalities.

Tell of Experiences

Their story is the story of two different prison camp commanders, one sadistic, the other strict but a square shooter. It also ranges thru a wide variety of experiences, and includes a 10 day period of terror upon arrival at Grosstychow.

"We'd been packed like cattle in the hold of two coal colliers for a two day trip by water from Hydekrug to Swinemuende," said Tech. Sgt. Thomas J. McHale of Dallas, Tex. McHale, oldest waist gunner in the European theater of operations, formerly worked in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S rotogravure plant. Never losing his spirit, he was one of the prisoners' biggest morale boosters. He printed the weekly

Britain Fights U. S. Plans for Rule of Islands

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—A meeting tonight of the Big Four powers in the international conference to abolish war became the scene of a spirited debate between the British and Americans on the subject of trusteeships for conquered enemy territories.

British Foreign Secretary Eden took sharp issue with Comdr. Stassen of the American delegation on the plan devised to allow the United States unfettered control of naval bases established on Pacific islands wrested from the Japanese. On the side lines were Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov and Chinese Foreign Minister Soong.

Resemble Mandates

Under the proposal of the American delegation, the Pacific islands and other territories taken from the enemy powers would be placed under trusteeships of the new league of nations to enforce peace resembling the mandates under the old league for German colonies captured in the first World war.

The United States, if made trustee for the Pacific islands, would be answerable to the league and might be displaced at any time by the league in favor of another trustee. The American plan proposes, however, that the United States could obtain a leasehold to such areas as are needed for naval bases and in such areas would have exclusive control not subject to interference by the league.

A Stubborn Defense

It was to this division of a trusteeship into two categories—strategic and nonstrategic—that Eden took exception. He did so after telephone consultation with Dominions Secretary Cranborne.

Eden contended with a wealth of argument, in which he drew heavily on experience with the mandates, that the American plan is illogical and unworkable. Stassen defended the American position stubbornly.

Eden contended for an undivided trusteeship with the trustee clothed with full responsibility for the government of the area but required to make frequent reports to the league.

Comdr. Stassen, talking to reporters after the meeting, said a decision on the issue may be reached Saturday night.

[Earlier developments at the conference are described in stories on page 8.]

POLICE INFORM OPA: 4,300 SHOE COUPONS STOLEN

Chicago police informed the office of price administration yesterday that two Negroes, both OPA employes, had confessed having stolen ration coupons good for 4,300 pairs of shoes from the federal agency's warehouse at 569 E. Illinois st. The thieves added that they had sold the coupons for $1,350.

Col. Ed Huey, deputy agent in charge of the OPA's ration currency protection division in Chicago, said he had no evidence against the men. An hour later Huey sent the men before Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of stealing federal property. They pleaded guilty and were held. Their bonds were fixed at $1,000 each. The men, are Eugene Abrams, 23, of 205 E. 47th st. and Oliver Leon Davis, 37, of 3708 Lake Park av.

Reds' 3 Votes Provide Baltic Precedent

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—While oratory about the "precious sovereignty" and "integrity" of the world's small nations flowed from the opera house stage of the allied security conference, a group of American citizens of foreign descent are working quietly to secure some recognition for the forgotten nations of the Baltic—Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia—swallowed up by Russian conquest and never even mentioned by the diplomats here.

The success of Premier Stalin in gaining three votes for Russia in the new league of nations general assembly thru recognition of the Ukraine and White Russia as separate nations has given the champions of the Baltic states an entering wedge.

Sufficient Nationality

"Why aren't Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, who had sufficient nationality to become signatories to the old league of nations, recognized, too?" they ask.

Two of the proponents here for sovereignty for the Baltic states are Chicagoans, Alexander G. Kumskis, South Park district supervisor, and Anthony Olis, Republican candidate for municipal judge last November. Kumskis, who says the movement is nonpartisan, is a Democrat. They are co-chairmen of the American Lithuanian mission.

"The Ukraine and White Russia never even pretended to be independent nations before this conference" Olis said in an interview today. "They were brought out as stooges to serve Stalin's purpose.

Expires in December.

"Russia . . . entered into a treaty with Lithuania in which she solemnly agreed to recognize Lithuania's independence. That treaty, by the way, does not expire until December 31st of this year."

Olis said that one of the causes of the present war was "aggression against small nations."

"What difference does it make whether they are Nazi or Communist nations?" he asked. "If this conference is going to start off on a foundation of false premises, under hush-hush orders that questions of the integrity and sovereignty of the Baltic nations can't be mentioned because it might offend Stalin, it is going to lead . . ."

"To another world war," Kumskis added.

Rep. A. J. (Prince Artie) Quinn Killed When Auto Hits Truck

State Rep. Arthur J. [Prince Artie] Quinn, one of the most colorful and popular figures in the Chicago Democratic organization, was killed instantly late yesterday when his automobile and a beer truck sidewiped on route 66 a mile south of Braidwood, Will county. Atty. William T. Crilly, legislative representative of the Cook county board, who was riding with Quinn from Springfield, was slightly injured.

Rep. A. J. Quinn

Truck Turns Over

The car and truck came together with such force that the truck was overturned. The left side of the car was crushed in upon Quinn, who was driving.

Dr. E. A. Kingston of Lockport, Will county coroner, went to Patterson's undertaking rooms in Braidwood, to which Quinn's body had been moved.

Quinn was a son of the late James A. [Hot Stove Jimmy] Quinn, who, as a follower of Mayor Harrison, ran the Democratic show when the present 42d ward was the old 21st.

Born in Chicago in 1892

Prince Artie was born in Chicago in 1892. He was educated in the public schools, St. Ignatius college, and De Paul university. He was serving his fifth term as representative of the 29th senatorial district.

He maintained a voting residence in the 42d ward, at 660 N. Dearborn st., but lived with his mother, Mrs. Nana Quinn, 89, and his wife, at 4414 Hazel st. He and his wife had no children.

Prince Artie was court jester to the so-called great of the political world and his five terms as a state representative from the near north side district furnished a stage for his humorous talents.

He early challenged his father's claim to fame for eccentricities of the more sophisticated order. His stories of how his parent pursued him in a carriage race while Arthur was taking a boyish ride with a demoiselle was a fixture in the tavern conversations.

Quit Drinking Years Ago

Before he left Springfield yesterday, Quinn regaled friends with comments about his visit at the governor's mansion Wednesday night, where 50 house members were guests. He quit drinking years ago because "if I was drinking I might think it fun to set a house afire."

"If Pinkerton had been at the mansion he could have filled his notebook," Quinn reported. "A good many of the gray haired fellows from downstate were indulging in confession on the strength of the alcohol."

On his serious side, Quinn had an effectiveness which was generally underestimated because of his determined role as a wit and iconoclast. Mayor Kelly often talked with Quinn because he knew that Prince Arthie never pulled his punches as to either fun or business. Recently the mayor remarked that Quinn "could be one of the leading figures in politics if he would buckle down to it."

As a party regular, Quinn recently said that if Mayor Kelly joined the Methodist church he would, too.

Naval Base of Kiel Declared an Open Town by Enemy

Turn to the back page for a map showing all the action yesterday on central European fronts. Also on the back page are five new pictures of the Russian conquest of Berlin.

PARIS, May 4 [Friday]—(AP)—Mass surrenders swept thru German armies of the north yesterday as the fall of Hamburg sounded the knell of all resistance east of the great port. The enemy high command declared the famed naval base of Kiel an open city.

The Paris radio without confirmation elsewhere said the surrender of the entire German army was imminent and, quoting "unimpeachable sources," said Prime Minister Churchill would go to Germany personally "for the final surrender."

The radio earlier said that Adm. Doenitz and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler once more had approached the allies, this time offering to surrender to the Russians as well.

150,000 Germans Quit

More than 150,000 Germans laid down their arms to the British 2d and United States 9th armies along the Elbe by noon Thursday. Thousands of others were giving up.

The Luxemburg radio said the British had crossed the Kiel canal on a bridge seized intact. Unconfirmed Stockholm broadcasts said the British had reached Eckenfoerde, on the Kiel bay 15 miles northwest of the city.

The German war bulletin also made an open city of Flensburg at the Danish frontier, indicating that the enemy intended to make no stand short of the border.

[In Stockholm the newspaper Dagens-Nyheter said it had received an unconfirmable report that the British already had advanced into the southern Jutland province of Denmark almost to a point level with Copenhagen. There were other reports that the Jutland rail network had been completely disrupted and of fighting and plundering.]

The British 11th armored division lumbered thru Bad Segeburg, 19 miles west of captured Luebeck, and ranged far beyond.

The 82d American air borne division made a junction with the Red army near Grabow, three miles east of Ludwigslust and midway between Wittenberge and Schwerin.

Join Up with Russians

Allied commanders wrote off all enemy opposition in the north as the British and the Americans joined up with the Russians on a solid 65-mile front stretching southward from Wismar on the Baltic.

It was impossible to count the prisoners taken in northern Germany since Thursday noon, supreme headquarters said.

The Canadian 1st Army was only four miles from Emden, and to the Nazis Slaughtered in Flight; Planes Blast 64 Ships

WITH THE 21ST ARMY GROUP IN GERMANY, May 3 (AP)—The greatest mass evacuation by sea since Dunkerque was taking place tonight, with thousands of Germans fighting for room aboard fishing boats, rafts, and barges on Germany's northern coast as British tanks roared toward Kiel without meeting organized resistance.

British pilots, flying far ahead of the armored columns and clearing a way for them, saw hundreds of small ships setting out in a fantastic armada from both the east and west coasts of Schleswig-Holstein, heading for Norway. Among them were scores of submarines which the planes attacked.

Planes Pound Fleeing Nazis

British armor, racing along a direct highway toward the Kiel naval base, was nearing the city's approaches. The tanks and armored vehicles pushed past hundreds of burned-out enemy transport wrecked earlier by fighter-bombers, which were busy all day checking the Germans' frantic rush toward the Danish border and mowing a path for the ground forces. More than a thousand enemy vehicles were destroyed and scores of small, overloaded craft pushing away from the German coast also were sunk.

Sink 64 Vessels

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—Germans attempting to flee the reich by sea were slaughtered today by American, British, and Canadian planes, which sank or damaged more than 64 ships in day-long attacks off the Baltic coast of Schleswig-Holstein.

United States 9th air force rocket firing Thunderbolts and fighter-bombers joined this afternoon in the massacre which was started by the R. A. F.

Denmark or Norway — possibly even Sweden—appeared to be the destination of the fugitives.

American pilots of the 366th fighter-bomber group hit seven ships of 3,000 to 6,000 tons, sank a small motor launch and damaged another small vessel in Eckernforde bay 15 miles north of Kiel, and damaged two tankers 15 miles farther north.

Waters near Kiel, Flensberg, and Luebeck were ablaze with burning ships and the water was full of German soldiers rowing lifeboats and even swimming toward shore, where British troops waited to capture them, returning flyers reported.

London Ministers Told to Remain Close to City

Mystery Deepens

MOSCOW, May 3 (AP)—The mystery of what happened to Hitler deepened today when a commentator wrote in Pravda: "Hitler is not in Berlin." Skepticism was expressed here of captured Nazi Propagandist Hans Fritsche's assertion that Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels had committed suicide. Most Muscovites refused to believe Hitler is dead, but a typical comment was: "Marshal Zhukov is in Berlin. If Hitler's really dead it's got to be proved. We won't believe them if they say he was cremated." Dispatches from Berlin said Russian troops continued a stone by stone search for Hitler's body.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 3—British cabinet ministers, meeting tonight to discuss developments in Germany, reportedly were warned not to go far from London this week-end so they could quickly be recalled if big news breaks. Arrangements also have been made for parliament to be summoned at short notice over the week-end.

According to a Reuters news agency report from Stockholm, Field Marshal Montgomery was meeting tonight or early tomorrow with the new German fuehrer, Adm. Karl Doenitz, at Kiel, Germany, or Aabenraa, 12 miles inside Denmark.

With Other Ministers

Werner Best, the German minister to Denmark, who reportedly favors capitulation; Gen. Lindemann, the German commander in chief in Denmark, and Josef Terboven, the German commissioner in Norway, also were reported attending the meeting.

[A dispatch from Stockholm credited to the Central News agency quoted Danish sources regarding the Doenitz-Montgomery meeting as saying "nothing but capitulation could have been discussed." The agency said that rumors persisted of clashes between German regular army soldiers and SS (elite guard) troops in Denmark.]

Expect Surrender

Military and political observers here reportedly believed the Germans in Denmark would accept unconditional surrender within a few hours. Similar surrender of Norway also was anticipated, and the German strong points in French ports and the Channel Islands were expected to follow suit shortly afterward.

The impression in political circles, however, seemed to be that V-E day would not likely be declared this week. Declaration by the Big Three powers that Germany is defeated may be delayed, according to one observer, until allied armies, headed by the Russians, stage a triumphal march thru Berlin.

The British ministry of works revealed that a V-E day stand for press photographers and newsreel men was being built in front of Buckingham palace. Ministry officials said: "It must be done by a definite date but the date is a big secret."

Nazi Admits Defeat

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—Albert Speer, Nazi minister of armaments and production, told the German people in a broadcast tonight that Germany was defeated and instructed the people to work for the reconstruction of the nation as speedily and as fully as the allies would permit.

"It lies with our enemies whether they wish to grant to the German people the possibilities that lie open to the German nation which is defeated," said Speer.

Find Gold Teeth in Nazi Treasure

PARIS, May 3 (AP)—German foreign assets are being traced thru seized hidden records to add to the allies' trove of nazi treasure already estimated at fully 200 tons of gold, allied headquarters said today.

This is twice the original estimate for the gold found cached in the Merkers mine and in bank vaults and under chicken coops of other towns in the Thuringian plains.

Fine gold is valued at more than $1,000,000 a ton, but no approximate estimate has been made of the total value of the complete trove, which has been moved for safekeeping under strong American guard to a central place where a detailed inventory has just begun.

"Hidden with the gold were 189 assorted sized trunks and valises stuffed with loot of Europe and held in trust by the reichsbank," said Col. Bernard Bernstein, formerly with the United States treasury department and now chief of the financial branch, G-5 division, at supreme headquarters.

The loot included currency, jewels, gold and silver ornaments, wedding rings, and gold teeth, which may have represented wholesale robbery and murder.

Bernstein disclosed that headquarters now has undertaken one of the greatest investigations ever started to track down every German asset abroad, working from records which have come into allied hands.

Berlin Back on Air—but Red

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Berlin radio went back into operation last night—with the Red army broadcasting. The speaker said of Berlin: "The central parts are completely devastated. We found the reichstag in the shape it was following the fires started by the Fascists in 1933, with the exception of direct hits by our heavy shells.

"Here is the famous Brandenburg gate. The Germans had surrounded it with piles of sandbags, and a hospital had been set up there. One part of the gate is smashed. Atop the gate, just like over the neighboring buildings, the Red banner has been hoisted.

"The new imperial chancellory—Hitler's Berlin residence—has been destroyed. Next to it is the aviation ministry building. Goering's residence has been smashed by heavy air bombs. The Gestapo building was burned down.

"The Berlin residents are beginning to emerge on the streets after their long concealment in the basements and shelters. Old men, women, children, and people of all ages are beginning to line up for bread. Columns of German war prisoners are marching by, their heads down and a look of hopelessness on their faces. Marching by also are columns of soviet fighters and officers, all of them lively and happy, on their way to the center of Berlin."

radio. Speer advised the Germans to get to work, especially on repairing the railway system, asserting "as far as the enemy allows it or where he orders it, recohstruction work should be speeded up by every means."

He added, "Whether our enemies are going to allow this we cannot yet foretell. The direction of our fate no longer lies in German hands."

[The British Broadcasting system said that members of the Doenitz government were moving to Copenhagen, "indicating that the Germans intend to set up headquarters there." Quoting its Stockholm reporter, BBC said it had "certain knowledge that Doenitz was in Copenhagen Thursday afternoon." The British broadcast, not confirmed elsewhere, was heard by NBC.]

So swift was the disintegration of German resistance and so chaotic the general situation inside the reich that it appeared tonight there might be no necessity to negotiate a formal surrender.

Norway Force an Obstacle

A Stockholm dispatch said Doenitz and his new foreign minister, Count Ludwig Schwerin von Krosigk, had conferred at Kiel with Josef Terboven, Nazi commissioner for Norway, and Werner Best, German minister to Denmark, on the possibility of making a final stand in those Scandinavian countries.

The chief obstacle standing in the way of a declared peace was believed to be the German force in Norway, estimated by responsible quarters at 150,000 troops, which has been strengthened in recent months by aerial delivery of weapons and supplies.

Stockholm heard that negotiations were in progress to bring about the surrender of the Norway Nazis without bloodshed. Norwegian patriots in an order of the day called upon the people to offer no provocation to the Germans which might diminish prospects of an orderly end to the occupation.

Dissolving in Denmark

There was a growing tendency to believe that Denmark could be written off as a scene of a stubborn Nazi stand. A Danish Free Press dispatch declared that dissolution of the German army in that little country was obvious. The Luxemburg radio said that many German commanders were surrendering to the mayors of Danish towns.

Shortly before making their final broadcast from Hamburg, the Nazis announced that Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia, had been declared a "hospital town," or open city, and that "negotiations for the reorganization of the political life of the protectorate have begun."

A British foreign office spokesman said he could not interpret the "political reorganization" remark, but added that if it meant the Germans were surrendering all of Czechoslovakia an official announcement could be expected from allied headquarters. Only 18 hours earlier the Nazi commander in Czechoslovakia had called upon his forces to rally around Doenitz and continue the fight.

Urges Fight in Holland

LONDON, May 3 [Reuters]—Field Marshal Blaskowitz, German commander in chief in Holland, has issued an order of the day urging his troops to fight on in loyalty to Hitler, German "fortress Holland" radio reported tonight.

east two other ports, Bremerhaven and Cuxhaven, were threatened by British columns fighting west of Bremervoerde, which is 23 miles east of Bremerhaven and 30 miles southeast of Cuxhaven.

The Canadian 1st army made a bloodless conquest of Oldenberg, anchor of the line guarding the U-boat bases of Emden and Wilhelmshaven, arranging the surrender by phone.

Five More Junctions with Reds

Five more junctions between the British and Americans from the west and the Russians from the east were made east of Hamburg, virtually ending all organized resistance in the plains and lake country northwest of Berlin.

Hamburg's radio was the first to announce the big port's fall, issuing an order under Doenitz's name declaring it an open city, the first in all the reich to take this easy way out of war.

British troops marched into Hamburg at 1 p. m. The surrender of Hamburg also embraced an arc stretching for 10 miles north of the city.

A dispatch from the United States 9th army front said the once proud German army was dying a shameful death on the Elbe, with generals standing in line to surrender and SS [elite] panzer troops—once the reich's best—paddling rafts or swimming across by the thousands to give up to the Americans before the Russians got them.

Still Fighting in South

There still was fighting in the south as the United States 3d and 7th armies cracked the last bit of German soil still under the nazi swastika.

Gen. Patton's 3d army tanks gained nine miles in Austria, entering Rottenegg, seven miles northwest of Linz, the third largest city in Austria. Passau, guarding the border pass leading down to Linz, was captured.

A fresh invasion of Czechoslovakia was forced at Wuselberg, 30 miles northwest of Linz, and the 3d army now is inside that country as much as six miles on a 50 mile front with advance forces 29 miles south of the munitions city of Pilsen.

When the 13th armored division entered Hitler's birthplace of Braunau, it was greeted by flower tossing Austrians celebrating the death of the man they gave to the world.

In the drive toward Salzburg and Berchtesgaden, the 3d army crossed the Inn river at six or more points.

In gains up to 28 miles, Patton's troops won control of the Inn river for 66 miles.

The closest approach to the two strongholds was at Holzfeld, 25 miles almost due north of Salzburg and 39 miles from Berchtesgaden.

Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army was driving on Salzburg and Berchtesgaden from the west.

Only enemy opposition reported anywhere on the front of the western allies was deep in the Alps, where the 7th army ran into German soldiers defending a pass five miles west of Innsbruck in an area supposedly swept clean of opposition by German unconditional surrender to allied armies in Italy on Wednesday.

NAZI CRIMES AGAINST FRANCE UNEQUALED IN HISTORY, SHAEF SAYS

PARIS, May 3 (AP)—The psychological warfare division of supreme allied headquarters, in a carefully documented study of the German occupation of France, said today that Nazi brutality and cruelty imposed upon the people was "on a scale unequalled in history." This indictment was based on a 13 volume study prepared to "convince possible skeptics that the German atrocities are not just a lot of propaganda."

British and American officers, assisted by the French intelligence, studied the entire German administration in France. These categories of crimes are surveyed: Mass execution of hostages, mass execution of resistance members and suspects, mass reprisals, indiscriminate shooting, and the sacking of towns, and routine methods of interrogation by torture, rape, and miscellaneous methods.

Men and women had their eyes knocked out and their tongues torn from their mouths for no other reason than they were suspected of some unfriendly act against the Germans. There was a case in which the body of a Frenchman had dirt in its lungs—proof that he had been buried alive, the report said.

HAMBURG CITY OF 1,682,220; 1ST PORT OF EUROPE

Hamburg, Europe's greatest seaport and one of the continent's principal airport towns, was founded in the year 808 by Charlemagne. It was destroyed in 845 by Norsemen, who burned it to the ground.

Hamburg had a pre-war population of 1,682,220 persons. It is situated on the right bank of the northern arm of the Elbe river, altho the city proper lies on both sides of the little river, Alster, which has been dammed up and forms a lake. The older section of the city is cut by canals which serve as channels for the transport of goods. The canals are bordered by warehouses.

Hamburg's commerce is almost entirely transit trade. Before 1914 it was the port from which a majority of continental emigrants embarked. Shipbuilding is an important industry and oceangoing steamers of the largest class were built at Hamburg before the war. The free port of Hamburg contains 3,333 acres.

MISS LUCE LINKS CAMP SLAYINGS TO V-1 SECRETS

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [R., Conn.] said today the Nazis deliberately starved and tortured slave labor to death to protect the secrecy of Germany's "V-1" and "V-2" robots.

The congresswoman is just back from a two months tour of European battle fronts which included a visit to what appears from the air to be an abandoned salt mine.

"Deep in the green mountain, our troops found a vast underground network of tunnels, well lighted, air conditioned, full of the finest modern machine tools," she told the house today. "And on its mile long assembly belts they found in various stages of completeness, thousands of V-1s and V-2s—the great secret weapons that might have destroyed Britain, but for D-day. It was a little Willow Run in the heart of a mountain."

NAZIS COLLAPSE IN NORTH; REDS AND BRITISH JOIN

Berlin Reads Pravda

New York, May 3 [Special]—The Luxemburg radio reported the residents of Berlin this morning "read the first issue of the Berlin edition of Pravda," organ of the Communist party in Russia.

LONDON, May 4 [Friday]—(AP)—Russian troops collapsed the last German resistance in north central Germany yesterday, linking with British forces on a 65 mile front south of the Baltic in a 30 mile surge that wiped out a huge enemy pocket between Rostock and Hamburg.

[The Luxemburg radio reported early today that Russian forces were attacking the Danish islands of Laaland and Falster in the Baltic sea.]

At least three enemy divisions surrendered in the clean-up of Mecklenburg province.

More than 10,600 Nazi soldiers surrendered to the Red army alone as Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army and Field Marshal Montgomery's troops joined for the first time between the Baltic port of Wismar and Wittenberge on the Elbe river 62 miles northwest of Berlin.

Join 9th Army Again

At the same time forces of Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army, co-conquerors of Berlin, joined up with the United States 9th army on a 33 mile front west of the Nazi capital.

The junction of allied forces now extends across northern and central Germany on an almost solid 200 mile front from Wismar south to the Elbe northwest of Dresden. A 1,500 square mile German pocket still is holding out west and southwest of Berlin below Brandenburg, but this group was isolated and without hope of relief.

The new junction left only German forces in western Czechoslovakia and eastern Austria in a position to prolong the fight against the Red army.

Reds Clear Poland

On the northeastern fringe of the Germans' tottering southern redoubt, the Russians seized Cieszyn [Teschen] in Poland and at the same time cleared all of pre-war Poland. Cieszyn was captured by Gen. Yeremenko's 4th Ukrainian army, Premier Stalin announced in one of two orders of the day. Approximately 150 square miles of this area remained to be cleared.

Meanwhile, Yeremenko's army was converging on the Moravian war production city of Olmeutz [Olomouc], 128 miles southeast of Prague, in conjunction with Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian army. Yeremenko's forces captured Waltersdorf, 28 miles northeast of the city.

Meet Stiff Resistance

Battering toward the city from the south, Malinovsky's cavalrymen, advancing on a 60 mile front west and east of the Morava valley, thrust within 18 miles of the Olmuetz in a sweep to Krenovice.

Soviet forces were also pressing for a quick mop-up of two other German pockets. Along the Baltic coast the 3d White Russian army under Marshal Vasilevsky dashed 10 miles down East Prussia's Frische Nehrung [sandspit] and blasted within three miles of Danzig territory and 10 miles of the mainland where several thousand enemy troops held out on the plains of the Vistula delta.

Report New Breslau Attack

The German radio said also that Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainians had resumed an all-out assault to reduce the hold-out garrison in the lower Silesian capital of Breslau, now in its 76th day of siege.

In Berlin, another 64,000 German troops emerged from the subways and sewers of the rubbled city to hand over their weapons. More than 134,000 had been counted since Berlin's capitulation and Moscow dispatches said still more were giving up. By Moscow's accounts, 507,000 German troops have been killed or captured in the struggle in and around the capital.

SAUER CROSSING WORSE THAN THE RHINE, SAYS EDDY

Chicago General on His Way Home

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 22 [Delayed by censor]—The war is nine-tenths won, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, commander of the crack 12th corps of the United States 3d army. The Tribune correspondent found Eddy at the 108th base hospital here, undergoing a physical examination prior to leaving for Chicago.

Eddy, a native Chicagoan, expects to be home by the middle of May and will visit his brother, W. S. Eddy, 840 Foxdale st., Winnetka.

Eddy is taking a rest on doctors' orders. Outwardly he looked fine and showed no sign of the physical strain he has undergone without letup since he landed Nov. 8, 1942, in Morocco and commanded the 9th division in southern Tunisia, in the capture of Bizerte, then in Sicily, and then breaking thru the Siegfried line in Germany.

"I felt very dizzy and called the doctor," Eddy said with a grin. "That was my mistake. The doctor found my blood pressure was at the extreme danger point and ordered me to take a rest."

On Move Since August

Since he landed in Africa he has fought and worked without pause and since August, when he took command of the 12th corps, he has been on the move. The most spectacular operations of the corps he commanded were the crossing of the Sauer river near Echternach, establishment of the first forced crossing of the Rhine, his advance across the Moselle river, turning the whole enemy defense of the Saar valley, the rapid advance eastward thru the heart of Germany, capture of the reich gold reserve, and reaching the Czechoslovakia border.

"We could have gone farther had we not been stopped," Eddy said. His group, now the flank of Patton's attack southward, is cutting off the "national redoubt" from the north and east.

Of all the battles he has fought Eddy thinks the crossing of the Sauer was the hardest.

Sauer Current Stronger

In comparison to the Sauer crossing that across the Rhine between Mainz and Worms was easy, as the Rhine current was only one and a half miles an hour while the Sauer was not only flooded but speeding along at between 10 and 15 miles.

Before the crossing of the Sauer he was regrouping and Patton asked him how long it would take him to get ready to jump off. Eddy answered it would take five days. "Take three," Patton said. "And it was three," Eddy remarked. In his crossing of the Rhine he only had 36 hours to prepare.

If Eddy is a corps commander after Patton's heart, then Patton is an army commander after Eddy's heart. "Patton is always two jumps ahead in an attack," Eddy said, "and never gives the enemy time to prepare any kind of defense. I don't think people really appreciate what a great job he did in picking thru the Siegfried line and clearing up the entire Moselle and Saar valleys and then pushing the enemy back so fast he never knew where to form a line of defense."

Eddy disagreed with those who believe nazism has a firm hold in Germany. He says German civilians are fed up with it.

AMON CARTER JR. REPORTED HELD IN NAZI HOSPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ., Germany, May 3—Lt. Amon Carter Jr., son of the Fort Worth, Tex., publisher, was reported today to be a prisoner in a German military hospital not yet overrun by the allies but which may be in Russian conquered territory.

Capt. Henry J. Wynsen of Youngstown, O., and Tech. Sgt. Thomas J. McHale of Dallas, Tex., said they had been reliably informed by prison grapevine that Carter, who had been in their area, was now in the hospital. Wynsen, who studied medicine at Loyola university, Chicago, and McHale, a former Chicago Tribune roto plant employe, were among 2,200 American prisoners liberated April 26 at Bitterfeld.

Edward Beattie, United Press war correspondent captured last fall west of Paris, is in the Russian liberated prison camp at Luckenwald, south of Berlin, Lt. Joseph Peterburs of Milwaukee, Wis., said. Peterburs, shot down 20 days ago while strafing an airdrome with his P-51, said he had seen and talked to Beattie at Luckenwald. Peterburs said he fled the camp without waiting formal transfer.

Sweden to Intern Nazi Diplomats on V-E Day

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 3 (AP)—The newspaper Aftonbladet said today that Sweden intends to intern German Minister Hans Thomsen and other top Nazi legation personnel when Germany capitulates or the allies declare the war in Europe ended. The newspaper said one legation secretary would be left free to handle details such as turning over mine charts. Thomsen was nazi charge d'affaires in Washington, D. C., until the outbreak of war.

BRITISH PLANES ATTACK FLEEING NAZI VEHICLES

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—R. A. F. planes today again attacked fleeing German transports along northern German roads by destroying 300 vehicles and damaging 600 others. More than 3,400 vehicles have been knocked out in the last three days.

At least five German planes were shot out of the air, 22 destroyed on the ground, and 10 damaged.

Despite bad weather 140 American 9th air force planes bombed a large ammunition plant near Stod, 12 miles southwest of Pilsen, said to be supplying explosives to German troops on the northern flank of the United States 3d army. Twelve Thunderbolts bombed and strafed rail yards at Pribram, 25 miles east of Pilsen, while 200 fighter-bombers patroled the 1st, 3d, and 9th army fronts.

ALLIES CAPTURE TRIESTE WITH AID OF TITO'S TROOPS

40,000 Nazis Give Up in West Italy

ROME, Italy, May 3 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today that New Zealand troops, joining forces with the Yugoslavs, had captured Trieste and Gorizia in disputed Istria, at the head of the Adriatic sea. This is the only Nazi-held slice of Italy not commanded by Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel, who surrendered his million-man army in north Italy and western Austria.

[The Belgrade radio broadcast a Yugoslav headquarters statement denying the allied announcement and saying that Yugoslav forces, not New Zealanders, captured Trieste and Gorizia and that the situation "might have unwished for consequences" if not cleared up at once.]

It also was announced that Nazi Gen. Schlemmer, who had defied Vietinghoff's unconditional surrender order, had surrendered his army corps of 40,000 troops pocketed in Liguria, at the other end of the Italian front, and that "fighting has ceased in northern Italy west of the Isonzo river" on the Istrian boundary.

Surrender of the German garrison at Trieste was received at 4:30 p. m. yesterday by Lt. Gen. Bernard C. Freyberg, commander in chief of the New Zealand 2d corps, which made a juncture with Yugoslav forces west of the city after overrunning Gorizia on the Isonzo.

Italy Asks Allied Control

The Italian government's council of ministers tonight demanded that the port remain under control of allied forces, now under Field Marshal Alexander, until the final peace settlement. The announcement came after student demonstrators chanting the slogan "Italian Trieste" had clashed with Communists in front of the latter's headquarters. One student was seriously hurt. Shots were heard but no one was wounded.

Feeling over Trieste has risen steadily since the report several days ago that Marshal Tito's Partisans were fighting the Germans inside the city.

Allied headquarters announced that more than 230,000 prisoners were taken prior to the surrender of Vietinghoff's forces, estimated at almost a million men, and of German garrisons in Istria.

[Secretary of War Stimson reported in Washington, D. C., yesterday that the conquest of the Italian mainland had cost the American 5th army 109,163 casualties up to April 28, including 21,577 killed, 77,248 wounded, and 10,338 missing.]

Allies Appeal to Austrians

Alexander, as supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean, broadcast instructions to Austrians to "foil the last destructive acts of the Germans" in western Austria, which the allies prepared to occupy.

Sid Feder, Associated Press correspondent, reported from the front north of Milan that some American forces were advancing so swiftly in the end that they had lost contact with their bases and continued fighting in some places for as much as four hours after the time set to cease fire, until word reached them of the surrender.

He reported that American forces took the surrender news soberly and their main reaction was one of relief at not having to go on to more mountain fighting just after reaching their first flat land in the Po valley.

ITALIAN PATRIOT SAYS PANIC COST MUSSOLINI'S LIFE

Flight Upset Plan to Provide Haven

MILAN, Italy, May 3 (AP)—A representative of the Italian committee of national liberation suggested today that Benito Mussolini precipitated his own death by panicky flight while arrangements were under way to provide him a haven in Milan.

The liberation committeeman is Ricardo Cella, one time chairman of the Issotta Fraschini corporation. It had been tentatively arranged to give Mussolini shelter at the palace of Cardinal Alfredo Schuster, archbishop of Milan, pending the arrival of allied troops, Cella asserted.

Cella said he made contact early in April with Col. Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel, the German commander in northern Italy, for the committee and met Mussolini at the former Duce's home on Lake Gardia April 15.

Prepared to Sign

The highlights of Cella's account:

Vietinghoff sent word the morning of April 25 to Cardinal Schuster that he was prepared to sign terms between 2 and 4 p. m. that day and headed a motor party toward Milan from Como.

Mussolini was notified and said he was also willing to sign. But the Germans were delayed by a Partisan attack on the road and in the interval the chief of the puppet fascist state lost his nerve, assembled an armed convoy and set out for Como.

It turned out that the Germans had been prepared to surrender only under the conditions: [1] that Mussolini be given refuge in the archbishop's palace, and [2] that fascist families be spared reprisals.

Recalling the episodes of April 25, Cella said he received a summons at 3:30 p. m. to see Mussolini at the prefecture. Cella urged Mussolini to accompany him to the archbishop's palace to sign, and Il Duce finally agreed.

Mussolini in a Rage

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Mussolini's war minister, was summoned. He and Mussolini went to the palace, where armistice clauses were drawn up.

Mussolini left the palace in a panic when the Germans had not returned within two hours. On his return he was confronted by some 500 Blackshirts in the prefecture court yard. They remained coldly silent. In his office, Mussolini turned on Cella. "You've got me in a trap," he stormed and then shouted out of a window to the Blackshirts: "Everything must be ready. We are leaving immediately."

Marshal Graziani reminded Mussolini that it would take time to form a column. During the wait Cella said he believed he had almost persuaded Mussolini to return to the archbishop's palace, but Allesandro Pavolini, Fascist party, arrived to announce the guards were ready. The column moved out.

"Betrayed Again"

Cella said the archbishop later showed him a copy of a proclamation which Vietinghoff had planned to issue to his troops. It said they need no longer obey the Fuehrer, but only their officers, and that Vietinghoff would try to bring their hardships to an end.

Prefect Bassi called Como where Mussolini already had arrived and read the proclamation to him. Cella said he could hear the angry roar of Mussolini thru the earpiece as he sat across the table from Bassi.

"Betrayed again," the Duce screamed. "Betrayed again by the Germans. This is really surrender."

Italy Sets Death Penalty to Curb Rise of Violence

ROME, May 3 (AP)—The Italian government's council of ministers today decreed the death penalty for "serious cases" of assault and for attempts to organize armed bands. An announcement said the measure was adopted because of an "alarming increase in delinquency and acts of violence" following 20 years of fascism and because the country is still "in a state of war."

None in His Area

How a corporal and a general collaborated to ease a predicament that arose over the latter's promotion was learned yesterday by Chicago friends of the high officer, Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the far east air force.

When Gen. Kenney recently was notified of his promotion from a lieutenant general to a full four star general, it was found there was no insigne of that rank in his distant war theater. But the dilemma of staff officers was solved by the ingenuity of Corp. Dale E. Paulsen of Alhambra, Cal., a member of the V air service area command.

Paulsen hammered four stars out of silver coins, and Gen. Kenney was so pleased with the excellent handicraft that he asked the corporal to pin them on his collar.

LAVAL DISMAYED TO LEARN SPAIN WILL YIELD HIM

MONTJUICH CITADEL, Spain, May 3 (AP)—Pierre Laval, former Vichy chief of government, told Spanish authorities tonight he was unaware of Spain's promise to turn over war criminals to the united nations, saying if he had been he "would not have come."

Laval arrived here in a German bomber yesterday and was imprisoned when he defied Spain's orders to leave the country.

He said he was "released" by the Germans from Bolzano, in northern Italy, by a German commander who told him the Nazis were about to surrender in Italy and "since we brought you here against your will you are free to escape if you choose." A German plane and two pilots were placed at his disposal, he said.

Under Death Sentence

Laval strolled along the battlements of this fortress prison today, apparently happy to have escaped Benito Mussolini's fate, even tho he faces probable return to France, where he is under sentence to die.

[In Paris reliable diplomatic sources said Spain probably will turn Laval over to the French government without waiting for a formal request. Such action, these sources said, probably would ease tension existing between the two nations since the recent execution of Jose Vitini, a Spanish national and leader of the French resistance movement, who joined the Spanish Republican underground after France's liberation.]

Laval yesterday demanded to be taken to Barcelona's sumptuous Ritz hotel, but today Barcelona authorities tried to take the Ritz to grim Montjuich.

Served Ritz Food

Not only did vans carry special beds and other furniture up the bleak hillside yesterday but today Laval and his party found themselves attended by a waiter from the Ritz who served them the best food from the Ritz kitchen.

The prison commander gave Laval the freedom of the inner fortress. After lunch his stooped figure was seen strolling the battlements with guards a few steps behind. He was dressed in a black suit, smeared with ashes from chain smoked cigarets. He seemed thinner and even more unkempt than usual.

Mrs. Laval, who was authorized by the Spanish to live where she pleases, remained at her husband's side.

Ex-Premiers to Return

PARIS, May 3 (AP)—Three Frenchmen of pre-war fame are expected momentarily in France and their return may be like a bomb blast in French politics.

They are Edouard Herriot, Leon Blum, and Paul Reynaud, all former premiers of France and all just out of German internment camps.

Herriot, expected to arrive first, comes as a national hero and the welcome his home town of Lyons is preparing may equal any ovation Gen. Charles De Gaulle has received.

Blum and Reynaud return as men who in the past have been blamed in part for France's fall. But they are untainted by charges of collaborationism.

Almost every one believes Herriot will enter the cabinet and many believe De Gaulle will take in all three.

All three would be outstanding personalities in a French government and represent main political segments—Blum, still president of the Socialist party, representing the left; Herriot, still Radical Socialist leader, the center; and Reynaud, the moderate right.

LONDON TOWER CELL HELD IN READINESS FOR LORD HAW HAW

LONDON, May 4 [Friday] (AP)—A cell is all ready in the tower of London for Lord Haw Haw, traitor Englishman William Joyce who broadcast for the Nazis, the London Daily Mail said today.

Asserting that there were reports that Joyce already had been captured, the Daily Mail said the cell had housed many notorious prisoners and that guards were standing by.

The Mail said Joyce will occupy a cell once the prison of Lt. Baillie-Stewart of the Seaforth highlanders, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment in 1933 for betraying military secrets to Germany. After his release, Baillie-Stewart went to Germany and married a Nazi girl.

camp paper, called Barbed Wire News, and organized sports.

"Marine cadets used water hoses and machine guns to pack us in more tightly," McHale said. "When we debarked we were shackled and shipped by box car to Keifheide.

"Then we were forced to run three kilometers [nearly two miles] to Grosstychow camp. All of us wore overcoats. Each had a pack of personal belongings.

Jabbed with Bayonets

"But the marine cadets, running in relays, kept slashing at us with bayonets. They turned their dogs loose on us and naturally we shed our packs and our coats to run faster. Every batch of prisoners as they arrived there during the 10 days got the same treatment and our doctors told me about 100 were bayoneted, clubbed, or chewed by the dogs. One husky Yank had more than 60 bayonet jabs in his back, but the bulk of the men got thru unhurt."

83D LIBERATES 1,200 LONG TIME U. S. PRISONERS

ALTENGRABOW PRISON CAMP, Germany, May 3 (AP)—All the major mishaps that American troops have suffered since the war began paraded in retrospect out of this prison camp this afternoon as the 83d infantry division liberated more than 1,200 long imprisoned Yanks and began freeing more than 19,000 allied war prisoners at the camp about 12 miles east of Magdeburg.

Under flags of truce and by arrangement with a German colonel, commandant of the camp, correspondents traveled 20 miles behind enemy lines with 83d division trucks, ambulances, and jeeps to effect the liberation.

As shouting, cheering Yank prisoners climbed aboard the trucks they were asked where they were captured and their answers told a three year tale of ill fated phases of a war which now spells only success for allied and other American armies.

All Way from Tunisia

"Kasserine pass!" shouted scores. Others told of other places in Tunisia—Sidi Bou Sid and Faid pass and Hill 609.

There were boys from Bizerte and soldiers from Salerno. Cassino's grim crop was represented and several Rangers reported on that fatal night of June 30, 1944, when they struck at Cisterna from the outer rim of the Anzio beachhead and lost two battalions of the nation's crack troops.

Not all were from such long gone battles. Hundreds of happy doughboys—actually grabbing gleefully at K rations for the first time in their army lives—were victims of the Ardennes breakthru last December and January. Hundreds more had spent only a couple of weeks or so as enemy prisoners. They were 2d armored division boys who forced the first bridgehead across the Elbe river in mid-April and then were captured when the bridgehead was lost.

Battles Forgotten.

But nobody was thinking of those times this afternoon as doughboys rushed out of the crowded, louse-ridden prison barracks and listened to the liberation announcement while lined up to climb into trucks.

All the Americans and British and several score others were among those evacuated today—as well as all seriously wounded.

For the most part the prisoners said they had been treated "fairly decently" and especially well during recent weeks. The nearer the Americans and Russians came to the camp, the more the treatment improved.

Chicagoland prisoners released at the prison camp include:

NAZIS EXECUTE EX-CHICAGOAN AS BRITISH SPY

The execution of an American citizen and former Chicagoan, Andrew Magin, by German police in Patras, Greece, on July 13, 1944, was disclosed here yesterday by his aunt, Mrs. Theodore Sarros, 6744 Cornell av., with whom he had resided.

Mrs. Sarros recently received a postcard postmarked March 1, 1945, from a friend of her nephew's which told of Magin's imprisonment and execution as an English spy.

The young Chicagoan returned to Greece shortly before the war to supervise an estate which he had inherited, Mrs. Sarros said. While in prison, he married a girl who had worked with him in the English cause, the postcard said.

LISTEN, HITLER, TRY HOLLYWOOD MAKE-UP TRICKS

Hollywood, Cal., May 3 [Special]—If Hitler is still alive, it would be a cinch for him to evade detection by using a few Hollywood tricks, two film colony make-up men said today.

"If Hitler changed his hair style, the average person wouldn't know him," said Hair Stylist Fred Fredericks. "He should just comb his hair in an orthodox manner and get away from the side part and Veronica Lake bang. Then he ought to shave off his mustache or grow a different one."

Max Factor, make-up expert, also doubted Hitler could be detected if he disguised himself.

"Hitler's face has such commonplace features it's practically a disguise in itself," Factor said.

HUNGARIANS GAY AS THEY SALUTE YANK CAPTORS

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 13TH ARMOR ON THE AUSTRIAN BORDER, May 3—In a jeep tour thru the front and rear lines of the Hungarian army north of here, two American reporters were greeted yesterday by snappy salutes, smiles, and informal waves from unarmed and unguarded prisoners in groups of a score to a couple of hundred in the forested hills and at farms.

With this armored spearhead, which had traversed adjacent territory the day before, we saw a Hungarian government official who had surrendered, and a high Nazi official who had been captured.

En route here from the north, we also saw columns of German soldiers and officers guarded by Americans. The prisoners included Heinrich Himmler's SS elite guardsmen and former air force officers converted to infantry men by Germany's gasoline shortage.

Yanks Advance Cautiously

The drive here from Gen. Patton's 3d army headquarters was thru the 3d army's rear echelon, then thru artillery and infantry units deployed to clean up the enemy bypassed by the armored thrust. The jeep was halted at the infantry front lines where soldiers were cautiously advancing thru the rolling meadows on both sides of the road.

Two army supply trucks sped by and headed into a woods supposedly held by the enemy. Our jeep followed these ration carriers.

In the woods and beyond were abandoned trenches and empty gun emplacements. In the villages women, children, and old men waved and cheered. Hungarian soldiers among them clicked their heels and saluted in the American style except for their broad grins. There were groups of Hungarian soldiers along the roadway. They, too, greeted United States army vehicles with cheers and smiles. In the background were encampments of Hungarians beside streams or beside groups of stone farm buildings typical of this country.

Find Bomb Shelter

In a grove near the road was a camouflaged bomb helter with radio antenna, identifying it as a command post. A couple of Hungarian officers were standing outside, but with the countryside full of the enemy it was no time or place to verify identification. Farther in the rear of Hungarian forces we passed huts marked with red crosses.

The truck driver, noticing he was being followed by a jeep with a press sign, stopped where there were no Hungarians in sight.

"What in the hell has happened?" he asked. "Is the war over?" We did not know the answer.

The Hungarians appeared well fed and well clothed but no weapons and modern transport were seen. Horse drawn caissons were parked without guns. Many wagons and a few trucks were seen. The horses were small, skinny, and uncurried. Shelters were improvised huts rather than military canvas. There were women and children in some of the camps.

Return with Escort

Some of the Hungarians said they had been in Germany, between the Danube and Inn rivers, for about six months. They complained they had been used by the Germans more like labor battalions than soldiers.

For the return drive at night thru Hungarian occupied territory to reach the wireless station, Col. William H. Wood, 13th armor chief of staff, thought John Bryson of Wilmette, Ill., a Blue network correspondent, and this correspondent should have an armed jeep escort, "just in case some SS fanatic hiding in the woods wants to exchange potshots."

We spent most of the rainy night in the Hungarian zone, sometimes lost, and once stuck in a ditch for a couple of hours. The mud and darkness and black-out regulations were the only enemies encountered in the night.

DE VALERA'S REGRETS OVER HITLER'S DEATH STIR BRITISH IRE

BY JAMES SLOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 3—Eire Prime Minister Eamon de Valera today was taken to task from two quarters for his expression of condolence to the German minister in Dublin on Hitler's death.

Prime Minister de Valera

"The forbidding fanatic, who directs affairs in Eire, might have spared us this crowning tomfoolery," said the Star editorially. "We wonder what feelings it must stir in the hearts of tens of thousands of southern Irishmen who have fought and bled with Britain in this war. In 1940 De Valera clung to absurd neutrality. He refused us the use of Eire's ports. By theoretical analysis of the military situation then, Britain was finished. Thanks to the faith and gallantry of all empire leaders except those in Eire it did not happen or the people of Eire would have been long before now candidates for Belsen and Buchenwald [concentration camps]."

Addressing the Paint Research association, Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, said: "If I were Mr. de Valera—thank God I'm not—I'd open my remarks by condoling with you on the passing of a painter."

LISBON, Portugal, May 3 (AP)—The Portuguese government sent representatives to the German legation at Lisbon to communicate its official sorrow at the death of "the German chief of state."

BRITONS SALUTE PLAN FOR NEHRU TO LEAD IN INDIA

LONDON, May 3 [Reuters]—A suggestion made by Sir Firoz Khan at San Francisco, Cal., that Mohandas Gandhi's policies are out of date and that the mantle of Indian Nationalist leadership should pass to Jawaharlal Nehru, has aroused widespread interest in the British political world.

Anuerin Bevan, left wing leader of the British Labor party, said, "This finds a general echo in all socialist circles in this country. Many of us are of the opinion that the Cripps mission would have had a greater chance of success if Gandhi had not interfered at the last stage."

As regards a report from San Francisco suggesting that Nehru, if released from detention, might take part in the concluding stages of the world security conference, it was pointed out here that invitations to the conference were to the governments concerned and that the government of India representatives were at the parley.

Reuter's political correspondent said he had official authority for stating that Gen. Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief of the army in India, had been called to London to discuss military affairs and not to discuss Indian political or constitutional matters.

U. S. TO SUPPLY RUBBER NEEDS OF ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 3 (AP)—Argentina will receive a sufficient supply of automobile tires, tubes, and synthetic rubber to satisfy the country's essential economic needs during the war period under terms of an agreement with the United States and Brazil, the foreign office announced today.

The agreement, designed to promote Argentina's war effort to the mutual advantage of all the united nations, requires that Argentina limit the use of rubber and rubber products to essential needs and prevent sales at excessive prices.

FETE CHAMPION PAPER SALVAGE BOY, GIRL TODAY

Pupils who led Chicago public schools in the collection of waste paper in the four week drive that ended April 20 will receive gold medals and the leading schools will get war production board certificates at a luncheon today in the Morrison hotel.

James T. O'Connor, executive secretary of salvage for the WPB, said that Mario Mastrogiacomo, 5A pupil at McLaren school, and Peggy Jensen, 8A pupil at Peterson school, led the city with collections of 6,554 and 4,367 pounds, respectively.

John R. Robinson, chairman of waste paper salvage, said yesterday that paper salvage must not be allowed to slow down after the war in Europe is ended. The demand for shell containers now is greater than ever before and no cutback is expected when the European war ends, Robinson said.

U. S. CASUALTIES ON OKINAWA RISE TO 16,964 TOTAL

Nimitz Reports 5,551 Lost by Navy

GUAM, May 4 [Friday]—(AP)—United States naval casualties of 5,551, including 1,131 killed, were reported by Adm. Nimitz today for the Okinawa invasion and associated operations. The wounded totaled 2,816 and the missing, 1,604.

This brought total announced American casualties, including soldiers and marines, to 16,964. Nimitz earlier reported 11,413 ground casualties thru April 27. Japanese ground casualties alone exceed 21,000.

[The campaign for Iwo Island resulted in 19,938 American casualties, including 4,189 killed. On Tarawa American forces suffered 2,950 casualties, of whom 913 were killed.]

Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce's 77th infantry division pushed the Japanese back 200 yards, a field dispatch said today.

The 77th replaced the 27th division Tuesday and the 1st marine division, under Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle, relieved the 96th infantry division.

Marines Alone Gain

The fight on southern Okinawa raged in full fury yesterday. Only the 1st marine division reported limited gains. Elsewhere the Yanks were held.

Four small groups of Japanese planes raiding American shipping off Okinawa last night sank two light units of the fleet and caused other damage. Seventeen of the attackers were destroyed.

Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce's 77th infantry division, thrown into the southern Okinawa fight as reënforcement for the 27th division, pushed the enemy back 200 yards on the western flank Wednesday, a field dispatch reported. The advance followed a 1,400 yard salient driven into the eastern flank the same day by Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th division.

96th Kills 7,000 Japs

American patrols moved over the Yonabaru airfield, just north of the town, Wednesday, but made no effort to occupy it until Japanese are cleared from surrounding hills. The marines cleaned out Muyagusuku town, killing more than 50 Japanese there.

The 96th infantrymen, who had pushed to within half a mile of Shuri before the marines took over, were highly praised by their commander, Maj. Gen. J. L. Bradley. He told them they had killed 7,000 Japanese in their sector.

JAPAN ADMITS WINNING IS NOW MORE DIFFICULT

San Francisco, Cal., May 3 (AP)—Japan's political chieftains said today the collapse of Germany would not dent Nippon's determination to continue the war, but acknowledged that loss of their axis partner would make their nation's position "more difficult."

Domei news agency quoted Premier Suzuki as saying "Japan's position in east Asia has become more difficult and her responsibility heavier because of current developments in Germany."

Suzuki said Nipponese military forces were prepared for an expected "golden chance" to defeat America and Great Britain, and summoned them to "renew their determination to crush the haughty enemy completely." Foreign Minister Togo visited Heinrich Stahmer, Nazi ambassador to Tokyo, to express his government's condolence at Hitler's death.

AUSSIE INVADERS NEAR AIR FIELD ON TARAKAN ISLE

Jap Resistance Grows in Borneo Battle

MANILA, May 4 [Friday]—(AP)—Tank-led Australian invaders of Tarakan Island reached the approaches of Lingkas town and the air field Wednesday, their second day on the little port island off Borneo.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today said the Aussies, moving with close air and naval support, expanded their beachheads and drove to within a few hundred yards of the Tarakan air field. They were on the outskirts of Lingkas town.

Unloading of supplies, unhampered by air opposition, proceeded rapidly, the bulletin said.

Bombers Aid Drive

Heavy and medium bombers from the Philippines, flying in support of the invasion operation, struck at airdromes, bivouacs, and defenses at Jesselton, Kudat, Sandakan, and Tawau, on Borneo.

[An oil rehabilitation team, organized by the Netherlands Indies civil administration, went ashore with the troops, the Dutch Aneta News agency reported. The team was equipped to put Tarakan's extensive wells back in operation and thus provide the allies with an immediate supply of oil.]

On Mindanao Island, meantime, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th United States infantry division penetrated Davao City, a major port of the Philippines, as the Japanese garrison retreated northward.

Guns Taken Intact

Apparently the fierce fight that had been expected for Davao City, center of pre-war Japanese activity in the archipelago, had failed to develop. Another air field south of Davao was taken. This was the fourth airdrome seized by the Yanks on the western shore of Davao gulf.

Coastal guns and ammunition dumps were captured intact.

Matina air field, south of Davao, is "under our control and our forces are rapidly clearing small enemy groups from the vicinity of Libby air field," MacArthur said.

Tell How Jap Suicide Pilot Dived on U. S. Hospital Ship

ABOARD HOSPITAL SHIP COMFORT AT A WESTERN PACIFIC BASE, May 3 (AP)—A Japanese suicide plane explosion which wiped out all three surgery rooms aboard this American hospital ship threw 2d Lt. Nurse Evelyn C. Bacheler into the air and onto the stirrups holding a patient to whom she was giving an anesthetic. The patient was killed. Twenty-eight others on the ship also died. Twenty-two were injured.

Miss Bacheler, who is from Pocatello, Idaho, was one of the two nurses working in surgery who survived the attack, 50 miles south of Okinawa Saturday night.

Five operations were in progress when the single engined Japanese plane hit the super-structure deck.

Surgeon Survives

"All hell broke loose," Lt. Bacheler said. "Bulkheads were flying thru the air. I remember being thrown into the operating table stirrups and then picking myself off the floor. Then I started calling the names of the people who had been there in Surgery 3, trying to find out if they were all right."

One survivor was Maj. Dorsey Brannan of Morgantown, W. Va., who was just finishing an operation. The blast blew him thru a porthole and onto the deck.

The Comfort's skipper, Comdr. A. Tooker of Saybrook, Conn., said the suicide plane was first seen while apparently diving for the brightly lighted, Red Cross marked ship from the starboard quarter.

"Apparently," he said, "the pilot decided he was going to miss, because he pulled up on the port side where we could see him against the moon.

Dives Second Time

"Then he climbed to about 500 feet, circled around again to starboard, and dived again. The plane hit nearly amidship."

The plane's engine went thru the super-structure deck, the deck, the main deck, and the second deck.

Tooker said the casualties, nearly all of them in the surgery rooms, were seven army wounded from Okinawa, who were killed; five army surgeons killed, one navy medical officer killed, six army nurses killed, nine army corpsmen killed, and one navy cook killed.

One army corpsman is missing. Nine Okinawa wounded patients were injured, as were three navy officers, three navy enlisted men, three army officers, four army nurses, and nine army enlisted men. The wounded were transferred here to shore hospitals.

OKINAWA MARINE HIKES 122 MILES TO SEE BROTHER

Pvt. Roy Miller, 18, a marine from Lake county, recently walked 122 miles — going and returning — on Okinawa Island to hold a reunion with his brother, Corp. Paul Miller Jr., a soldier.

Letters from both sons telling of the reunion were received yesterday by their parents, who live on Bradley rd., near Libertyville. Roy said his long walk was "just a nice hike," and Paul related the two stayed up and talked all night about home.

The two men last met in August, 1942, at their home. Paul later was wounded by shrapnel on Tinian.

BRITISH BATTLE FEW REMAINING JAPS IN RANGOON

CALCUTTA, India, May 3 (AP)—British and Indian troops in their greatest victory of the three year old Burma campaign today entered Rangoon, capital and chief port of Burma, and began wiping out Japanese resistance in the city only a day after making a sea borne landing at the mouth of the Rangoon river.

Allied prisoners liberated by the assaulting forces said the Japanese began evacuating Rangoon three weeks ago both by land and sea, and only light opposition was anticipated. Airmen flying low over the capital saw a large sign on one building saying, "Japs gone." The Japanese are believed to have blown up port installations.

Bombarded Three Days

Whatever Japanese remained in the vicinity were trapped by yesterday's landings from the Bay of Bengal at the mouth of the river, 20 miles south of Rangoon. Strong allied armored forces driving down from Mandalay were last reported approaching the capital from the north after capturing Pegu and probably entered the city with the sea borne forces today. The seizure of Pegu cut the last escape routes into Thailand for perhaps 30,000 Japanese.

The final two way assault on Rangoon, which the Japanese captured March 8, 1942, was supported by a powerful three day air and sea bombardment of enemy installations and gun positions. Carrier planes of the British fleet joined heavy bombers and fighters in the attack.

The Japanese had lost the bulk of their artillery, air force, and ground troops in the campaign which began after the British went over to the offensive on the Imphal plain after the high tide of the Japanese invasion had carried the enemy into British India in March, 1944.

British Enter Prome

Japanese resistance in other sectors was disintegrating. Nearly 180 miles northwest of Rangoon, British units entered Prome, an important enemy stronghold, and fought their way to its railway station.

Battleships, cruisers, and destroyers bombarded Japanese air fields and other installations on the Andaman and Nicobar Islands in the Bay of Bengal.

COLONEL GUIDES GUERRILLA ARMY FROM MINDANAO

He Settles Down in New Headquarters

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GUERRILLA HDQ., Mindanao, P. I., April 29 [Delayed]—After more than three years of desperate moves from one new hiding place to another, guerrilla headquarters on this island has at last been safely established.

Col. Wendell Fertig

In a bountiful district with a climate like a health resort, Col. Wendell Fertig of Golden, Colo., who disdained surrender to the Japs, has set up a great nerve center from which he can guide his thousands of Filipino and Moro troops in the last battle of Mindanao.

The location of his headquarters is a secret. It is comparatively unvisited by journalists because of its inaccessibility. But it houses enough equipment and personnel to do credit to an army.

Constant Radio Touch

It has rooms full of radios which are in constant touch with the island's 62 guerrilla stations. There are other rooms filled with Filipino draftsmen busy on maps. From top to bottom the organization, with scores of Filipino office workers, is strictly GI.

The Mindanao outfit is generaled under 8th army supervision from the office occupied by Col. Fertig and his chief of staff, Navy Lt. Comdr. M. M. Wheeler, Los Angeles, Cal. Wheeler came in by submarine two years ago.

For over a year the colonel carried his office in his hip pocket. Later he was bombed out of three different locations in a few days. His new setup enables him to roam widely by plane to visit such subordinate commanders as Lt. Col. James Gridstead, Pawhuska, Okla., Lt. Col. Charles W. Hedges, Grand Ronde, Ore., Maj. Donald L. Couvre, Bulger, Pa., and Maj. Paul Marshall.

Most of his approximately 40 American officers have been on Mindanao since the Corregidor surrender. A few, such as Maj. Harold Rosenquist of Providence, R. I., arrived by submarine and traveled alone thru territory which had never seen a white man, before joining headquarters.

Spies on Japs at Davao

Maj. Cecil Walter of Portland, Ore., and Capt. Fred Varney of San Francisco, Cal., once were given up for lost when pinned down by Jap destroyer fire on a narrow spit of land. Somehow, they managed to escape.

Capt. Adolph Sternberg of Helena, Mont., spent months 15 miles north of Davao, the Jap stronghold, reporting by radio upon enemy moves. Capt. John Woods Jr. of Abbott, N. M., and Lt. Clayton Manners Jr. of Tulsa, Okla., spent lonely months near Cagayan manning a secret radio station installed by Capt. Lincoln Dapron, New York City.

At the peak of strength there were 10 American officers. Some were killed, some are missing, and others have gone home. The handful left is determined to stick it out until the last Jap is accounted for on the island.

CHICAGO MEDICS MAKE GOOD USE OF JAP SUPPLIES

Find Enemy Dump on Mindanao Isle

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

KABAKAN, Mindanao, May 1 [Delayed]—A group of Chicagoland medical officers who set up a hospital on a site abandoned by Jap medics a few days ago rubbed their hands gleefully today when a large medical dump was discovered.

Lt. Col. W. E. Looby

Supplies of saline solution were put to work immediately on the few heat exhaustion cases which have developed in the Mindanao campaign. Col. Clifford Blitch of Danville, Ill., and Austin, Tex., commanding officer of the 8th army unit—the 99th evacuation hospital unit—found Jap distilled water, quinine, atabrine, insulin, rubberized fabric, aluminum splints, and other supplies which couldn't be identified until tests are made.

While reconnoitering the area, Lt. Col. William E. Looby of Highland Park, Ill., chief of the surgical service, and Maj. Claude Curtis of La Canada, Cal., passed within 10 feet of a hidden Jap rifleman who later was captured.

In spite of the heat and jungle conditions Maj. Donald Morris of Peoria, Ill., has been bothered by few neuropsychiatric cases in his department.

Maj. Daniel Snydacker, also of Highland Park, Ill., is chief of the eye, ear, nose, and throat section. Capt. Frank Larsen, 1301 W. 71st pl., Chicago, is the detachment commander. The enlisted men include Pvt. George Vanderhulst, 2549 W. Walton st., and Pvt. Michael Bernath, 848 N. Maplewood av., both Chicagoans; Staff Sgt. James Tudor of Sheldon, Ill., and Corp. William Mueller of Melrose Park, Ill.

Go to Palm Beach

Miami, Fla., May 3 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, traveling in a war camouflaged one stacker passenger ship, arrived here today after an overnight trip from Nassau. A few minutes after their arrival they left by automobile for Palm Beach where they will visit friends. The duke resigned as governor of the Bahama Islands on March 15 after serving for nearly five years.

YANKS IN PACIFIC TAKE HITLER'S DEATH CALMLY

ABOARD A UNITED STATES NAVAL VESSEL OFF OKINAWA, May 3 (AP)—When this ship's radio broadcast President Truman's confirmation of Adolf Hitler's death and other reports of the Nazi collapse this morning enlisted men took the news calmly.

"There has been so much big news every day for a couple of weeks now—the whole thing is happening by degrees," said one of the men.

Fireman 2/C Stanley Szelc of Pittsburgh, and Seaman 1/C George Christopherson, 722 East 106th st., Chicago, halted their sparring with the boxing gloves to listen to the broadcasts. "I hope they send our men home from the European theater rather than bring them out here," Szelc said. Christopherson said he thought it would be a good thing to have experienced men from Europe brought out here, but Szelc insisted that men now in the States have had more training than most of the men who went to Europe had received.

UPHOLD TRUMAN VETO OF BILL TO DEFER FARMERS

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 3—President Truman won his first major battle with congress today when the house sustained his surprise veto of a measure ordering blanket deferment of essential farm workers to safeguard food production.

The sustaining vote came after a rough and tumble floor debate in which both Republicans and Democrats warned further drafting of farmers would peril the nation's fast dwindling food larders. It was charged the country is facing "a virtual food famine in the next six months."

A majority of congressmen voted to override the veto but the count was 57 votes short of the necessary two-thirds margin. The vote was 185 to override against 177 to sustain. It would have required 242 votes to nullify the veto.

Veto Unexpected

Truman's veto, which came unexpectedly, was on an amendment to the selective service act, specifying that all necessary farmers should be deferred without regard to their relative essentiality to the army and navy.

The President's veto message declared the bill singled out one class of workers for special treatment, and contended this was contrary to the intent of the selective service principle that each case be judged on its individual merits.

"I do not believe," Truman said, "that it was the real intent of congress that agricultural workers should be given blanket deferment as a group, or that congress intended to enact legislation formulating the national policy that agricultural employment was more essential than any other type of employment, including service in the armed forces of the United States in the protection of our country."

Up to Draft Boards

Today's action leaves unchanged the original Tydings amendment, which requires deferment of necessary farmers who cannot be replaced. Draft officials have interpreted this to mean, however, that farmers may be inducted if their service in the army or navy is judged more important.

Administration supporters, led by Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] pleaded for upholding the veto largely on the ground congress should stand by its new commander in chief.

Rep. Anderson [R., Minn.], taking issue with the President, declared a vote to sustain the veto was "gambling with the food security of the nation."

1,778 Japanese Planes Destroyed During April

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Japanese plane losses in the Pacific and over Japan in April, due largely to the Okinawa invasion, were the highest for any month since last October, which set a record of nearly 2,000. A compilation of losses announced in official American bulletins shows 1,589 Nipponese aircraft destroyed in aerial combat and 189 on the ground during April, a total of 1,778.

BIG FOUR STUDIES AMENDMENTS TO LEAGUE FORMULA

U.S. Proposes 16 Changes in Oaks Plan

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—Leaders in the international conference to abolish war spent the greater part of this day canvassing the amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks peace league plan on which they can agree. To the extent that agreement is reached the task of the conference will be shortened.

The leaders in the all day meeting were representatives of the Big Four powers sponsoring the conference—Russian Commissar Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Eden, Chinese Foreign Minister Soong, and State Secretary Stettinius, together with other members of the American delegation.

Opposed by Russia

The amendments chiefly under consideration were the 16 proposed by the United States, including several offered by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] which pose a dilemma for the framers of the charter of an international organization to enforce peace. Some of them are opposed by Russia, which might refuse to join the new peace league if they are adopted without material modification. On the other hand, if the Vandenberg amendments are rejected, the chances of senate ratification of the charter will be greatly diminished.

At a press conference Comdr. Stassen of the American delegation said that the Big Four had considered about two-thirds of the Dumbarton Oaks plan and the amendments proposed thereto by all the nations in the conference. He said the United States delegation's amendments fall under the following nine heads:

1. The desire to make clear that the international organization to enforce peace shall function in keeping with the principles of justice.

Develop International Law

2. The desire to make clear that the organization shall function in keeping with and assist in the development of international law.

3. The desire to make the development and safeguarding of human rights one of the purposes of the organization and to provide for implementing that purpose.

4. The desire to provide clearly for the possibility of peaceful change of conditions in the world, so that the world shall not remain frozen in any given status.

5. The desire to bring into the charter of the organization a definite system of trusteeships for the disposition and government of territories taken from the enemy powers, territories now under mandate government by the old league of nations, and dependent peoples voluntarily going into trusteeship.

Revision of Charter

6. The desire to provide definite means of revision of the peace league charter in the light of experience in this war and hereafter.

7. The desire to bring the world court into the organization as an integral body.

8. The desire to introduce into the charter of the peace league a specific reference to the Atlantic Charter.

9. The desire to include in the charter the cultural objectives proposed by the Chinese delegation at the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

When not engaged in charting the future of the world the Big Three are still struggling with political problems of the current war. So far they have failed to make any further progress, however, in the settlement of the Polish dispute. Molotov still insists that Russia's Polish puppet government be accepted as the basis of the new Polish government of national unity and continues to reject noncommunist Polish Democrats proposed by Britain and the United States.

Occupation of Russia

On the question of Austria, in which Moscow set up a provisional government without consulting London and Washington, it is reported an agreement has been reached on a tripartite occupation, Russia taking the eastern part, the United States the southwest, and the British the northwest. The British and Americans regard the action of Moscow highhanded, tho it does not appear that they object to the composition of the government set up by Russia.

The American amendment that has provoked the greatest opposition on the part of the Russians is that which looks to the possibility of effecting peaceful change in world conditions, so that the world will not remain frozen in any given status, as Comdr. Stassen put it. This amendment, as offered by Vandenberg, provided that "if the security council finds that any situation which it shall investigate involves injustice to peoples concerned it shall recommend appropriate measures of adjustment which may include revisions of treaties and of prior international decisions." Vandenberg emphasized that it "involves only the power to recommend." Moral suasion only would be relied on to induce the nations involved to revise treaties or prior international decisions.

A failure to provide for the rectification of injustices, such as that Poland has suffered at the hands of the Big Three at Yalta, Vandenberg said would "seriously jeopardize senate ratification" of the charter written at San Francisco. The inference was clear that under such circumstances he would not support the peace league charter and without Vandenberg there would be little hope of mustering the two-thirds majority of the senate requisite to ratification. It was to get Dumbarton Oaks thru the senate that Mr. Roosevelt named Vandenberg to the American delegation.

Senators Reach Frisco; Urge U.S. Ownership of Vital Bases

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—The United States senate moved into the international conference today when a senate naval affairs subcommittee arrived from Washington to insist that the United States be given outright ownership of strategic island bases seized from Japan.

The subcommittee is composed of Senators Byrd [D., Va.], chairman, and Tobey [R., N. H.] and Eastland [D., Miss.]. With the subcommittee came Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] to demand that every nation represented at the conference not only declare war on Japan but provide men and materials to crush her if she does not surrender unconditionally.

The senators came from Washington in a navy plane. Altho they made their trip to present specific proposals, it was understood that their true purpose is to throw the weight of the senate behind the American delegation in making sure that American interests are protected and not subordinated to international idealism.

Byrd Takes Firm Stand

Comdr. Stassen and other members of the American delegation favor trusteeships over the islands taken from Japan. But Byrd was firm in his stand for outright American ownership after a meeting with Stassen and Senators Connally [D., Tex.] and Vandenberg [R., Mich.] of the American delegation.

Byrd's position is that taken by the full senate committee, the first senate group to send its own representatives to San Francisco.

The subcommittee' is proceeding diplomatically, but leaving little doubt that the senate, which will eventually be called upon to approve any agreement made here, is determined to keep a firm hand on American participation in the international proceedings.

"We are not here to dictate," said Byrd.

Persons who heard him said he meant that the senate is inclined to give the American delegation every assistance in presenting the senate's views, but that the full authority of the senate will be used, if necessary, to prevent the United States from being shoved aside in the global deliberations.

Sen. Capehart said the senate has no intention of permitting foreign powers to block American proposals to keep what the Americans have taken when it is necessary to national defense.

Lofty Expressions

Friends said some of the newly arrived senators seemed to have been disappointed in their first view of the conference, with its stupendous and complicated machinery, its lofty expression of world brotherhood, and its bickerings over issues that affect the interests of any individual member.

The senators are quartered in the great brownstone Pacific Union club on Nob hill, where members without spats are almost conspicuous. State Secretary Stettinius outlined the conference's proceedings to the visitors at lunch. The senators then met with others of the American delegation.

Conference figures generally stand in awe of the aloof Russian foreign commissar, Molotov. Byrd doesn't. He said casually that he'd probably call on the Russian chief.

AUSTRALIA ASKS USE OF AMERICAN BASES IN PACIFIC

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—Australia seeks to restrain the power of the Big Five nations to veto peaceful settlement of disputes pertaining to regional agreements. It wants the security council—main works of the proposed new peace league—to consist of nations which are able to deliver military and economic strength, and the general assembly of the league to be given more powers. It is willing for the United States to control the Pacific island bases taken from the Japanese but, reciprocally, it wants access to our bases in the Philippines.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister, in a press conference, today expounded his country's amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks plan and on the vexatious matter of trusteeships for dependent areas, disclosed that Australia has a proposal for a new chapter covering this question.

Access to Dutch Bases

"In the Pacific, United States control of bases north of the equator adds to the security of the United States and of Australia and the whole world," he said. "South of the equator a similar concept holds. There should be reciprocal facilities. Both America and Australia should have access to Dutch bases, and Australia should have access to American bases in the Philippines."

On trusteeships, the chapter sought by Australia sets forth that the main purpose of administration is the welfare of the dependent people and their economic, social, and political development. Evatt was asked whether India, as a subject nation, might be embraced in this.

"India is in the same position as the Philippines," he replied. "The Indian people are moving to complete self-government. In war they have been magnificent. India will become a country with as much self-government as other members of the British commonwealth of nations."

Affect World Security

Evatt said Australia's proposed amendments apply to nine matters affecting world security and economic welfare. One would stop any single great power from vetoing amendments to the charter of the proposed league, if it is twice approved by a two-thirds majority of the general assembly, including three of the Big Five.

The amendments lay stress on justice and law, and upon the economic and social council, which Australia wants to be built into a principal organ of the league with more powers than under Dumbarton Oaks.

Two particular changes on which Evatt dwelt were:

"To see that the security council is in fact composed of security powers, that is, powers which by their past military contributions to world security, have proved able and willing to assume substantial security responsibilities and to make a substantial contribution to maintenance of international peace and security.

"To vest the assembly with power to prevent disputes from becoming frozen in the security council, as occurred in the league of nations in the notorious cases of external aggression against China, Ethiopia, and Czechoslovakia."

Regional Enforcement

On regional security agreements, which are to be under league control, a modification is sought over the veto power over regional enforcement. Australia and New Zealand, he said, remember 1942 when an emergency regional agreement had to be improvised to carry on the war against Japan.

"We must develop a regional plan in the charter," he said, "which will prevent any veto of settlement of disputes by peaceful means. If the security organization breaks down, we should be forced to arrangements of a regional character as in 1942."

U.S. DELEGATES ARE ASSIGNED TO 4 COMMISSIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—Assignment of American delegates to positions on the four commissions which will work out the charter of the proposed league of nations being drafted here by the international conference to abolish war were announced today.

The greatest emphasis was placed upon commission No. 3, which will handle the important security council question. State Secretary Stettinius, head of the American delegation, named four delegates, 15 advisers, and 15 technical experts to work with that body.

Hull Is Appointed

The delegates are Cordell Hull, former secretary of state who is not yet on the scene, Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Comdr. Harold Stassen.

To commision No. 1 on general provisions Stettinius named only three delegates, three advisers, and five technical experts; to commission No. 2 general assembly, three delegates, 13 advisers, and nine technical experts; and commission No. 4, judicial organization, two delegates, two advisers, five technical experts.

Additional Assignments

The other assignments follow:

Commission No. 1—Rep. Bloom [D., N. Y.]; Rep. Eaton [D., N. J.] and Dean Virgina Gildersleeve.

Commission No. 2—Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.]; Rep. Bloom and Dean Gildersleeve.

Commission No. 4—Connally and Stassen.

John Foster Dulles was made an adviser to the American representatives on commissions 1 and 2, and Leo Pasvolsky, expert on Russian affairs for the state department, adviser on commission No. 2 and 3. Artemus Gates, assistant secretary of the navy, is one of the advisers to commission No. 3.

Create Committees

Under the first commission into which the conference work was organized two committees were created—one to deal with the preamble, principles, and purposes of the charter; the other with memberships, the secretariat, and amendments. Later it will take jurisdiction of national and human rights.

Under the second commission, of which Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa is chairman, there are four committees—two on the constitution and functions of the general assembly, one on the economic and social council, and one on trusteeships.

Shall I Have My House Painted This Year?

Read these facts from the Du Pont Laboratories before you paint.

Millions of gallons of paint are still required for direct military uses. Many of the raw materials used in paint-making are scarce because of other war needs. Therefore, the supply of paint for civilian use is very limited. This limited amount of paint is badly needed for exteriors of homes, factories and other buildings which have deteriorated to the point where they must be given protection this year—protection which cannot be delayed. If the paint film on your house is in good condition—sufficiently good to prevent deterioration—painting should be postponed. Don't paint now merely to improve appearance.

What About the Quality of Available Paints? We presume to answer this question only from the standpoint of Du Pont Paints. For years, our chemists have been taking a calm, objective and unhurried look at the whole subject of House Paints. These paints had inherent weaknesses which caused that "divine unrest" in our laboratories—that urge to do something about it.

Du Pont White House Paint today is the result of these years of painstaking research and testing. This House Paint has the same long-time durability and the same "self-cleaning" properties that you were accustomed to in Du Pont House Paint before the war. We have been able to retain these properties in spite of shortages of many of the materials which, for generations, have been considered essential to good paint performance.

Through years of research and testing, our chemists have learned to get the best performance out of the limited quantities of materials that are available today.

NEW DU PONT HOUSE PAINT IS "SELF-CLEANING"

The "self-cleaning" properties of Du Pont House Paint have won thousands of enthusiastic friends.

It starts white—stays white. That's because it contains titanium dioxide, the whitest paint pigment known to science.

Du Pont House Paint is so formulated that, as time goes by, a microscopically fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this powder away, taking dust and dirt with it, and leaving the surface clean and white again. Excessive accumulations of dirt (particularly in sooty industrial communities or in heavily shaded locations) and stains from copper screens may delay or interfere with this process.

Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected. After long months of service, the paint film is in ideal condition for repainting.

Is This House Paint Available Now? Yes, with a nine-year history behind it—nine years in which every phase of its performance has been observed, checked and rechecked. Considering wartime shortages of raw materials, we are mighty proud to be able to offer Du Pont House Paint for the protection of property that must be protected this year.

If you must paint, see your Du Pont dealer. His stock of "self-cleaning" Du Pont House Paint is limited. Our only regret is that Du Pont House Paint will not be available in sufficient quantities to satisfy the huge demand.

Employ a reliable painting contractor. He will be glad to use Du Pont House Paint.

RUSSIA URGED TO DROP BANS ON U.S. WRITERS

Accused of Hiding Its European Activities

Washington, D. C., May 3 [Special]—Relations between the United States and Russia crackled into charges and denials on these three fronts today in the national capital:

1. In the senate Russia was charged with keeping its European activities a secret and was urged to open Russian occupied areas to American newspaper men.

2. In the house Russia was accused of failing to fulfill the Polish agreement made by Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin at their Yalta conference, and President Truman was represented as demanding the fulfilment of the pact.

Deny Russian Charge

3. In the state department Russian assertions that soviet citizens liberated by the western allies were not being treated properly were branded unfounded.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] asserted in a senate speech that this nation's knowledge of what is taking place in a vast section of Russian occupied Europe is "rudimentary or zero." He called on the administration to prevail on the soviet government to permit American newspaper men to visit those lands "so that mistrust and suspicion can be eliminated."

"Suspicion grows on lack of knowledge," he said. "This suspicion will breed recrimination, ill feeling, and even profound distrust. It is believed that the only way in which these evil results can be eliminated is that light should be thrown on these obscure corners."

Restrict Military Missions

Ferguson said the presence of Foreign Commissar Molotov in this country provides an opportunity for the administration to clear up the situation. He recommended that representatives of the American press be allowed to "circulate freely in these lands of eastern Europe," and to report on conditions "with the fullest frankness."

Saying he understood United States military missions in Bulgaria and Romania are restricted in their movements, he added:

"So far as is reported, there are no Americans in Budapest; there are none in Vienna, in spite of the fact that the U. S. S. R., Great Britain, and ourselves united in a policy toward Austria in the Moscow declaration."

No Americans in Poland

Ferguson also charged that as far as he had been able to ascertain, "there are no representatives of the United States—military or press—in Poland."

Rep. Dingell [D., Mich.], who told the house Russia had failed to fulfill its Yalta agreement, said the present provisional Polish government in Warsaw "is communistic, it is not Polish, and it is not democratic any more than Russia is democratic." He described Poland's empty chair at the San Francisco conference as "a monument to the brutal mistreatment of one ally toward another."

"Serves Notice" to Stalin

The Big Three agreed at Yalta that the Warsaw provisional government be broadened to include other Polish elements, but this has not been done. In spite of this deficiency, Russia has been trying to get the Warsaw regime admitted to the world security conference, only to be balked by the United States and Great Britain, backed by the Latin American nations.

Dingell, who had been a White House caller earlier in the day, said President Truman "has definitely served notice upon Russia, Mr. Stalin, Mr. Molotov, and the entire world that he stands uncompromisingly for the fulfilment of the understanding entered into under the Yalta agreement."

Put in Special Camps

The state department's discussion of freed soviet prisoners came in reply to an accusation April 30 by Col. Gen. F. I. Golikov, chairman of the soviet repatriation commission, that the western allies had liberated about 150,000 Russians, but that only 35,000 had been returned home. He also had charged that 800 Red army officers had been transferred to the United States and their whereabouts concealed from Russian authorities.

In its denial the state department asserted:

1. Of the thousands of German prisoners brought to the United States about 4,300 later claimed soviet citizenship and were segregated and sent to special camps for screening by soviet officers.

2. There are no German prisoners of war in this country claiming soviet citizenship who have not been repatriated, except for eight hospitalized at soviet request.

Returned to Russia

3. Those whose citizenship claims were established were returned to Russia as fast as the soviet authorities provided the shipping.

4. The department has "no knowledge of the alleged presence of 800 Red army officers in the United States."

5. There are 118 persons being held who appear to be Russian but who claim treatment as German prisoners under the Geneva convention. They were captured in German uniforms.

The department concluded by saying that American officers have acted within the letter and spirit of the agreement made at Yalta for the repatriation of liberated prisoners.

THE QUESTION

What is the worst job you ever had?

WHERE ASKED

Congress Bank building, 506 S. Wabash av.

THE ANSWERS

Ted Spicer, truck driver, 10230 Aberdeen st.—I'm thankful this was a part time occupation. I took a job moving furniture. I have the utmost respect for movers — respect and admiration I never had before. The better I got at moving, the heavier things I got to move. It was hard, tedious work—I guess I couldn't take it.

Geraldine Hahn, bookkeeper, 6005 Patterson av.—My first job was working at a fountain in a dime store. One day the top flew off the whipped cream compressor. Whipped cream shot all the way to the ceiling and plopped on the floor. That was just one of the messes I made. The job was beyond my endurance.

Ray Dominici, waiter, 6836 Wabash av.—When I came to this country from Italy in 1902 I couldn't speak English very well so I resorted to whatever work I could get. One of these first jobs was greasing pans in a bakery. I did nothing else all day long but grease pans—from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m.—at $7 a week.

Gene La Rue, professional pocket billiards player, 809 N. 27th st., Milwaukee, Wis. — My worst job was an N. Y. A. supervisor—trying to keep order in a group of boys who all wanted to go their own way. At first they were hard to handle and it took all the patience I had to get along with them. But everything turned out all right.

Bonnie Ryan, elevator operator, 737 N. Oakley blvd.—I've had only limited experience as a waitress but I hope I never have to be one again. I used to dream about rattling dishes and long after I'd leave the restaurant I could still hear them banging in my ears. Being a waitress was my worst job.

Jack Gold, linen driver, 4217 Gladys av.—The junk, paper, and old clothes drives that are on now remind me of my worst job. I used to work in a junk shop—at the receiving end of all the junk coming in from all over the city. I can't think of a dirtier or more unpleasant job than plowing thru a pile of junk.

LEFTIST GROUPS MAKE PLENTY OF NOISE AT FRISCO

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—Leftist organizations, many of them hewing to the Communist party line, are here in force at the conference of nations and raising a clamor which has astonished—and in many cases, impressed—the delegates.

The outcries of these groups have been mainly directed thus far against the admission of Argentina to the assembly over the protests of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov. The American delegation has been bitterly assailed for joining with the overwhelming majority which approved this course of action.

The "Vandenberg Policy"

In line with the condemnation of the 31 to 4 vote to seat Argentina which was voiced yesterday in New York by Earl Browder, president of the Communist Political association, the organizations assert that it raises "the ugly question whether the policy of Franklin D. Roosevelt is being abandoned in favor of the policy of Arthur Vandenberg."

Mass meetings are being held almost nightly under the sponsorships of these groups and are attracting capacity audiences. Harry Bridges, west coast labor agitator, whose deportation as an alien Communist has long been sought by the justice department, presided at one in the Civic auditorium last night. Ostensibly a meeting to receive reports on the progress being made toward drafting a constitution for a world federation of trade unions, it provided a forum for attacks upon "fascist minded" opponents of soviet Russia. Vasily Kuznetzov, head of the soviet trade unions, was hysterically applauded.

At the conference plenary sessions in the opera house it has been observed that certain groups occupy large blocs of seats and burst into noisy approval of speeches by Molotov or the emissaries of the soviet satellite nations.

Obtain Recognition

Some of the organizations have obtained official recognition by the state department and appointment of their officials as "consultants" to the United States delegation. Notable among these is the National Lawyers' guild, labeled a communist dominated organization by the house committee on un-American activities.

Martin Popper, whose extensive affiliations with communist front groups have been listed by the committee, is national executive secretary of the guild and its guiding genius. Atty. Gen. Robert W. Kenny of California is its president. At a press conference today, he referred to Popper as "the brain" of the organization.

Popper said the guild was opposing the American Bar association's recommendations on the world court section of the proposed world charter. At a meeting tonight, it will propose to Comdr. Stassen and Sen. Connally, American delegates, that the court be given disputes for adjudication only after a screening process by the security council. If one of the Big Five, such as Russia, objects, no altercation may be given to the court.

Marriage to End

CAROLE LANDIS

Hollywood, Cal., May 3 (AP)—Movie Actress Carole Landis confirmed reports today that she will divorce Maj. Thomas C. Wallace, now with the army air forces at San Antonio, Tex. The actress said Maj. Wallace, whom she married in January, 1943, in London after a whirlwind romance, signed necessary consent papers recently.

U. S. URGED: GIVE INDUSTRY VOICE IN FOOD RULINGS

Before making further decisions on the world distribution of foodstuffs, officials in Washington, D. C., should use the guidance of experienced consultants from industry, Philip P. Gott, president of the National Confectioners' association, asserted yesterday. In addition congress should be urged to require full publicity for all phases of government sugar activities, he said.

"In the light of earlier rulings by Washington and our own experience there in seeking equitable decisions, we wonder if American needs were appraised with sufficient care before these latest commitments to foreign countries were announced by our own government," he said.

"The judgment of food producers and distributors should be heeded in evolving reasonable plans for the distribution of various foods, including sugar and sugar products. We believe this would aid materially in spreading available supplies as evenly as they should be, in proportion to economic needs."

ICKES SEIZES PENNSYLVANIA'S HARD COAL PITS

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—The government tonight seized the nation's anthracite mines, strike bound in a contract dispute.

Acting on orders from President Truman, Interior Secretary Ickes proclaimed that he had taken formal possession of the mines and breakers owned by 363 companies, all located in Pennsylvania.

"A breakdown in wage negotiations threatened a fuel crisis that would impair public health and impede the progress of the war next winter," said a statement issued by the solid fuels administration, headed by Ickes.

Still Deadlocked

Ickes ordered the flag raised above these mines and breakers and mine whistles blown for work Monday morning. [A breaker is an establishment where coal is broken up.]

The operating heads of the coal companies were designated as federal operating managers.

Wage negotiations between the operators and the United Mine Workers remained deadlocked in New York as the President issued his proclamation authorizing Ickes to take control.

Pay for miners' travel time was understood to be the chief barrier to agreement on a new contract. Another meeting of the negotiators was scheduled for tomorrow.

Sought Royalty

John L. Lewis, UMW head, originally presented 30 demands to the operators, but the bulk of these were dropped when the UMW accepted a proposal by Labor Secretary Perkins last Monday. The operators would not agree to her proposed contract, saying it would add 71.8 cents a ton to the cost of anthracite.

One of Lewis' original demands was for a 10 cent a ton royalty, but Miss Perkins did not include that in her proposal.

Principal suggestion of Miss Perkins was that the hard coal miners receive $1.50 as compensation for travel time each day. Anthracite diggers have not previously received the portal to portal pay given to bituminous miners.

Operators Silent

In New York, spokesmen for the miners and the operators declined any immediate comment on the seizure of the mines.

Ickes was directed to operate the mines in accordance with the terms and conditions in effect at the time possession is taken, which would mean under the terms of the old contract.

However, solid fuels officials declared that any wage adjustments "which are approved under the national stabilization policy are to be applied retroactively from April 30," the date on which the old wage contract expired.

Seizes 3 Other Mines

Earlier in the evening Ickes seized three bituminous mines of the Carter Coal company in West Virginia. SFA said strikes in these three diggings resulted from the "company's failure to sign and accept the new wage contract executed by the remainder of the soft coal industry."

That makes a total of 239 bituminous mines now held by the government. The others were taken last month during strikes.

Await Word from Lewis

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 3 (AP)—Pennsylvania's 72,000 hard coal miners generally accepted President Truman's seizure of the anthracite mines as a routine step tonight, but indicated they would take no action pending word from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

SCREAMS ROUT ATTACKER

..Police sought a Negro who early yesterday tried to rob and rape Mrs. Katherine Adkins, 27, a waitress, as she was walking to her home at 4302 Kenmore av. The Negro fled when she screamed for help.

REPORT RUSSIA ASKS MIKOLAJCZYK BACK TO POLISH PARLEYS

[Copyright: 1945: By the New York Times]

San Francisco, Cal., May 3—Marked progress in Anglo-American negotiations with Russia over the Polish issue was indicated today when it was learned that Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Polish peasant party leader and former prime minister of the Polish government in London, has been invited back to Moscow to take part in discussions there on formation of a Polish provisional government of national unity.

Mikolajczyk's selection was disclosed by Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov in conversations with State Secretary Stettinius and British Foreign Secretary Eden. Molotov said the agreement on Mikolajczyk had been arranged several days ago between Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Mikolajczyk, who recently accepted the Yalta agreement on Poland, has become a symbol, in London and Washington, at least, of the kind of officials both governments would like to see included in the Polish provisional government of national unity.

ASK PROMOTION OF RANGER HERO KILLED IN ITALY

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—A posthumous promotion was recommended by President Truman today for Col. William Orlando Darby, who led American Ranger battalions thru North Africa and Sicily.

Darby's nomination as a brigadier general went to the senate despite word of his death in north Italy just two days before the war ended there. It was at Secretary of War Stimson's suggestion that Mr. Truman accorded posthumous recognition of the Ranger hero's exploits. Darby's permanent rank was captain of field artillery.

Killed by 88 Shell

ROME, Italy, May 3 (AP)—Col. William O. Darby, 34, Fort Smith, Ark., who helped organize and then commanded the American Ranger battalions in North Africa and Sicily, was killed by a German 88 millimeter shell as he and his regimental commander discussed plans to attack northward from Benito Mussolini's villa at Gargnano.

The storied hero of nearly every American fighting man in Italy, he had led an amphibious operation to the west shore of Lake Garda as assistant commander of the 10th mountain division.

21,577 YANKS LOST LIVES IN ITALY FIGHTING

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—The 20 month long battle for Italy, ended victoriously by the surrender of German forces there, took the lives of 21,577 American soldiers up to April 28, War Secretary Stimson said today.

In addition 77,248 were wounded and 10,338 were missing, making the total casualties 109,163 up to the last six days of the Italian campaign.

Stimson also announced that army casualties in all theaters since the beginning of the war have reached 848,089 on the basis of names reported here thru April 21. Added to the navy's losses of 102,383, this placed casualties of both services at 950,472.

PICK SUCCESSOR TO PROSECUTOR OF PENDERGAST

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Samuel M. Wear as United States attorney for the western district of Missouri, replacing Maurice M. Milligan.

Mr. Truman, as a member of the senate, fought Milligan's reappointment four years ago.

Milligan prosecuted the income tax violation case against the late Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss of Kansas City.

RAILWAY MAIL UNION SET FOR ELECTION DRIVE

The Railway Mail association of the American Federation of Labor, with 22,000 members, will hold its election of officers beginning May 31. The ballots will be counted June 19 at union headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Robert A. Rice, 3733 Oriole av., president of the Watertown-Portage, Wis., branch of the union since 1939, will open his campaign for the national presidency in the Hamilton hotel Monday night. He will attempt to unseat C. M. Harvey, St. Paul, Minn.

"Since the Railway Mail association was founded to promote the interests of railway postal clerks, we should eliminate any possibility of its being dominated by the postal department," Rice said yesterday.

DEMANDS GIVING TERMS TO JAPS TO SAVE YANKS

Religious Organ Sees Heavy Toll Ahead

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Disavowing any proposal for a soft peace for Japan, the Christian Century, in its principal editorial of the current issue, said that the United States government owes its enlisted men and their families a moral obligation to announce at once a formal statement of terms on which Japan's surrender will be accepted.

This journal, with a wide circulation among many religious groups, said Japan now is defeated and that, since the recent change in government of Japan, "a succession of incidents" has taken place with "only one meaning—Japan knows she is beaten and wants to know how she can obtain peace."

Warns of "Ghastly Price"

"There is no doubt as to the ability of the United States to win an overwhelming victory," the editorial continued. "But if that victory is to require an invasion of the Japanese home islands or of those parts of the Chinese mainland now held by force by the Japanese, a ghastly price may have to be paid."

The editorial recalled that the proportion of 20 Japanese killed to one American was maintained when the Japanese were being fought in the Philippines and farther south, where the Japs are hated by natives. It added that the ratio became two to one on Iwo Island and Okinawa.

"On that basis any father or mother with a boy in the Pacific can figure what American casualties would be in a fight to extermination against 70 million people," the journal said. It added that to many persons the Pacific war "is still a punitive expedition 'to put the fear of God into the little ——.'"

Hideous to Thoughtful Persons

"But not many of these are the Americans whose sons are doing the fighting. Neither are they, save for a few exceptions, the fighting men who are ticketed for front line service. The fact is that the war in the Pacific has reached a point where it is almost impossible to contemplate the hideous prospect."

After asserting that "no soft peace is proposed," the editorial said that the terms might be as drastic as the American government may deem necessary to impose. The writer added that any peace terms that the United States might desire almost certainly would be acceptable to China, the only other major participant in the Pacific conflict.

DEAD SEA AREA HAS POTENTIAL WEALTH IN TRILLIONS, CLUB TOLD

The potential mineral wealth of the Dead sea area runs into the trillions of dollars and dwarfs America's hoard of gold at Fort Knox, Dr. James C. Hollenbeck, archeologist and anthropologist and former resident of the near east, said yesterday at a Central Lions Club luncheon in Hotel Sherman.

He advised that Americans watch developments in the near east because of the area's enormous natural wealth [oil as well as minerals] and because of the political power the Moslem nations can wield thru the new Pan-Arab federation.

"The federation largely controls a vast Mohammedan world of a quarter of a billion people and is coming to have more and more influence in the great reaches of Asia, where two-thirds of the human race lives," Dr. Hollenbeck said.

Both Britain and Russia are active in sponsoring movements in the Arab world, Dr. Hollenbeck asserted.

CONFIRMATION OF HANNEGAN STRIKES DELAY

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan's nomination as postmaster general reached the senate today where a move for an immediate vote on confirmation ran into Republican objections which delayed a vote until Monday. Members of both parties conceded the Democratic national chairman will then be approved for the cabinet post.

Minority Leader White [Maine] voiced objection to an immediate vote which was asked by Chairman McKellar [D., Tenn.] of the post-office committee, but he indicated to reporters that he had no personal objections to the nomination and that the Republicans were not lining up against it as a party matter.

BARES CABINET PROPAGANDA ON OAKS PROPOSAL

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 3—Sen. Taft [R., Ohio] charged today the state and treasury departments are violating federal law by flooding the country with propaganda designed, he said, to influence votes of members of congress.

In a senate speech, Taft branded information issued by the two departments on the Dumbarton Oaks world security plan, the Bretton Woods international money schemes, and reciprocal trade agreements as "straight propaganda and not facts."

Taft reminded the senate that congress, in passing section 201 of the criminal code in 1919, specifically prohibited the use of congressional appropriations to executive departments to pay for any service designed to influence votes in congress. Violators are liable to a $500 fine or a year in jail.

On Tremendous Scale

"There can be little doubt," Taft declared, "that the propaganda of the state and treasury departments is designed to influence members of congress. In fact, it is carried on on such a tremendous scale as to destroy the whole legislative process of intelligent consideration and to threaten the independence of congress."

Taft criticized the state department attempt to tie the Bretton Woods agreements and the reciprocal trade agreement extension act to the Dumbarton Oaks proposals now under discussion at the San Francisco conference.

Taft said he believed the peace machinery devised at San Francisco would be approved by congress but said the state department's insistence on combining the two economic measures with the Dumbarton Oaks plan would provoke widespread opposition to the peace plan.

Notes Wide Opposition

"A large part of the people in this country," Taft said, "are opposed to free trade and the attempt to enlarge the reciprocal trade authority. A large number of people doubt the wisdom of Bretton Woods.

"Why make it more difficult to secure approval for Dumbarton Oaks by insisting that the three be tied together? These economic proposals must be argued on their merits and in the light of the evidence before congress. . . .

"If they are not projects which will appeal to the people over a long period, they ought not to be pushed thru under the weight of a vast publicity organization."

Exhibits Pamphlets

Taft exhibited to the senate a stack of pamphlets he said had been issued by the state and treasury departments, magazine articles written by government officials, printed copies of radio broadcasts, and reprints of speeches on the peace plans and economic proposals.

"While the proposals are set out verbatim," Taft said, "the whole collection is prepared as a prejudicial argument for the proposals. Every argument in favor is stated and no arguments are stated against. The usual propaganda setup of pictures to persuade those who won't take the trouble to read, attempts to convey an idea of perfection."

Sen. Hill [D., Ala.] and Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] rose to defend the administration against Taft's attack. Lucas said he was "not alarmed" by Taft's disclosures and Hill asked why Taft had not proposed a propaganda ban when the department's appropriation bill was voted last week.

"Do you suggest it is necessary for us to include sections of the criminal code, now on the books, in every appropriation measure?" asked Taft.

"No, no, of course not," Hill said hastily.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said that too much legislation coming before congress was based on the opinion of government agencies and not on the "crystalized opinion" of the people.

REPORT BYRNES' ADVICE COST HIM TRUMAN'S FAVOR

Moved In Too Fast on New President

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 3—James F. Byrnes, the man who ended horse racing and slapped the 12 o'clock curfew on the nation as war mobilization director, has blighted his chance of becoming secretary of state, it was learned today.

James F. Byrnes

The ambitious former South Carolina senator and former Supreme court justice wore out his welcome at the White House by moving in too rapidly on his old friend and senate colleague, President Truman.

In pressing advice too heavily upon the new chief executive, Byrnes lost a great opportunity to become secretary of state in the critical post-war period and heir apparent of the White House, as the country is without a Vice President so that the line of Presidential succession moves into the top cabinet post.

Raced to White House

Byrnes raced to the White House immediately after the death of President Roosevelt. He had arrived at his Spartanburg, S. C., home April 9, after resigning as war mobilization director, ending 30 years of service in Washington—26 in congress, two on the Supreme court, and two in war posts.

At the death of Mr. Roosevelt, he boarded a train and was back in Washington offering advice to the new President.

Byrnes had been a contender against Mr. Truman for the Vice Presidency in 1944 and against Commerce Secretary Wallace in 1940. In 1944 he had received a letter of indorsement from Roosevelt, which was overriden by a letter indorsing Truman. Wallace also had a letter of indorsement.

Opposed Slave Labor Bill

Relations between Byrnes and Roosevelt cooled after Byrnes learned his chief was not serious about his Vice Presidential promises. Relations became more and more strained and Byrnes at length resigned.

On his return, Byrnes was in and out of the White House daily offering advice on every matter before the President.

Friends of Mr. Truman, reported that Byrnes' giving of advice irked the new President because it was given in a manner which indicated that the former senator had little regard for his one time colleague's ability to wrestle with the problems of state.

Suggested Byrnes Rest

The showdown came when Byrnes asked Mr. Truman whether he should stay around and continue to offer advice in the critical early days of the new administration. Byrnes was aware he could not be named secretary of state until after the San Francisco conference, because Secretary Stettinius had made all the preparations for that meeting.

Truman advised Byrnes to go back to Spartanburg and get a good rest. Byrnes left considerably crestfallen, according to White House sources.

Another person who moved in on the new President too fast was also sent home. He is Hugh A. Fulton, New York lawyer and former counsel of the Truman war investigating committee. Fulton also raced to Washington on the death of the late President and began making decisions for Mr. Truman. He was firmly but none the less certainly sent back to his law practice.

JUDGES FEAST AS GUESTS OF WOMEN'S BAR

The 37 judges of the Municipal court were guests last night at a dinner given by the Women's Bar association in the Chicago Bar association headquarters, 29 S. La Salle st. It was the first time in the court's history that its judges had beed feted by any bar association. Speaker of the evening was Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler. He told the association that the outlook and training of "ladies of the bar," their understanding and sympathies, "cause them first to see the social implications of legal problems."

CIO VETS CHARGE UNION GAG IN SENIORITY ROW

Dodge Workers Rip Unfair Program

Detroit, Mich., May 3 [Special]—Officers of the newly formed United Veterans of World War II., an organization composed of CIO members who are veterans employed at the Dodge-Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation, have been barred by the CIO union from presenting the veterans' side of the job seniority problem, Robert J. Kelter, president of the group said here tonight.

Kelter, who is chairman of the veterans' committee of local 274 of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO] attended a meeting here yesterday between the corporation and the union, held to work out a veterans' job seniority clause to be inserted in the union contract. Union officials stopped Kelter, one of five veterans on a 15 member union committee, from speaking and the meeting was recessed until tomorrow. Union spokesmen contended Keller was not authorized to speak for the committee.

Complains of Unfairness

Kelter complained that of the 15 representatives sent from local UAW unions of Chrysler plants, "only 5 were war veterans."

"Neither side has yet wholly protected veterans of this war," Kelter said. "The union's plan only protects veterans who are now working in Chrysler plants.

"The company's plan purports to protect veterans by giving them equal work opportunities, but there is much room for improvement. If the CIO union, of which I am a delegate, wants to solve the veterans' job problem, it should throw the veteran question open for discussion among veterans rather than civilian union members."

May Bolt Meeting

Kelter said that after yesterday's meeting he had been told he would be refused a place at the conference tomorrow if he persisted in wanting to present the veterans' views.

Here with Kelter are two other representatives of the veterans' organization, Ben Groffman and Paul Sedlack. Kelter said both of them would refuse to attend tomorrow's meeting unless he is permitted to give the veterans' side of the seniority problem.

WITNESS LINKS FORMER CIO AID TO COMMUNISTS

A last minute witness, introduced in rebuttal in behalf of Harry Morgan in his fight against local 1150, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America [CIO], yesterday linked Ted Baer, 3324 Potomac av., former CIO union organizer, with the Communist party.

Baer testified in Wednesday's hearing before Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court, where Morgan is seeking to enjoin the union from having him discharged from his job at the Chicago Flexible Shaft company under a maintenance of membership clause, that he had not importuned Morgan or others to affiliate with the Communist party.

The last minute witness was Carlo Giampapa, 1832 S. Hamlin av., who said Baer solicited his membership in the Communist party.

DISCLOSE DUTCH STORED UP FOOD FOR YEARS HERE

Tens of Millions Spent to Provide Relief

New York, May 3 [Special]—The Netherlands government's 5 year old plan to relieve the economy of Holland with a store of American food and clothing was made public today by Cornelis Van Stolk, commissioner extraordinary in charge of the Netherlands government food purchasing bureau.

The project was conceived by the exiled Netherlands government in London in November, 1940, six months after the German occupation of Holland. From the start the plan received the support of Queen Wilhelmina. Dr. M. P. L. Steenberghe, then economics minister, now head of the Netherlands economic mission in Washington, is credited with having originated the idea.

Included Stores in Brazil

Under the project, the government planned the economic rescue of its people by commissioning Van Stolk to establish a stockpile of relief goods on this hemisphere; specifically, enough for a four months' supply of food and clothing for the people of Holland.

In 1941 the Netherlands government food purchasing bureau reported it had bought and stored in 65 warehouses in the western hemisphere "tens of millions" of dollars' worth of food and clothing in Canada, the United States, Brazil, Argentina, and Santo Domingo. The supplies included lard, rice, barley, wheat, soybeans, canned oatmeal, tobacco, linseed, soap stock, leather, wool, and cotton.

Special fumigating devices permitted the storage of rice for three and a half years in New Orleans. By manufacturing lard with a special preservative, that also was made to keep for the same period. In the entire storage project there was not one instance of spoilage.

Last January the bureau started to increase its stockpile, making purchases thru allocations from the Anglo-American combined boards. Meantime, in London, the Netherlands government bought more American commodities from a stockpile in England which the United States recently had made available for liberated countries.

Done by 7 Persons

Under Van Stolk, president of the 100 year old Van Stolk's Commissiehandel, grain export-import company of Rotterdam, the entire purchase and storage work of the bureau is done by seven persons.

As a result of its plan as soon as transportation facilities permitted the Netherlands government was able to send its own relief supplies to its people. The first relief ship sailed from England to the island of Walcheren. From the allied shipping pool three ships were allotted to the Netherlands in March, four in April, and seven this month.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR BOY, 16, WHO SLUGGED FRIEND

Horace P. Ramey, sanitary district engineer, signed a complaint last night before Police Magistrate W. P. Gilbert of Flossmoor, charging William P. O'Brien, 16, high school honor student and track athlete, with assault with a deadly weapon. A warrant for his arrest was given to Police Chief Joseph Dineen. O'Brien is being sought.

The youth slugged Ramey in the latter's home at 2149 Evans av., Flossmoor, Tuesday night. Ramey told Chief Dineen he was puzzled over the attack. The Ramey and O'Brien families are friends. The O'Briens live in Homewood.

But what Can I do about the Peace?

KEEP UNITED... to finish the war and win the peace!

"KEEP UNITED MONTH"... April 18—May 18

My sons are in this war—my husband was in the last one. Of course, I don't want another war—ever. But what can I do?

The answer is simple logic:

Keep informed... Keep an open mind... Keep united.

We are winning the war because we have had organized cooperation with our Allies. To win the Peace, we also need wholehearted cooperation with the nations of the world.

To achieve that is the purpose of the United Nations Conference in San Francisco... it should be OUR chance to prevent future wars.

How can each of us help? By doing these three, sensible things:

Keep informed... Keep an open mind... Keep united.

TRUSTEES AND SUBJECT PEOPLES

The trusteeship proposal to be submitted by the American delegation to the San Francisco conference is acceptable in principle. It will give the United States effective control over the Japanese islands which our forces are capturing without any assistance. It also holds forth the promise that the downtrodden subject peoples of western imperialisms may receive encouragement and aid in their aspiration of freeing themselves from the yoke of their white masters.

The Pacific islands which we have wrested from the Japanese are necessary to our security. The task of keeping future peace in the western ocean has been yielded us virtually by default. We shall need naval and air bases to be prepared for any possible aggression. The islands we have taken and which will fall to us upon the collapse of Japan provide them.

This is not to say that the scheme does not contain elements which could lead to future dissension and difficulty. We are not acquiring the islands outright; consequently, we do not possess sovereignty over them. We should merely be the power holding them in trust for a world combination of states which had no part in conquering them. We are asked to make their natural resources accessible on an equal basis to any friendly state, and we are to be required to permit other countries to exploit their trade possibilities.

We have had previous experience with this sort of joint tenancy. In 1889 we signed a convention with the Germans and the British in which a three power trusteeship was established over Samoa. Equal rights of residence, trade, and personal protection were provided, and the Samoan group, altho jointly occupied, were to be neutral.

In practice this arrangement quickly failed. The Germans embarked on an ambitious program of land acquisition which upset the theoretical sharing of control. The position of this country was for a long time ambiguous. It was reluctant to take on the responsibility of control over the islands, altho the natives as early as 1872 had appealed to us for annexation. All that was done was to send an American agent named Steinberger to the islands as "special commissioner." He arrived on an American warship and was unceremoniously hustled off in short order by the British aboard one of their own warships. We contented ourselves with taking Pago-Pago, the best harbor in the group, as a coaling station under an agreement in 1878 with the natives.

Under a new agreement in 1900 the British withdrew from Samoa, yielding the western islands to Germany, while America took over Tutuila and the other eastern islands. A New Zealand expeditionary force in 1914 seized the German holdings and retained them by league of nations mandate. The joint protectorate was clearly a failure and, as was to be expected, was drastically revised by force when war presented the opportunity. No one knows which of our fellow trustees adjudged friendly today may be enemies tomorrow. We can assure our position in a trusteeship only with strong naval and air forces.

The trusteeship plan, however, has a certain advantage in opening up for reconsideration other Pacific islands now held by Britain or its dominions, or by France or Holland. We may desire port or air facilities in some of these islands, now either held outright by other countries or controled by mandate. The governing factor is whether reciprocal rights might be sought by these other countries in Pearl Harbor. Our security cannot permit that.

The difficulties inherent in the trusteeship plan may be tolerated if the conference agrees that British India, Malaya, Burma, the Dutch Indies, and such French possessions as the New Hebrides and Indo-China are granted the right to place themselves voluntarily under a new trusteeship of an association of nations. America, with its record in the Philippines as evidence that we do not seek to hold native populations in subjection, would be glad to give all possible assistance to these exploited people in furthering their aspirations for liberty.

If the colonial powers at San Francisco do not assent to arrangements making the trusteeship principle apply equally to the lands they have been exploiting for decades, if not centuries, we should adopt the position that they have thereby foreclosed the possibility of sharing with us trusteeship over the conquered Japanese islands. They will have showed a lack of good faith which alone could justify the assumption that they are qualified to join with us in bringing peace and an improvement in living standards to the Pacific.

THE STATE BUDGETS

The Republican majority in the state senate is resolved to examine the budget proposals in great detail, with a view to substantial reductions. This is altogether commendable. The state administration has suggested appropriations of more than $600,000,000, a sum larger by a considerable margin than was ever requested before for a biennium, and, on top of that, special appropriations of $127,000,000 from the state's surplus for a variety of public works.

The evident determination of the senators to prevent waste has found an echo in Gov. Green's request to the legislature to drop, at least for the present, all the 42 pending bills regarding pensions for public officials and employes. It begins to look as if sanity is returning to Springfield.

The Republican governor and the Republican majorities in the legislature were elected on a platform of economy. The people voted for men pledged against New Deal extravagance. The officeholders know that and they ought to know, also, that the theory on which the spending programs were excused is probably false and certainly dangerous.

The advocates of big spending have assumed that after the war there will be a prolonged period of hardship and unemployment, in which large public expenditures will be needed to provide jobs. There are no certainties in economic forecasting, but there are probabilities and the overwhelming probability is that when the war is over there will be a brief period of readjustment, too brief for a public works program to make much difference one way or the other. Then will come a period of great prosperity, which may well last beyond Mr. Green's term.

This forecast is founded upon the fact that there is far more purchasing power in the country today than at any time in the past, and the further fact that there is an enormous accumulation of unfilled wants for automobiles, houses, shoes, porterhouse steaks, and everything else. It will take hard work on the part of the New Deal planners in Washington to prevent all this money and all these wants from adding up to an era of prosperity.

If the expectations of good times are disappointed and a need for a public works program is established, a special session of the legislature might then be summoned to vote it. Instead of following that prudent course, the state administration is resolved to undertake a huge building program in a period that promises to have all the characteristics of a boom, including a shortage of materials and labor for private construction [a shortage, incidentally, that will be aggravated by Mr. Kelly's housing program].

The result of all this can only be to inflate an already dangerously inflated post-war economy and by so much to deepen the subsequent depression. Then, having dissipated the state's surplus, the administration at Springfield will have no ready resources with which to provide jobs when they will really be needed.

Fortunately, the determination to prevent a spending orgy has been reached in time to accomplish its purpose, and in time to save the reputations for common sense and prudence of the Republican administration and legislature of this state.

REASON COMING BACK

President Truman has asked congress to disregard a previous request for more than 7 billion dollars in appropriations and authorizations to the maritime commission for shipbuilding. In addition, he has ordered the office of civilian defense terminated by June 30, the end of the fiscal year, and has trimmed 80 million dollars off the budget estimates of eight other war agencies, in general on the grounds that the impending end of fighting in Europe will decrease their responsibilities materially.

This is the first move toward economy in the national government in 12 long and wasteful years. It is an encouraging portent that reason may be returning to the conduct of our national affairs.

Aside from the supreme blessing of the return of their sons from battle, the American people can see little to hope for in the termination of the European and Pacific wars. World chaos is not going to be ended by the destruction of the axis powers. Regardless of what is done at San Francisco, we shall be fortunate if disorder does not actually increase in the period immediately ahead.

About all that we can hope for, aside from the return of the soldiers, is amelioration of domestic conditions and particularly of profligate government spending, which even the present ruinous rates of taxation cannot support.

Astronomical expenditures and the accumulation of the greatest debt in history were made necessary by war. Unfortunately, these necessary expenditures were needlessly aggravated by the profligacy of scores of federal agencies, each one of which, at the outbreak of hostilities, suddenly found itself, in its own estimation, to be essential to winning the war, and on that excuse undertook to expand its operations, its personnel, and its spending as wildly as possible.

The whole history of public administration in this and other countries teaches that it requires at least ten times the effort to get rid of a governmental agency or activity that it does to establish it. For that reason Mr. Truman's action in getting rid completely of one of the silliest of all the war agencies and curtailing the activities of a number of others is even more encouraging than his virtual stop order on shipbuilding, even tho the saving on the burocratic appropriations is little more than 1 per cent of the maritime commission appropriations.

The war time agencies are placed on notice that they are not to regard themselves as permanent arms of the government. They are to trim back now and the implication is that they must wind up their affairs quickly, once Japan has been defeated. This will be a hard blow to the New Dealers, who have been hoping to fasten permanently on the American people the shackles they have forged in the name of war necessity, but it will be most welcome news to their intended victims.

5. Which one of these sets of letters indicates the most urgency?

6. For the benefit of swimmers and other athletes, I am repeating my explanation of Houdini's secret for holding his breath more than four minutes. Follow the instructions below:
   [a] Without preliminary deep breathing, inhale a single deep breath. Hold it as long as possible. Record the time.
   [b] After resting 5 minutes, rapidly inhale and exhale deeply for at least 12 times. Then hold the last deep breath as long as possible. Record the time. It should be at least 20 to 40 seconds longer than in [a]. If so, you are entitled to 2 points here.
   [c] Rest 5 minutes. Then rapidly inhale and exhale deeply for at least 12 times. Hold the last deep breath as long as possible. Pinch your nostrils shut so you have a closed air system. When you begin to feel oxygen hunger, belch and swallow, but with mouth and nose closed. Keep repeating this process, which stirs up the air in the lungs and also taps the aircap in the stomach that may equal an average breath. If your time here doubles your time in [a], you deserve 3 more points.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points].

ANSWERS

1. Man. 2. Bookkeeper. 3. 46 years. 4. Jersey. 5. P. D. Q. 6. By overloading the blood with oxygen by rapid deep breathing, and then by tapping the aircap of the stomach you can greatly increase the time of holding your breath. The belching and smallowing also stir the air in the lungs.

WHEN CARTHAGE DIED

Historical parallels to the fall of Berlin? Ancient Rome has been mentioned, but that is a long, slow tale of periodic surrenders and sackings by Goths and Vandals. We prefer Carthage, whose fall was more dramatic and final. She fell off the face of the earth forever. Want to hear the story?

* * *

The Third Punic war was Rome's planned extinction of her once dangerous rival. Fifty years had passed since the Second Punic war; Carthage had paid off the indemnities and her trade was reviving. A pretext for a new war was found, but Carthage was willing to appease. She met Rome's demands, first, for the surrender of 300 noble children as hostages; second, for the surrender of her navy, engines of war, weapons, and a great quantity of grain. Then Rome gave the thumbscrews a third twist and demanded the withdrawal of the entire population from the city, which would be burned.

* * *

The Carthaginians went mad at this ultimatum. They tore many of their statesmen to pieces, killed Italian residents, and prepared for suicidal resistance. Within two months the city, under siege, built 120 galleys, and filled its empty arsenals with 8,000 shields, 18,000 swords, 30,000 spears, and 60,000 catapult missiles.

* * *

Attacked from land and sea, she held out for three years. Time after time the Roman legions were driven away from the walls on which women, whose hair had been shorn to make ropes, fought beside the men. The defenders grew weak from starvation, and at last a new Roman leader succeeded in scaling the walls.

* * *

Then the Carthaginians fought in the streets and from the houses, block by block, for six gruesome days. The Romans burned each house as it was taken. When the surrender came, only 55,000 Carthaginians were alive; there had been 500,000.

* * *

The survivors were sold as slaves, and the city, by order of the Roman senate, was completely destroyed. It burned for 17 days. A curse was launched against any man who dared to build there. Peace treaty? There was none. Carthage had vanished.

ARMCHAIR STRATEGIST

The commentators fill his busy day
And crowd with breathless words the livelong night;
He charts with pins the last communiqué
And digests each dispatch, however trite.
With eagerness he'll give you "his own" views
(The war once mentioned breaks the too-thin ice),
And, without asking, annotate the news:
What towns we'll take, and when, and at what price.

He's lived abroad or traveled? Why, er, no—
The radio's his one unfailing source.
Today's advance? Yes, sir, he told you so;
Tomorrow's plans? He'll talk until he's hoarse.

Well, Why Worry About It?

I just happened to think that SHERIDAN RD. really starts from the bridge on PINE ST., which is now N. MICHIGAN AV., which at 1000 north becomes LAKE SHORE DR., which at 1600 north becomes STOCKTON DR., which at 2800 north becomes an extension of LAKE VIEW AV., but is, at last, called SHERIDAN RD.

At 3900 north it turns west on BYRON ST. At 1000 west it turns north on SHEFFIELD AV. At 6400 north it turns west on DEVON AV. At 1200 west it turns north on an extension of BROADWAY, formerly EVANSTON AV., and so on to the city limits.

It staggers around Calvary cemetery to utilize FOREST, JUDSON, or HINMAN AVS. in Evanston, and thus reaches UNIVERSITY PL., from which it reels north again on CHICAGO AV. Then, I believe, it wanders west on CENTRAL ST. and north again on RIDGE AV.

It is only fair, however, to state that Sheridan rd. eventually abandons its aliases and goes pretty straight. G. C. C.

A. W. writes: "Is it true that a married woman serving overseas may be returned to the United States if her husband has been sent home for hospitalization or discharge?"

Theater commanders overseas are authorized by the war department to return for duty in the United States any woman officer or enlisted woman upon her request, accompanied by satisfactory proof that her husband has been returned from permanent overseas assignment to the United States for reassignment, hospitalization, or honorable discharge. If a discharged soldier is dependent upon his wife for care or support she may ask for her discharge.

Mrs. K. asks: "If a lieutenant is retired from the army for medical reasons, such as combat fatigue and asthma, what pension may he get and how soon will the pension be paid?"

You have not supplied sufficient information to determine whether the officer is entitled to retirement pay or disability compensation. In either case he would have to be rated by a medical board and then would receive pay from the date his application was approved.

THE FAR EAST MAY SEND US DENGUE

THE laity is gradually becoming familiar with the names of different micro-organisms and often speaks of the strep and staph as old acquaintances. Most of us are resigned to the fact that these pests are with us and that in the battle of life they must be subdued or mishaps will follow.

There are some diseases, however, which are not due to bacteria in the strict sense of the word. Among these are influenza, shingles, and infantile paralysis. The cause is a filtrable virus, so named because it passes thru a special filter and cannot be seen except under an ultramicroscope. It is questionable whether these forms are living and recent research indicates that they have a definite chemical makeup.

Dengue, or breakbone fever, also is of virus origin. Altho it is more common in tropical and subtropical countries, the United States has played host in epidemic proportions on at least three occasions. Dr. Benjamin Rush, who was an observant investigator, described an outbreak in Philadelphia during the year 1780. In 1828, Charleston was attacked. Many of us remember hearing about the 30,000 Galveston cases in 1922.

Man acquires the disorder thru the bite of a mosquito [Aëdes aegypti], which is also capable of transmitting yellow fever. This insect, when infected, can produce a rapid and violent illness approaching influenza in severity. It is a born traveler and is known to be carried on trains, ships, planes, and transports. This probably explains why it makes such an effective carrier.

Symptoms usually develop four to 10 days after the patient has been bitten. There is a sudden onset of chilliness, dizziness, and fever, associated with marked weakness and headache. This is succeeded by severe aching of legs, back, and arms —which makes the sufferer feel as tho his bones were breaking.

On the third or fourth day, the temperature falls to normal and the victim feels so much better that he considers himself able to go about his usual duties. Relief is only temporary, however, because fever and other manifestations return abruptly with renewed intensity. It is at this period that the typical rash develops. The skin of the body as well as the feet and hands is involved. The eruption simulates measles or scarlet fever.

In view of the number of Americans in the Pacific area we cannot overlook the importance of this affliction. Fortunately, practically every one recovers. After the temperature has subsided, fatigue similar to that noted with the "flu" may persist for a week or 10 days. The rash may continue for some time and itching of the palms and soles may be so intense that sleep is disturbed.

There is no specific treatment and each symptom is cared for as it arises. One attack does not prevent others as the malady will recur if the sufferer is again bitten by an infected mosquito. It may be that dengue includes more than one disease, caused by various types of viruses.

PERSPIRING CHILD

B. B. M. writes: What causes sweats in a 4 year old girl about an hour after she is asleep? She gets plenty of cod liver oil but, at the age of 2, she had a positive tuberculin. Should I do anything about it?

REPLY

This child should be examined twice a year, including X-rays of the chest. If no disease is found the tot may be considered normal and treated as such. All of us would perspire at night if our bedding were too heavy and the room improperly ventilated.

DEBATABLE

L. A. writes: Is there such a thing as chronic appendicitis?

REPLY

In my opinion, this disorder exists but does not cause as much trouble as many individuals believe. It may promote indigestion, vague abdominal distress, as well as constipation. Only by removing the structure can proof be obtained. If symptoms disappear, the organ was obviously at fault. This condition should not be confused with recurring attacks of acute appendicitis.

PROTEIN

Mrs. N. D. writes: In chronic nephritis, is a high protein diet advisable?

REPLY

Only in those cases in which the body loses its proteins thru the passage of large quantities of albumin in the urine. When this occurs, the condition known as "nephrosis" develops and marked swelling in the tissues is noted.

Footnote to Tombstone

Historians 300 years from now in their chapter on the annihilation of the German people might ably use, as one of many footnotes, the observation by Dr. Stanley Pargellis, librarian of the Newberry library, in a recent bulletin:

"Books alone keep men from living in ignorance and therefore in fear; without books any civilization which pretends to self-assurance must collapse. . . . That is why a people who destroy their books must in time destroy themselves."

The only For Rent sign noted in the entire Rogers Park area is in the window of an empty office. The For Rent sign is new. The window also contains a dead neon sign. The words on the latter are: "Renting Office."

In the Midst of Death

"I'm two fathers now," began the letter from Chaplain R. W. Barney of the marines to a friend in Chicago.

"James Oliver was born into this dismal world on Tuesday, 6 Feb., 1945. In Roanoke, Va., where he took his bow, it was Tuesday; where I was, it was Wednesday.

"On Tuesday the 20th [Monday where he was], I heard about it. I was in a foxhole at the time, and it was a good place to be. I had just dug the hole and was sitting in it to rest when some one handed me the letter from my father in Boston: 'By this time you will have heard the good news. . . .'

"All the news that day had been bad; the day before it had been worse. I suspected what he was hinting at, tho, and was just about to be unfilial in thought and word, when I saw with relief that he mentioned the name.

"Two days before on the ship I had preached: 'In the midst of life we are in death.' There in my foxhole, in the midst of death, I was suddenly in life. For the first time in two days, I felt joy.

The Ladies in the Pacific

Note from Guam:

"There's a girl here from Vogue magazine. I am disappointed because she didn't come wearing the latest New York fashions. She, too, wears slacks and looks businesslike, but I can't figure out what Vogue can report from here. Certainly the native dresses won't excite the Vogue fashions department. And only the fact that the men wear shorts and abbreviated sleeves could be of any interest to the 'I wonder what I'll wear tonight' school of thought. The navy is a softy, but I am sure they won't let Whiz Bang and Artists and Models or the Police Gazette [if those are current naughty mags] send any correspondents out here."

Enlightenment

At least one warship in the Pacific has maintained a strict policy since the day of its commissioning that officers will wear their collar insignia of rank at all times. This being so, it was something of a shock to one officer lately to find himself having the following conversation with a seaman 2d class.

Officer—You've been aboard over a year now. Why don't you do some studying and strike for a rate?

Seaman—O, I dunno. I'd never get to be an officer.

O.—Why not? Lots of others have.

S.—What were you when you come in the navy?

O.—An apprentice seaman.

S.—What are you now?

O. [after fingering his double barred collar insignia to see if he had forgotten to put them on, which he had not]—Why, I'm a lieutenant.

S.—A full lieutenant?

O.—Heavens, yes. After a moment's hesitation, he added: Do you know what rank the captain is?

The seaman sadly shook his head —negatively.

IRONIES OF THIS WAR

Detroit, Mich., April 30—Since the beginning of this war, I have told many persons that it would end ironically for each nation involved. For instance, those ironies have shaped up as follows:

Russia: Tried to isolate herself from capitalism and now finds the capitalistic western powers clamoring to get on her band wagon.

Germany: Went to war to "save Europe from bolshevism" and winds up being bolshevised.

England: As always her aim was to maintain the balance of power in Europe and finds herself confronted with the most formidable power unbalance on that continent since Rome.

Italy: Went to war to "find her place in the sun" and winds up in twilight.

Japan: Went to war for raw materials and will wind up entirely destitute.

France: Went to war "to save western Europe" and winds up welcoming eastern bolshevism.

Denmark: The only country that refused to fight or to have a government in exile and the only country that was never really conquered.

Switzerland: The most peaceful nation in the world finds herself left out at San Francisco because she loved peace better than war.

United States: Entered the war "to liberate the world" and winds up being enslaved by the world; our lend-lease, our far flung armies, our UNRRA, and a host of other agencies are sucking our resources to the ends of the earth and we dare not stop else it cause anarchy which will engulf us.

WILLIAM CONLEY

INDIAN FAMINES

Chicago, April 30—THE TRIBUNE editorial, "The Atrocity Inquiry," very appropriately recommends that the congressional inquiry into atrocities should be extended to investigate the muffled cries of distress that have arisen from the countries that have been "liberated" by soviet Russia. This congressional inquiry should be extended even further, to include British atrocities in India. In 1943 more than 1,000,000 Indians died of starvation, which, according to the Indian story, was caused by British rule.

British imperial rule has made of India nothing but a land of chronic famines and resultant pestilences which have swept away countless millions. Previous to British rule in India, there was but one famine every 80 years, on the average, thru historic times. Since the establishment of British rule there has been a famine every three and one-half years on the average.

ANOTHER SLANT ON TAXES

Chicago, May 1—Suppose you are the principal owner of a prosperous business. Contemplating what would happen in the event of your death, you feel that it would be advisable to sell a part of your interest and put the proceeds into more liquid form, to keep the estate tax from "playing hob" with your estate. Suppose, too, that your business is one which fluctuates more or less with the general business cycle.

The average person would think that such a deal should be made at a time of general prosperity, yet quite the contrary is true. If the business is sold in a time of prosperity, the profit is much larger, therefore the capital gains tax is substantially larger. At the same time, the prices of the general market securities in which the proceeds of the sale might be invested are up correspondingly. On the other hand, while a much lower price, in terms of dollars, might be realized in time of depression, the general market securities would likewise be down and the net proceeds [after the lower taxes] would buy a larger amount of general market securities.

Where a business is quite stable and its value does not fluctuate as much as the general business cycle, there is every inducement for the owner to await a depressed period to carry out such a transaction.

GREEN CHANGES MIND; NOW HE'S FOR 'GATEWAY'

Approves Amendment to Constitution

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 3 — Gov. Green said at his press conference today that he favors a gateway amendment to the Illinois constitution.

"I wasn't for it before, but I am now," Green said.

The governor refused to comment on the one sided defeat of the constitutional convention proposal, which he had indorsed. The house rejected the plan Tuesday.

The gateway amendment, approved by the house executive committee yesterday, is so called because it would open the way to easier amendment of the constitution. If it is adopted, three amendments could be voted upon at any election and would be adopted if they get a two-thirds majority of those voting on the proposition.

Majority of All Votes

If it is to be adopted at a 1946 referendum, however, the proposed gateway amendment must get a majority of all votes cast at the general election. The governor was asked his opinion of such schemes, expected to be introduced soon, as the "party circle" plan by which a political convention could indorse the amendment and then count all straight ballots for it.

"I think the best method of getting the amendment adopted is for all who favor it to do their utmost to make the people conscious of the issue involved and to encourage them to be for it," Green answered.

Silent on Laughlin

Green said he asked Sen. Giffin [R., Springfield], to be co-sponsor with Sen. Daley [D., Chicago] of the Chicago terminal authority bill which was part of the Kelly-Green legislative program. Daley is Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman.

He refused to answer when asked whether Sen. Laughlin [R., Freeport], the president pro tem., had declined to be co-sponsor of the Kelly-Green bill. Laughlin also has dodged questions, altho his name was on the Kelly-Green traction and housing bills earlier in the session.

TESTIFIES OPA TIRE OFFICER GOT 'GIFT' OF $10,000

St. Paul, Minn., May 3 (AP)—An 18 year old truck tire inspection station employe today testified in federal court that his employer had told him of receiving $1,500 from C. H. Peters, Minneapolis tire man, and that his employer had further told him that Wilke J. Hicks, then OPA district tire rationing executive, had gotten $10,000 from Peters.

The witness, Harold Norris, said his employer, Joseph Lechnyr, former tire inspector, had adjured him to "keep mum."

Lechnyr, Hicks, and Peters are being tried, together with four other men, for conspiracy to defraud the government by creating a monopoly in scrap tires.

Norris said he passed his information along to another OPA tire examiner, relaying also the information from Lechnyr that a "Mr. Nelson," who worked for Peters, was picking up good "condemned" tires for his employer.

W-G-N HAS NEW IDENTITY: VOICE OF MIDDLE WEST

W-G-N has adopted a new phrase of identification. Station break announcements now run: "W-G-N in Chicago—The Voice of the Middle West." The new identification announcement replaces the familiar "This is W-G-N, the Voice of the People," which it had employed for years.

Another group of Chicagoans serving overseas will be heard in recorded interviews over W-G-N at 12:15 p. m. today. They are Lt. Grant Butler, 1004 Highland av., Park Ridge; Capt. Hope E. Miller, 1921 Birchwood av., Wilmette; 2d Lt. Phyllis L. Lackey, 1448 E. Marquette rd., and Corp. Norman Paradise, 1635 S. Drake av.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

G. O. P. ECONOMY CAMPAIGN FAILS TO UPSET GREEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 3—The special Republican senate committee which is enagaged in cutting down appropriation bills, including those of the state administration, won a measure of approval from Gov. Green today.

The governor was asked at his press conference whether he considered the special G. O. P. committee to be usurping the functions of the regular appropriations committees of both houses of the legislature.

"It is somewhat unusual," he replied, "but it is the duty of every member of the legislature to look into appropriations."

Headed by Sen. Simon Lantz [R., Congerville], veteran foe of easy spending, the Republican committee met again today and called in more sponsors of appropriation bills to challenge the amounts sought. Excluding the separate post-war budget of 127 million dollars, the state budget calls for 604 million dollars—an increase of about 84 millions.

NEARLY 15% OF THE NATION'S WAR MATERIAL IS AT STAKE

Every day 1,250,000 men and women shuttle back and forth to the war plants in the Chicago area.

Most of them ride the street cars and buses of Chicago Surface Lines. Getting them to work on time, hurrying them home for the rest they need is looked upon as a personal responsibility by your neighbors in CSL uniforms.

It's a sizeable job in itself in addition to moving the hundreds of thousands of others who step on and off of CSL conveyances each day. With new equipment difficult to obtain and a shortage of manpower brought about by today's unsettled conditions, it often isn't possible to maintain service at the high standard you deserve. Every CSL worker regrets that this is true.

But one thing is certain. These workers of ours know getting men to work is the first step in producing weapons. To help keep Chicago on time with its nearly 15% of the nation's war equipment, they are giving up days of rest, working extra hours other days . . . and doing it cheerfully.

YOU CAN HELP SPEED THOSE WEAPONS—Be a trolley pilot, it's an important war job. To keep enough equipment moving to serve Chicago's warworkers during rush hours, Surface Lines needs hundreds of additional motormen and conductors. Also mechanics and maintenance men are wanted. OPA'S ABOLITION AS UN-AMERICAN ASKED IN SENATE

Truman Is Criticized for Defense of Agency

BY JOSEPH HEARST
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., May 3—Government bureaus were assailed in the senate today when Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] demanded abolition of the office of price administration and Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] charged "it has gotten to the place where these departments in Washington think it is presumptuous for any one to make suggestions."

Sen. Moore

"There has been an increasing feeling in government bureaus to set themselves beyond criticism," Wheeler told J. M. Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, at a hearing by the senate interstate commerce commission. Johnson had written a letter to the Kansas City, Mo., board of trade calling their suggestions for alleviating the boxcar shortage in the middle west "presumptuous."

Defends Right of Protest

Wheeler told Johnson his letter was "ill tempered" and said Johnson's record for extreme statements has been "most outstanding."

Johnson explained that the Kansas City people thought he should turn the railroads over to three people.

"Under our system of government every citizen has the right to petition congress, however ridiculous their suggestions may be," snapped Wheeler. "I've probably had more criticism than anybody in the senate. It is one of the penalties people have to pay for holding public office. But when government bureaus can't be criticized we have reached a pretty sad state of affairs.

Sen. McMahon [D., Conn.] told Johnson he should not write any letters "you would be ashamed to see printed" on the front page of a newspaper.

Mentally Dishonest

Moore, denouncing OPA on the senate floor, also charged that government bureaus are trying to set themselves above the people. He said he refused to believe the mistakes of OPA have been honest ones and said he was sorry President Truman had praised the agency in a statement Tuesday.

"The failure of OPA is founded on the mental dishonesty of those who would change the American way of life," he said. "Its failure is a story of the inflated egos of little dictators who have set themselves up as judge, jury, and prosecutor.

"I am indeed sorry the President is using his office to deter or interfere with congressional investigation."

Moore attributed Mr. Truman's statement to "zeal to allay unrest and dissension on the home front."

Incompetence Hit

"It has from the first operated on the theory that Americans had to be made to conform to war time necessities," he said. "OPA has thrived on the preachment that the rich and the strong would take advantage of the poor and the weak, and this has resulted in driving our domestic economy underground."

Moore said recent senate and house investigations disclosed a "sordid story of incompetence and premeditated efforts to destroy American ideals and American institutions."

"Fundamentally, OPA is a failure because it is contrary to our constitutional form of government," he asserted.

WOLL TO DECIDE JOHNSON CASE ACTION TODAY

United States Atty. Woll said yesterday he would decide today whether the government would appeal from the ruling of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals granting a new trial to William R. Johnson, gambler, and four co-defendants who had been convicted on charges of income tax evasion.

The prosecutor said he was studying the appeals court ruling, which was the tenth in a series of court decisions in the case that has twice been to the United States Supreme court. In its ruling, the appeals court held that the government's chief witness, Atty. William Goldstein, was a perjurer.

Johnson's conviction, which was overruled by the appeals court, carried a five year prison sentence. His co-defendants had been given shorter sentences. All are at liberty on bond.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

May 3, 1945

THE farms have applied for membership in the newly established Chicagoland Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' association. They already belong to the national association.

The Chicagoland group was organized in February for more closely allying Angus breeders in Illinois, northwestern Indiana, and southern Wisconsin. The group became the 100th local association formed under the national organization. The Chicagoland association already has planned for a show and sale on June 21 at the stock yards, and some cattle from the Fox river farm may be consigned.

Blue Grass for Herd

The Fox river herd now consists of 88 cows, 50 heifers at least 16 months old, 38 heifers under 10 months, and five bulls. The cows are fed silage, and during the winter receive hay or straw. Now blue grass pasture furnishes them their roughage.

Despite the large number of pure bred breeding herds in the country, breeders still import a large number of animals from foreign countries to get new blood lines. The war has cut sharply into such importations, however, and of the animals that came in last year 95 per cent were from Canada.

In 1944, the department of agriculture certified to United States customs officials for free entry 12,518 pure bred animals representing 37 different breeds. Of these animals, 15,747 were cattle of 11 breeds, and 3,003 were sheep of 13 breeds. The remaining animals consisted of relatively small numbers of goats, swine, and dogs.

Cattle Imported

Only two horses came from England last year: a Suffolk and a thorobred. From New Zealand came 12 Merino sheep and one Romney Marsh sheep.

Clydesdales led the purebred horses imported out of a total of 58 horses of all breeds. Second to the Clydesdales were Percherons. Holsteins led imports of cattle, with a total of 11,189. Suffolk sheep, totaling 2,057, comprised almost two-thirds of all the sheep imported for breeding purposes.

The foundation of this nation's live stock consisted of animals brought mainly from England in the 19th century. By this time, the various breeds were well established there and were brought over in small numbers by wealthy farmers and stockmen. There are few animal breeds that are purely American in origin; those developed have been a result of cross-breeding foreign types.

GARDENERS are asking if hormone starting solutions, now commonly used on roots of many vegetables at transplanting time, are effective in the transplanting of Bermuda and Spanish onion plants.

Colorado A. and M. college has conducted a series of tests, and concludes that the hormone treatment of onion plants is not worth while. Four of the most popular brands of hormone preparations were used in the tests, and yields were below or only slightly above the yields from untreated plants.

The college tests showed that a starter solution made from standard garden fertilizer [4-12-4 formula] was more effective for onions than the hormone products. This solution was made by mixing one pound of fertilizer with 10 gallons of water, and applied at the rate of one-half pint per plant. Yields from plants fertilized in this way were markedly greater than those from untreated plants.

MORE BLOODY CLOTHING SENT DEAD YANKS' KIN

Portland, Ind., May 3 [Special]—A grief stricken father of an army flyer killed over Italy today told of the shock and additional sorrow thrust upon him by the army's action in mailing home the blood soaked clothing his son was wearing when he died in action. It was the second case of its kind to come to light in Indiana.

The father, J. A. Anderson, local agent for the Nickel Plate railroad, wrote to his congressmen, Sen. Willis and Rep. Harness, in the hope they could prevent similar ordeals being imposed on the parents of other war casualties.

Sen. Willis, in Washington, D. C., immediately protested to the army depot at Kansas City, Mo., which had dispatched the clothing to Anderson. The senator was especially indignant because the first of the two similar Indiana incidents also involved the Kansas City depot.

Anderson's son, Lt. John Anderson, 26, a bombardier, was killed July 22, 1944, on a mission over Italy.

Two months ago a war department investigation was asked by Rep. Ludlow [R., Ind.] after the blood smeared clothing of an Indianapolis artillery captain killed in New Guinea was mailed to his parents. War Secretary Stimson at that time termed the incident deplorable and said steps would be taken to prevent a recurrence.

LOOKS LIKE U. S. CAN KEEP $22,666 IT OWES HITLER

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—Uncle Sam is holding $22,666 in royalties earned in this country by Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf."

After the last war, private property of this sort was returned to its German owners. After this war, congress may decide differently.

Officials of the office of the alien property custodian, which has possession of the royalties, doubt seriously whether Hitler's heirs or his German publishers will ever see the money. They think congress may decide that such funds should be turned into the treasury—perhaps to offset American claims against Germany.

BARBER LICENSE REPEAL ACTION A PUZZLE TO CITY

Passage yesterday by the Illinois house of representatives in Springfield of a bill repealing Chicago's power to license barber shops proved puzzling to city officials, who pointed out that a state law granting this authority has been upheld by the state Supreme court.

The law was enacted in 1937, Corporation Counsel Hodes said. It gave the state permission to license barber shops, but reiterated the city's right to do likewise. This right had been vested in municipalities for years, he added.

Chicago first began licensing barber shops Jan. 1, 1944, under a new city ordinance which was enacted to provide revenue to meet salary increases of municipal employes. C. H. Keller, head of the city bureau of licenses, said the barber-shop fees, assessed at $5 per chair, had brought in $20,365 in 1944 and $16,495 by May 1 of this year.

Legality of the ordinance was attacked in Superior court, where it was upheld. Opponents appealed to the state Supreme court where the lower court's ruling was affirmed.

FUEL OIL RATION NEXT WINTER TO BE UNCHANGED

There will be no more fuel oil available next winter than there was in the season just ended, the office of price administration announced yesterday, and rations for householders, beginning Aug. 1, will be unchanged, the OPA said. James C. Scully, national fuel rationing executive, on a visit here, said householders should fill out application forms, now obtainable at local boards, as quickly as possible, and fill their tanks quickly so that the first frost next fall does not catch them unprepared.

Announcing Schedule Changes

Effective Sunday, May 6th, some important changes will be made in the passenger train time tables of the C&EI Railroad. It is suggested, therefore, that travelers planning trips after that date consult with the nearest C&EI ticket agent or C&EI representative.

The fast "Dixie Flyer" will leave Chicago at 11:55 p.m., instead of 10:05 as formerly. "The Zipper"—to St. Louis and Southern Illinois points—will leave Chicago at 11:30 a.m., instead of 11:00 a.m. Through coach service will be provided on "The Zipper."

Certain local C&EI trains will also be affected by this change.

TAVERNS ADOPT PLANS TO CURB CURFEW CHEATS

Will Offer 3 Proposals for WMC Decision

Organized tavern owners of Chicago, angered over curfew violations by second rate competitors who are reaping a financial windfall, will seek a showdown on the midnight closing problem with the regional war man power commission next week.

A survey in THE TRIBUNE yesterday showed that curfew cheating was widespread. Violators generally were the less reputable bars. The better taverns were found to be obeying the midnight ban. A tavern group official estimated that about 25 per cent of Chicago's 8,000 taverns are cheating from a few minutes to three and four hours.

Taverns to Serve Three Demands

The complaint of the organized tavern people will be carried to the WMC by the Tavern Service club, which has a membership of 3,800. It said it would make a three point demand Monday:

1. That the curfew be strictly enforced against all taverns in the city.

2. Or that it be completely abandoned as unfair and unnecessary.

3. Or that it be eased to permit owners to close all day Monday and to remain open after midnight Friday and Saturday.

Failing in this effort, the tavern owners will call upon Mayor Kelly to order a proportionate reduction in their annual license fees. The annual liquor license costs $880, and the anual special privilege license, permitting taverns to stay open to 4 a. m. weekdays and 5 a. m. Sundays, costs $770 extra. Both are payable semi-annually. Under the curfew, the $770 special license is a complete loss to law abiding tavern keepers.

"All the good tavern owners—and that takes in most of them—want to do the right thing," said William [Billy] Cepak, president of the Tavern Service club. "Under this arrangement, the majority are losing money. The law abiding close at midnight, and they are being penalized by the cheaters."

Estimates 700 Closing

Cepak said that the law abiding owners feel that one way to uphold the curfew without undue suffering among any group is a compromise to close Mondays and stay open to about 3 a. m. Saturday and Sunday mornings. More than 90 per cent have expressed approval of that plan, Cepak said.

Cepak said he and a committee would lay facts and figures before the WMC. The facts will include a wave of apparent closings as indicated by filings for changes of licenses. Cepak estimated that about 700 have thus far gone thru that stage.

Meanwhile, both the WMC and the police department indicated that little in the way of enforcement against cheaters is possible under the curfew setup.

SUPER HIGHWAY URGED BY HEAD OF MOTOR CLUB

Springfield, Ill., May 3 [Special]—President Charles M. Haynes of the Chicago Motor club wrote yesterday to members of the Illinois congressional delegation asking united support of a bill by Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] giving the state full title to the old Illinois and Michigan canal, whose right of way has been advocated as a superhighway route into Chicago.

"It is estimated that about 13,000 vehicles a day will enter Chicago over the new proposed highway and that these vehicles will save 8 miles a day in their round trip and approximately 44 minutes of traveling time," his letter said. "The total savings in time and car operation has been estimated at 93 cents a day.

"Therefore, the motorist living in the southwest suburbs who drives to work in the loop 300 days a year will save in time and traveling expense $279 a year if the I. and M. super-highway is available."

BORRELLI SENT TO IDLE COURT AS RUMORS FLY

Judge Francis Borrelli was transferred yesterday by Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler of Municipal court from the S. State st. court to room 919 in the city hall, nominally a court, but one in which hearings never are held.

Justice Scheffler said that Judge Borrelli's transfer was one of a number of new assignments, and was a purely routine matter. "It's just worked out that way," the chief justice asserted. "I'll probably find something for him to do pretty soon."

Rumors around the city hall were that the "919" assignment had been given Judge Borrelli because of his failure to work with the administration. Judge Borrelli said he didn't know anything about the rumors, but, effective Monday, he would "just go to room 919 and sit."

LEGION ASSAILS GARY SCHOOL UPSET OF R.O.T.C.

Move for National Protest Made

The American Legion in Lake county, Ind., yesterday pressed its fight against the recent order of the Gary school board abolishing compulsory R. O. T. C. training in four Gary high schools and placing the training on a voluntary basis, effective in September, 1946.

A formal resolution, condemning the action as "detrimental to national defense," will be submitted for approval to the Indiana state executive committee of the Legion at Indianapolis this week-end, and referred later, with the committee's report, to national Legion headquarters, also in Indianapolis. The resolution was unanimously adopted Wednesday night at a meeting of the 1st district of the Legion in Lake county. Sixty-one delegates, representing 22 posts with a membership of 5,200, attended.

In addition, said Mor N. Oppman, attorney and commander of the 1st district, a Legion committee will call upon the Gary board next week and ask that the R. O. T. C. order be rescinded.

Move Called Destructive

"This is no time to change the R. O. T. C. program," said Comdr. Oppman. "If the new plan is adopted it will tend to destroy definite qualities of future citizenship. There was, we know, no sinister motive behind the board action, but it was an erroneous judgment."

Gary school authorities stuck to their decision, however. Mrs. Edith Dorman, a board member and treasurer, asserted that "no satisfactory evidence has been presented to the school board to show that the R. O. T. C. developed qualities of leadership that could not be developed by other methods."

Charles D. Lutz, superintendent of schools, said that the board's action merely restored an old training program. Until two years ago, he said, the Gary R. O. T. C. operated on a voluntary basis. Gary, he added, adopted R. O. T. C. training 25 years ago.

"Unfair Element" Cited

"Under the present arrangement there is an unfair element," Lutz said. "We have eight high schools in Gary. Four have compulsory R. O. T. C. training, four have none. Recently we tried to extend it to one of these four, but the government wasn't interested. Thus we have boys at four schools forced to take R. O. T. C. training and boys at four others exempted."

Lutz added that a main argument against compulsion is interference with scholastic training. Dr. Paul Lange, superintendent of high schools, used a similar argument. Physical training, he said, is a state requirement and boys find it a burden to follow educational studies and take P. T. [physical training] and R. O. T. C. Lange said the voluntary R. O. T. C. system would produce better cadets.

FIND FOSTER SON SANE IN SLAYING OF MRS. SMILEY

Big Rapids, Mich., May 3 [Special]—James Smiley, 15, who is accused of the murder of his foster-mother, Mrs. Edna Lindell Smiley, 46, of 1100 Hinman av., Evanston, Ill., has been found sane following a hearing before a sanity commission at the Traverse City State hotspital, Prosecutor Fred R. Everett said today.

Originally scheduled to appear Saturday before Circuit Judge Earl C. Pugsley, the boy probably will be arraigned instead at the opening of the regular court term next Monday, Everett said.

Young Smiley, the foster-son of Clinton E. Smiley, is charged with first degree murder as a result of Mrs. Smiley's shooting in their Echo lake cottage, 10 miles north of here, April 21. When seized in Baltimore, Md., April 27, the boy said he had shot her after a quarrel.

[j. g.] Robert Meyer Matthews of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Matthews of South Bend, Ind. Lt. Matthews, who is on duty in the South Pacific, was stationed at Great Lakes for several months last year, during which time he lived with three other navy officers in the Lake Forest home of Miss Gwethalyn Jones.

Miss Peter attended Ferry Hall in Lake Forest and was graduated from the Warrenton Country school in Virginia. She also studied in France and Italy, and, after making her debut several years ago, she spent two years in Buenos Aires. She has an older sister, Miss Sylvia Peter, and a younger one, Miss Marion Peter.

Lt. Matthews was graduated from Wabash college and received his commission from the naval reserve midshipmen's school of Northwestern university. News of the engagement was told at a small dinner last night in the Peter home. Miss Peter is celebrating her birthday anniversary today.

Mrs. Harry Ecker Grant of Alpine, N. J., announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary, to Lt. On the Calendar

The Arts club will entertain at tea from 4 to 6 p. m. today to open two exhibitions, one of the paintings of Rufino Tamayo, Mexican artist, who lives in New York, and the other of 33 water colors by a group of seven modern English painters. They are Ivan Hitchens, Henry Moore, Paul Nash, John Piper, Ceri Richards, Graham Sutherland, and John Tunnard. None of the artists will be present at the opening, but Mr. Tamayo hopes to be here later. Mrs. Chauncey McCormick will be hostess for the afternoon.

The Cliff Dwellers will depart from their usually conservative standards tonight at the opening of "Gravure in Revolution," described by Paul D. McCurry, chairman of the club's art committee, as "a radical and invigorating exhibit." The showing includes the engravings of 18 modern artists associated with the famous Atelier 17, which had its origin in Paris in 1927 when Hayter, a young artist and scientist, opened his engraving and printing workshop there and drew many widely known artists to his studio.

Carl O. Schniewind, curator of prints and drawings of the Art institute, will lead a discussion on the new exhibit at 8 o'clock following a dinner at 6. The exhibition marks the first Chicago showing of the artists' work and will continue at the Cliff Dwellers until June 1. Previously the group had exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art in New York and, before the war, in a number of galleries in Europe.

Babies Given Place in Week's Style Showings

BY REA SEEGER

A tour of shops during this National Baby week suggests that understanding designers are not neglecting the very youngest Americans; also, that baby clothes and all the nursery paraphernalia is still white and pastel tinted and surprisingly plentiful despite war time limits on clothing. The best and brightest for baby is in the collections. It's tempting to every one — doting parents, prospective mothers, and relatives with gifts in mind.

Little cotton dresses for toddlers, boys' clothes, fascinating miniature sailor suits, English type knitted shorts and pullovers, and the newest long baby dresses for such special occasions as an important christening day are being shown in this widely advertised baby week. Cuddly dolls and soft baby toys are displayed, as well as war time baby carriages, nursery furniture, and precious sheets.

Of course, the tiny dresses steal the spotlight. Even with war time shortages, the collections are amazingly varied and distinctive. The toddler dresses are exquisite, and the last remaining sheers are embellished with narrow lace, fine handwork, tucks, fagoting, and embroidery. Such miniature models are not only eye appealing dresses for your small daughters but assure a desire for dainty dress in the growing years ahead.

Colonial Wars Daughters Will Have Play Reading

Mrs. Franklin M. Miller will read her radio play, "The Scar," at the annual spring luncheon meeting of the Daughters of Colonial Wars in Illinois, set for 12:30 p. m. today in the Chicago College club. Mrs. Charles Shearman will preside.

Stage Note

Milton Weintraub, secretary-treasurer of the Association of Theatrical Agents and Managers, announced yesterday that the Shuberts have agreed to employ a union press agent and company manager for the season of summer operettas to open at the Civic Opera house May 12 with "Mme. Du Barry." The agreement settled a dispute in which the union had threatened to take what it caled "any and all appropriate action" against the Shuberts if union men were not engaged.

Trend Toward Pre-Packaged Foods Grows

Housewives after the war will be finding more and more foods already wrapped and waiting for them in the grocery as the trend toward pre-packaging reaches further into fresh fruits, vegetables, and meats, a survey showed yesterday.

Anticipated growth of self-service groceries, which already comprise one-tenth of the nation's retail food outlets, will provide an incentive for expanding production of pre-packaged foods formerly handled in bulk, including fruit, vegetable, delicatessen, and dairy products, trade sources said. Pre-packaging had made substantial progress before the war in these foods, and a small beginning also had been made in the pre-packaging and self-service of meat.

Advantages listed for the already packaged method of selling include protection of merchandise, convenience and economy of handling, saving of clerks' time, possibilities of sales promotion, and, particularly in the case of meat departments, the use of less skilled personnel for weighing, wrapping, and pricing.

For products such as lettuce, where crispness is important, wrappings of cellophane or similar materials have been used. Apples, tomatoes, plums, peaches, and pears are packed in wooden baskets, paper containers, or mesh bags. Retailers reported this practice has increased sales, saved clerks' time, speeded service, improved sanitation, and, because customers are less inclined to pinch the fruits and vegetables, reduced spoilage.

Before poultry became scarce, chickens already dressed and wrapped in cellophane had attained wide popularity. Chicago packers who marketed them predicted they will gain in acceptance when again available.

The principal drawback to prepackaging of meats was found in objections by dealers and specialized meat cutters that their job would be taken away from them, leaving them merely clerks, if the packer prepared and wrapped the various meat cuts before delivery to the butcher. In some instances housewives were said to object to paying higher prices for meat already cut and boned, altho they might be receiving a correspondingly higher weight of edible meat.

Chicago packers said, however, that they are following closely developments in the packaged meat field, should widespread demand develop after the war.

Thru the Looking Glass

Shine, sheen, glisten, sparkle—call it whatever you wish—but that's what your tresses have to have plenty of this season. The fashion spotlight is on highlights in hair, and if your locks seem a bit on the dull side, better start a polishing program right away.

The shampoo used to cleanse the hair can help add luster to it. We've become quite attached to one which we think does a slick job, not only in the way of cleansing, but in adding a pretty dazzling shine to the hair. Even before you start whipping your brush thru the locks they have a noticeable glint and glimmer which can be heightened to perfection if you're willing to take the time to brush the hair dry after a shampoo.

We're a little ahead of ourselves, talking about results before we describe the preparation itself. It's a cream type of shampoo, about the consistency of cleansing cream, and contains a generous amount of lanolin, which probably is largely responsible for the lights it leaves in the hair. There isn't anything fancy about the packaging but the product can afford to dispense with them and rest on merit alone.

There's economy in this, since it isn't expensive and only a little is needed to give the hair a thoro cleansing. A small dab of the cream scooped out of the jar with the fingers and applied after the locks have been moistened with warm water works up an abundant lather which dispels dirt and grime in a twinkling. One lathering seems to do the job, altho we prefer to use two in order to make certain that the hair is perfectly clean. Follow thru with a good rinsing, and you'll have as satisfactory a hair washing as you could ever want.

Cauliflower at Its Tasty Best with Tempting Sauce

(Other recipes, menus, and food suggestions and news will be found on page 21)

Cauliflower is at its tasty best when served with an interesting sauce. Here it is shown with a flavorful cheese or plain sauce topped with sauteed fresh mushrooms. In preparing cauliflower, soak it, head down, in cold salted water (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water) for ½ hour to remove any insects. Separate into flowerets, drop into boiling salted water, and cook 10 to 12 minutes, or until barely tender. Avoid over cooking as this spoils color, flavor, and texture. Drain cauliflower and serve with sauce.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Buzz

Men complain about white collar girls applying lipstick, combing the hair, powdering, and primping in public. News now comes of a loop office where at least one executive gets out his electric razor at 5 each afternoon so he can look neat as the ads when he leaves the office. "Every afternoon we hear it whirring away," says our informer, adding, "We get quite a buzz out of it."

Flag of Truce

Perhaps many of the WCG's battles arise from three causes: [1] She takes criticism as a personal affront; [2] she fusses too much over the boss' vocabulary and crows to others when he depends on her to catch errors; [3] her interpretation of the boss' instruction to "transcribe what I dictate" is different from his intention.

If the boss remarks dispassionately that she is mistaken about something, instead of saying quietly, "I'll look it up," the sparks fly, tears flow, and she wails about "the fight" for a week.

If the WCG misunderstands an important sentence and revamps it to suit her taste, she bristles with chagrin if asked to correct the letters. She forgets the Head Man must make corrections or he won't make money. No money—no salary for her! She forgets that she wouldn't like it too well if some one entered her home and rearranged her table set for company! Maybe the boss doesn't like to have some one a third of his age and half his weight rearrange his literary style!

And maybe it's the part of wisdom not to change the boss' wording of his old favorite, "In reply to yours of the 5th inst . . ." for if the White Collar Girl gets it too unnatural [for him] the customer is likely to think: "Hmm. Frank must be out of town. He never wrote that gem. Guess we'd better buy our 5,000 knives from Bob. He can give our order his personal attention."

When the boss says, "Transcribe what I dictate," he doesn't mean mixed tenses or six sentences strung together like a necklace with connecting "uhs." But if he painstakingly dictates "consists in," or "20 head of cattle," he means exactly that, no "consists of" or "20 heads."

Usually, if the boss remembers his right hand maiden must guess at indistinct words, and the WCG remembers to develop a thicker skin, preserve her boss' style, transcribe intelligently—well, then—there's no battle—and nobody needs a flag of truce.

Sally Is Asked to Obtain Suit for Elderly Man

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

We hope a reader can supply a suit for Mr. W., an elderly man. Because of the nature of a long illness from which he is recovering, only certain types of work are suitable for him, and his earning capacity therefore is limited. His letter, in part, follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am sorry to have to appeal to you again, but I am badly in need of a suit, size 38. You obtained clothing for me two years ago, which is now completely worn out. My position pays me just enough to live, and the purchase of a suit is beyond my means, altho it is necessary that I maintain a neat appearance. I am thankful that I am able to work every day. You have been kind to me, since, as a tubercular patient in a nearby institution, I first appealed to you for aid."

J. H., a former merchant seaman, also has requested our aid in obtaining clothing. While on furlough en route to his home port, he suffered an accident which, after months of hospitalization, cost him his lower left leg. Despite the amputation, his enforced inactivity caused a considerable gain of weight, and since friends have been unable to assist him with sufficiently large clothing, he hopes one of our readers will be able to supply a suit and topcoat, size 46. He is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 230 pounds.

Munsel's Bewitching Queen and Harrell's Lovable Dodon Add Charm to Satirical Fairy Tale

"THE GOLDEN COCKEREL"

Opera by Nicolas Rimsky-Korsakoff, with English text by Tatiana Balkoff Browne, based on Vladimir Bielsky's version of the Pushkin story. Presented by the Metropolitan Opera association in the Civic Opera house Thursday evening, May 3, 1945.

THE CAST

The Queen of Shemakhan . . . Patrice Munsel
Tsar Dodon . . . Mack Harrell
Polkan . . . John Gurney
Prince Guidon . . . Richard Manning
Prince Afron . . . Hugh Thompson
Amelfa . . . Margaret Harshaw
The Astrologer . . . Anthony Marlowe
The Voice of the Cockerel . Thelma Votipka
Dances from "Scheherazade," with Mary Smith, Ilona Murai, Leon Varkas, Michael Arshansky, Louis Rosen.
Conductor . . . Emil Cooper

Once upon a time there was a singing troupe known as the Metropolitan Opera and—wonder of wonders—it had two beautiful coloratura sopranos with unprecedented waistlines. A little dazed by such wealth, but determined to do it justice, and fully aware of the brief list of operas willing to coöperate in the matter of uninhibited costumes, the management admitted that one of the gifted girls had priority rights on "Lakmé," and came up proudly with a revival of "The Golden Cockerel" for the other. And as far as I was concerned, it was a fine idea.

As a whole, this production of Rimsky-Korsakoff's satirical fairy tale is no rival for Fokine's superb ballet, simply because dancers have all the edge on exotic appearance, sumptuous surroundings and eloquent mime. But it had in Patrice Munsel a bewitching Queen of Shamakhan, in Mack Harrell a lovable buffoon who understood that Dodon, like Falstaff, is really a tragic figure, and in Emil Cooper a Russian conductor who felt in his fingertips the lovely oriental curves and curliques of the delectable score.

Times certainly have changed for the Russians. When Rimsky wrote the opera, it was too near the loss of the Russo-Japanese war for the government to countenance the wry jibes at a doddering tsar who went sadly and creakily away to war, cowering behind a rusty shield and doing his best to handle a broadsword that threatened momentarily to disprove Ko-Ko's assertion that self-decapitation isn't easy. In May of 1945 when you see Russian legions quaking on the eve of battle, you know it's a fairy tale, with more burlesque that satire.

So I'm not disposed to quarrel with the broad burlesque of the new English adaptation for that and at least two other reasons. One, that I can't read Russian and have no idea how far this version is from the original, and two, that I couldn't understand more than one word in 10, anyway. Opera in English is a wonderful theory, but in practice, it's gibberish in the unknown tongue.

No matter—the story of the fatuous old tsar's enslavement by the oriental queen, and his death when he refuses her to the astrologer who wants her in payment for the golden cockerel may be subtle in implication, but is miles wide in fact. The satirical confusion in war making is lost in the first act, but there is no confusion at all about the love making in the second. Miss Munsel, a ravishing siren with just the faint touch of the repellent that keeps the role in character, sang the delicate arabesques that make her whole role one "Hymn to the Sun" with a lovely mixture of the remote, the calculating, the spontaneous, and the mischievous. It was Baranova's dancing Queen she mimed, with sound. Mr. Harrell succumbed with a touching exhibition of a fat old man who really knew better making a fool of himself.

Mr. Gurney was something more than a man in costume as Polkan, and Mr. Thompson suggested an idea of what it was all about. Miss Votipka sang the voice of the cockerel well, tho the trumpet made the song its unforgettable own, and the ballet was mildly decorative without being in any danger of obscuring Miss Munsel's place in the operatic sun. With any luck at all, she shouldn't go into eclipse for many a melodious season.

Good Physical Care Vital to Baby's Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In connection with the observance of Baby week, there can be no denying that every baby receives an endowment at birth from his forbears. Some, to be sure, get off to a better start than others. But under normal conditions, and if you've done your part for the months before your little child was born, then your fine, intelligent physical care of him or her during babyhood will build a healthy body.

This start in life is twofold in its benefits. However, only one result can be seen: the healthy, firm bodied, clear eyed, active baby. The other result is invisible because it is in the future. But our medical and research men say that the effects of a healthy babyhood and childhood reach into maturity. The child who has had a good start reaps the benefit all thru life. So your efforts produce the twofold effect I mentioned.

But to many parents raising a healthy baby is enough. If they can see their baby son or daughter thrive, they may be willing to let the future take care of itself. But if they are feeding their baby all the food he requires, containing all the minerals, proteins, vitamins, calories, and so forth, that his terrific growth need require, they are taking care of his future physical welfare, too.

The nutritionists and pediatricians have worked this all out for you. With the wonderful pureed vegetables and fruits and meat soups available, milk in various forms, baby cereals, concentrates of cod liver oil, and so forth, a mother has no lack of knowledge excuse for not feeding her baby well. In fact, information about his whole physical care is available thru reading, baby stations, and clinics.

But there is more to baby care than that. Some one—I've forgotten who at the moment—said, "Healthy babies are happy babies." That is one of those epigrammatical statements which sounds wonderful and makes people nod their heads in agreement. But it is only a half-truth.

'Midsummer Nightmare' . . . . . By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma furniture factory now makes gliders and is in charge of Dirk Adams, to whom Winnie is engaged. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a motor for a new type of car, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, chief owner of a car body company. Sen. North is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley. Jason Kimball handles publicity. Winnie leaves an envelope containing money at Hilda Jennesma Paradine's cottage. Hilda claims some of the money is missing. Next morning Hilda is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. Olivia is summoned. Sen. North, in love with her, proposes, offering the protection of his position, but she refuses. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him that Olivia went downstairs during the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. North knew of this accusation when he proposed. There are no fingerprints on the knife. Hilda was jealous of Winnie. The missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom. Kimball believes it was planted there. He has no knowledge of an unsigned telegram to James Kimball. Eddie Paradine heard nothing during the night, nor is he aware of the terms of Hilda's will. Winnie returns Dirk's ring. Kimball thinks Hilda has a rendezvous with some one she trusted. Olivia is not suspected by the Jennesma brothers. Sybrand is remorseful about his treatment of Gerrit and wants Olivia to help him make amends. Dirk advises Sybrand and Olivia he was with Hilda between 1:30 a. m. and 3 a. m.

INSTALMENT XI.

UNFORTUNATE MARRIAGE

Jennesma said, "You'd better talk it over with North, Dirk. Tell him all about it. Maybe he can show you how to prove you left her alive. He's pretty shrewd."

"Did any one see you out here last night?" Miss Warburton asked.

"No. But I'm not sure."

"But why mention it until you have to?"

"Because, if the police should chance to find out about it later and I hadn't mentioned it, they'll suspect me twice as hard."

Miss Warburton said scornfully, "You could at least avoid volunteering information and something may turn up to clear you in the meantime. Let them finish with me first. Haven't you heard that I'm Suspect No. 1?"

"You? You! I never heard of such a crazy thing. And Winnie seems to think she . . ."

Miss Warburton didn't listen to the rest.

"If you'll excuse me," she got to her feet.

As she passed the door of the sunroom, Miss Warburton glanced in. Mrs. Jennesma was seated at a little desk over which hung a large mirror. Several velvet-lined cases were open before her.

From one of these, she was lifting the dancing, scintillating fire of an exquisite diamond necklace.

Mrs. Jennesma clasped it about her own neck with its two soft rolls of fat in back. She patted it lovingly into place on her percale dress.

Mrs. Jennesma looked like an old pagan goddess who has been temporarily appeased by some gory rite.

Miss Warburton hurried on with a mental shudder. She would be one of the few persons Hilda would have willingly met on the lawn.

The two women had intensely intimate moments between their feuds. And Mrs. Jennesma could have taken that knife from her own kitchen and bribed Tillie to help her.

Miss Warburton decided to suggest it to Sen. North and see what he thought. There she went, again, turning to him!

There was quite a crowd on the porch of the little cottage. From some distance away, Miss Warburton could hear loud voices. The most dominating was Winnie's.

"I have nothing more to tell you. And if I had, I wouldn't. Get away from that door and let me into the house."

"Don't you want this case to be solved, Miss Leslie?" Some man was losing patience.

"I don't want innocent people harried."

"But you don't know Miss Warburton is innocent. You've got to admit she did walk in her sleep the night before the crime."

Miss Warburton came around some bushes toward the porch step. Two young troopers were questioning Winnie. Another trooper sat on the step.

But that wasn't all. In the couch swing at the end of the porch sat a sophisticated looking woman, very slender and smart in black, with gray-black hair. A carelessly dressed man with a humorous face sat on the railing holding a camera.

The woman got up and sauntered forward.

"Miss Olivia Warburton? I'm from the Herald."

Winnie flung herself between them. "Don't say a thing. Don't talk to them. They're reporters from the paper. Don't let him take your picture."

She was too late. Even as she spoke there was a flash of light.

Miss Warburton said, "Winnie, please!" and turned to the woman. "I don't want to be in the papers except as I have to be included in the general story."

"I know that, Miss Warburton, but I'm afraid you can't help yourself now. If I don't get a story, they'll just send some one else."

Miss Warburton turned a little green. "Not sob-stuff!"

"Well, hardly. But I need a few facts to go on. For instance, Sen. North hinted at a possible romance in your life."

Miss Warburton said stiffly: "He is mistaken. Let's stick to the main subject. I suppose I might as well get it over at once."

Miss Warburton went wearily up the stairs to her room. She wondered if she should have had Sen. North's advice on the subject.

She sat down in the little rocker by the window and told her story:

She was reared by a kind, careless aunt who died the year Olivia entered college. Her parents, whom she had lost in her childhood, had left money in trust for her. She had come into it the year she was graduated from college and had gone off, alone, on a world cruise.

One of the passengers was a very fascinating man of vague extraction. His tales differed from time to time. But he loved poetry, the sea, good books, casual, charming living, and Olivia. She lost all her sense and married him in Bangkok, tho none of the other passengers knew it.

Even after they landed in San Francisco he had easily persuaded her not to tell any of her friends in the east . . . just at first, he said. People would look them up. Tiresome bores. Olivia was under a sort of magic spell.

Afterwards, when it wore off, she had wondered how she could have been such a gullible fool. The truth was, life with Leif had been such a delight she didn't want it to stop for any uncomfortable reason. He knew how to please a woman. He did the most considerate, thoughtful things. He was always gay and cheerful. It was a pleasure to see other women turn to look at him and know he loved only her. He never worked, yet he had plenty of money.

The third month after the wedding, she woke one morning to find this note pinned to the pillow where she had been used to seeing his handsome curly head:

"Adios, darling:

"It's been heavenly, knowing you. If only I could stick to one woman, you would be the one. But I'm not made that way. I've drawn two thousand from our savings account. I'll send it back later. Don't waste any tears on me. But I'll never stop loving you.

CLOROX is Extra-Gentle in bleaching. It makes white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors), makes laundry fresh, sanitary. And Clorox lessens rubbing, thus prolonging life of fabrics.

TOWELS usually get dingier, grimier, more stained and discolored than other white cottons and linens. That's one reason why they need the bleaching and stain-removing efficiency of Clorox to keep their whiteness up to "guest towel" standards. Another reason they need Clorox is for the sanitation it provides. Then too, bleaching with Clorox does away with the need for vigorous rubbing that's so harmful to linens. Clorox is ultra-refined, extra-gentle ... it is free from caustic, an exclusive, patented quality-feature.

For Sanitary Kitchens! Use Clorox in routine cleansing of refrigerators, sinks, drainboards, china and glassware; dishcloths and dish towels; floors, garbage containers ... as an added safeguard to health. Clorox is extra-efficient in disinfecting, it also deodorizes and removes stains.

You Bet We're Friends!

WE have some very special coffee-grower friends—and they're responsible for the fine old prewar quality of Savoy! They've saved their choicest "mountain" coffee for Savoy, simply because Savoy has always used top-grade coffee.

That's why Savoy stands alone and unchanged today—as the same master-blended, prewar coffee, famous for its aromatic goodness. The coffee particular people insist on.

Savoy Coffee's qualities are sealed in—genuinely vacuum-packed in metal-capped Duraglas jars—3 grinds. The jars are re-usable!

It's a pet pleasure of youngsters to take possession of the kitchen for a candy making session. Today's meager sugar allowance puts a crimp in sprees of fudge and divinity making, but thoughtful mothers will supply the young cooks with substitute candy recipes.

These simple candies require no sugar, but they'll satisfy the craving for those extra sweets which add a lift to the day:

Cereal Squares
1 cup corn sirup
1 tablespoon margarine
1 teaspoon vinegar
6 cups crisp rice cereal
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup chopped raisins

Cook sirup to 242 degrees [or until a little dropped into cold water forms a firm ball], stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add margarine and vinegar. Combine cereal, nuts, and raisins in shallow bowl. Pour the sirup over them, mixing well. Pack lightly into greased shallow pan. Cool and cut into squares.

Molasses Puffs
¾ cup light corn sirup
¼ cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vinegar
2 tablespoons margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 cups puffed cereal or crisp rice cereal
1½ cups Spanish peanuts

Combine sirup, molasses, salt, and vinegar in saucepan and cook until mixture reaches a temperature of 265 degrees, or until a little forms a hard ball when dropped into cold water. Stir frequently while cooking to prevent burning. Remove from heat; add margarine and vanilla. Stir only enough to mix. Slowly pour cooked sirup over the cereal which has been measured into a lightly greased bowl. Add peanuts and mix well. Form at once into small balls.

Chocolate Peanut Drops
½ pound sweet chocolate
1 square [1 oz.] unsweetened chocolate
2½ cups corn flakes or crisp oat cereal
½ cup chopped peanuts

Melt two kinds of chocolate together over hot water. Stir cereal and nuts in gently. Be sure they are thoroly covered with chocolate. Drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper. Place in refrigerator until chocolate is set. Store in cool place.

Apricot Coconut Balls
[50 small pieces]
¾ cup dried apricots
½ cup nuts
¾ cup coconut
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Put apricots, nuts, and coconut thru food chopper or chop very fine. Combine with remaining ingredients, mixing well. Shape into small balls and roll in ground nuts, if desired.

Chocolate Graham Cracker Candy
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 can sweetened condensed milk [15 oz.]
½ teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups fine graham cracker crumbs
1 cup finely chopped nuts

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add condensed milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, 5 to 10 minutes. Add vanilla, cracker crumbs, and half the nuts. Sprinkle half the remaining nuts in an 8 inch square greased pan. Spread chocolate mixture over nuts, using a knife that has been dipped in hot water. Press remaining nuts into top of candy. Let stand overnight. Cut into squares.

Extra Space Is Useful in the Measuring Cup

Have you wondered why some measuring cups have space above the one cup line? They're especially made to measure liquids. The extra space will prevent spilling and it will avoid the tendency to skimp in measuring liquids. A measuring cup which has the cup line at the rim is more suitable for dry ingredients since it can be leveled off with a knife after being filled.

Guide for Egg Use

Use higher grade eggs for eating, lower grades as ingredients in cooking.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES

Soy Flour Is Nutritious and Gives Extra Flavor

Extra flavor and nutritive value may be added to your meals by replacing two tablespoons of wheat flour with two tablespoons soy flour in each cup of white flour used. To save measuring time, place two tablespoons of the soy flour in the bottom of the measuring cup, then fill it with white flour.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Open lead: Nine of diamonds.

When two methods of play are available to you, the selection of the better one is not always a simple proposition. Where there are no clews to be gathered from the behavior of the opponents, you can do no better than fall back on abstract probabilities. These are not always easy to calculate and sometimes you will be left to your hunch or a toss of the coin. One thing is certain, if you can try both plays you will be increasing your chances for success.

South dealt and elected to bid a heart, tho most players would prefer to open with 2 no trump. When his partner jumped to four hearts he knew that he could expect a great many trumps and very little in the way of top card strength. But since he had most of the deck himself he properly decided to gamble it out for a slam.

West opened a diamond. Declarer extracted trumps in two rounds and then went into a huddle for the purpose of deciding whether to play East for the ace of clubs or the king of spades. There was no way to tell so he tossed a coin and took the spade finesse. When this failed the enemy had the vision to cash the ace of clubs and the contract was set.

It would have been extremely simple for declarer to have made the hand, and he need not have subjected himself to the hazards of a guess. He could have allowed himself both chances by the simple expedient of discarding a club from dummy on the fourth diamond, then entering the North hand to lead the remaining club. If East has the ace of clubs, the king will provide a discard for dummy's losing spade. If West should have the ace of clubs, then declarer still has the chance that East has the king of spades, so that the finesse can yet be tried. It is elementary arithmetic that two chances are better than one.

FASHIONS

Matched lingerie sets of a nightgown and negligee are tops among the many gift suggestions for Mother's day. They are ideal for those rare occasions when mother is in a mood for traveling or vacationing. The featherweight summer sets are available in a variety of styles in white, pink, blue, and dramatic black.

White cross barred sheer in combination with delicate ecru lace creates the ensemble at the left. The fitted gown has an insertion of ecru lace across the square cut neck line. Wide shoulder bands meet to form a deep vee in back. The negligee has lace insertion in the full sleeves, which are tightly cuffed, and a band at the waist line.

The peignoir in the center has returned to popular favor, this time with a matching white satin nightgown, which features a shirred, low cut U neck line and short, shirred cap sleeves. The flowing white satin peignoir with its full raglan sleeves shirred at the wrist has a blue bow tie fastening at the high, shirred neck line. A blue satin ribbon belt on the gown repeats the blue trim of the peignoir.

Those who have a penchant for black lingerie will dote on the good looking dotted black sheer set at the right. The fitted gown is simple and unadorned, with a vee neck line front and back. The robe has a ruffled collar and ruffles around the bracelet length sleeves. Slight fullness accentuates a fitted midriff.

Movie Comedy Rates High as Entertainment

"PRACTICALLY YOURS"

By Mae Tinée

Here we have a nice, silly razzing of our glorification of our national heroes—how the boys who come back home are wellnigh smothered with public affection and admiration, how their personal affairs, particularly those of the heart, are glamorized, and managed, and publicized until the identities of the principals are almost lost in a blaze of promoted glory.

Fred MacMurray is the navy pilot whose last words are broadcast far and wide and Claudette Colbert is the girl the world thinks he is talking about in his last moments. By the time he pops up, anything but dead, the lady has become a somewhat astonished but willing national heroine who has spoken words of consolation to other bereaved women, via radio and screen.

Both the hero and heroine are employes of a business man with a gift for organization and capitalization, who swoops down on these two, previously only names on the pay roll, and proceeds to run their lives for them. Marvin P. Meglin is not a boy to do things by halves, and the objects of his overpowering attention don't have a chance.

MacMurray and Colbert are old hands at this sort of comedy, and their respective roles fit 'em like the paper on the wall. If you liked "It Happened One Night" you're sure to go for them in "Practically Yours." Gil Lamb is an excellent addition to the team and provides many of the laughs with his Albert Beagell, a lugubrious and pompous goon whom the heroine hastily appoints as her dream man in order to prove to the hero that she really doesn't care when she learns he never was in love with her. Mikhail Rasumny flaps about in a fine bit as a photographer who is an "arteest."

There are all sorts of crazy situations, of which my personal pet was the subway scene, and the dialog proves again that Norman Krasna knows a laugh when he writes one but has sense enough not to squeeze it to death.

The word "entertainment" may honestly be applied to this film. I had a fine time seeing it, and I hope you do the same.

Awful Hodgepodge

"SONG OF THE SARONG"

Produced by Universal, directed by Harold Young, featuring Nancy Kelly, William Gargan, Eddie Quillan, Fuzzy Knight, George Dolenz, and George Cleveland, and presented at the Palace.

This is one awful hodgepodge, which includes a treasure hunt, a south sea island with natives who speak English, a castaway princess who wears the key to the treasures around her neck, a jealous suitor, a so-called comedy team, and, to top it all—a miracle. It boasts a moronic plot and dreadful dialog—in fact, it's just plain tripe.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 3—Most interesting item at recent night conference session was that long talk V. M. Molotov and Harold Stassen enjoyed without benefit of interpreter. That little man sat idly by for the first time since he's landed here. Now I'm wondering whether Stassen speaks Russian or Molotov speaks English? Say, wouldn't that be a slick one? . . . When a flashbulb exploded with a loud crash, protocol went phhht also. Delegates jumped a foot, smiled apologetically at one another as they resumed belated dignity. They weren't at all like the perfect hostess who hears her best china being smashed and carries on as tho nothing were wrong. . . . Wonder why all the smallest countries make the longest speeches. Crazy thoughts churn in the head on such occasions. I kept wondering what would happen if I suggested a definite time limit for all speakers. Zing! There goes my neck. . . . And no wonder there's a film shortage in Hollywood. There is more celluloid being used here on unphotogenic personalities. Every speaker from every country has his hour of triumph with the sound cameras—recording for posterity.

On the Hollywood Wire

Just got a Hollywood wire that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will do three Sir Walter Scott novels—"Ivanhoe," to be played by Ronald Colman; "Quentin Durward," and "Kenilworth." . . . Joan Leslie definitely will play the Marilyn Miller role in "Silver Lining," and Bob Hutton in the Jack Pickford part. . . . Irving Rapper draws the directing assignment on Ellen Mackey Berlin's "Land I have Chosen," Joan Crawford's next picture. . . . Jack Benny is making his tour of San Francisco purely diplomatic. He's looked in on the sessions just to watch the wheels go round, and he's played two games of golf. If you know your Jack, this is a record. The southern California links see precious little of him. But he tells me when he returns here in two weeks with his show it'll be a different story. The company will be quartered across the bay in Berkeley because of room shortage. Now where have I heard that before? And Jack will skip the conference. He'll be busy at the hospitals, where he'll devote all his time to the boys.

In the Family Tradition

When I ran into Helen Hayes at Louis Lurie's luncheon she told me her 15 year old daughter has had no end of movie offers. One company was so persistent Helen wired her husband, Charles MacArthur: "How would you like to be Mr. Temple of today and bask in the light of your child's glory?" . . . We fell to reminiscing and Helen says she's still laughing over Nunnally Johnson's crack about Charlie MacArthur being in the chemical division of the army. Seems they handle all the alcohol. Quipped Nunnally, "Aren't they afraid he'll drink it all up?" . . . Louis Lurie also had Felix Kahn at the party. When I met him I realized the entire Kaiser Shipyard company must be full of personalities and characters. . . . When Parker L. Maddux invited me up to his bank next Christmas to listen to the carols, he let himself in for a surprise if he but knew. I'm going to take him up on that. . . . John Peurifoy of the state department sat on my right. When I asked him if those boys were all selected for their looks, either he blushed or my eyes are falling me.

Even Frankie's Here

When I bumped into Sid James in the Veterans' building he was lugging a script as thick as a telephone book. Tells me it's Aldous Huxley's story on Frankie Sinatra titled "Sinatra, the Phenomenon of Music." I said, "That thing's bigger than Sinatra." . . . When John Considine's office wired me they'd registered the title "Mussolini," I said to myself, "What for?" Seems to me history wrote a dramatic story with a punch ending. What Hollywood studio could top it? Those tales are best written in blood—printer's ink and celluloid takes off the edge. . . . Artists sometimes improve on an idea. Dick Powell did the other night when he sang Meredith Wilson's new song about Iowa on his radio show. Dick did a little rewrite on his own. Song came out, "Arkansaw —where Iowa ought to be."

Bits and Pieces

Eddie Robinson joins the whimsy division with his next, "Angel on My Shoulder." It's written by Harry Segall, who gave us "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," and, I hear, is in much the same vein. . . . Victor Saville and Barney Glazer tell me they want to make the "Life of Al Smith" for their first independent production. . . . Hollywood's full of gagsters, but it took a New York nut to release: "Reason the conference is being held in San Francisco is to make sure we give the Nazis the gate!"

SOX OPEN WITH INDIANS TODAY ON SOUTH SIDE

Thornton Lee Still Mound Choice

Boudreau 1-A?

LOU BOUDREAU, American league batting champion in 1944 and manager of the Cleveland Indians, is reported to have been reclassified 1-A by his Cleveland draft board, an Associated Press dispatch from the Ohio city last night said. Mrs. Boudreau, reached at the family home in Harvey, disclaimed any knowledge of any change in her husband's draft status, however. The Cleveland report said the 27 year old shortstop would be called for a physical examination about June 15. Boudreau was rejected for service last summer because of an arthritic ankle.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

James Dykes' White Sox, who have been working only about half time so far this season because of the weather, will open a long Comiskey park visit this afternoon if there are no objections. Having been rained out of their scheduled final of the series in Detroit yesterday they were able to return home last evening but this hardly compensated for the fact that their list of postponements was boosted to seven games.

Thornton Lee would have southpawed against the Tigers yesterday if action had been possible and he'll be asked to make a similar appearance this afternoon against the Indians, who will be making their 1945 local debut. Lefty Al Smith will oppose him. The series will include three other games—maybe—but Boss Dykes won't be pressed for pitchers. He'll have Joe Haynes, Ed Lopat, and Orval Grove available for those three affairs.

Jim Is Just Cautious

Dykes remains pretty cagey about expressing the whys and wherefores of his boys' stay in and around first place, but in the near future he hopes to know a little more about what's going on, so may be inclined to talk a bit. The eastern clubs will be coming in and out of Comiskey park after the Indians vacate the place and those games should furnish a clue as to how the league's playing strength is distributed.

It is conceded the west has two good teams in the Tigers and Browns and the east a flag contender in the Yankees. What difference there might be in the quality among the other five teams has to be found out.

Then Come the Athletics

The visitors from the east will be paced by the Athletics, who are scheduled for single games May 9, 10, and 11, followed by Washington in one Saturday game and a Sunday double header. The Yanks will be on hand May 14, 15, 16, and 17, the third of this series having been set aside for the season's first workout of the Comiskey park electric lights.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THE major leagues' rookie of the year, at least for the first three weeks of the season, must be Russell Derry of the Yankees, who has crashed two home runs with the bases full. . . . Many stars have gone thru a complete career without achieving one. . . . When Marvin Owen was sold by the White Sox to the Boston Red Sox in 1940 he weighed 165 pounds. . . . Before he left he asked Teammate Larry Rosenthal if he could spare a bat. . . . Larry gave him one, but after hefting it, Marv decided the club was too heavy so he put it away. . . . This year, Owen, now playing manager of the Portland Pacific Coast league club, weighs 187, so he dug up the forgotten bat and was, at last accounts, swinging it at a .415 clip. . . . Coach Mervin Shea of the Phillies was at bat just once last season and hit a home run. . . . The champion Browns have found a partial answer to the man power shortage in Leonard Schulte, brought up this spring from their Toronto farm club. . . . "We thought we were getting a second baseman when we acquired Len," says Vice President Bill DeWitt. "We actually got a jack-of-all trades." . . . Len puts it this way: "It's been that way all along. Whenever my manager lined up a squad and found a spot that was manned improperly or not at all, I got the job." . . . Schulte has played every position except catcher and first base. . . . It was just a bad, bad day for Manager Mel Ott of the Giants last week. . . . Mel went hitless in four trips to the plate, his ball club lost the game and, when he returned to the clubhouse for his shower he found a wire from Mrs. Ott in New Orleans to the effect that his car had been stolen and when recovered a few hours later was minus a wheel and tire, a spare tire, and the rear seat. . . . Jake Mooty, the former Cub pitcher who was purchased by Portland from the Detroit Tigers this spring, insists on wearing No. 13 on his uniform. . . . He got the idea, apparently, from Claude Passeau, who has worn the so-called jinx digits for years. . . . Don Ameche, co-owner of the Los Angeles club in the All-America Football conference, and Mrs. Ameche have adopted two baby girls. . . . They have called one Bonnie and the other Connie. . . . Bonnie is named for both their mothers, whose names are Barbara, and Connie is named after Sister Cornelius, a nun who taught Don in his grammar school days at St. Berchman's academy in Cedar Rapids, I. . . . The Ameches have four sons. . . .

Mrs. John McGraw still is an ardent Giant fan. . . . She sees three or four games a week in the Polo Grounds when her favorites are in town. . . . David K. Stevenson, new member of the California Athletic commission, labeled Joe Louis a coming champion when he saw him wade thru the Chicago Golden Gloves field in 1934. . . . Big Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds finally has shaken off the back ailment that handicapped him all last season and is swinging with his old time vigor. . . . Larry MacPail has taken over all contract dealings with Yankee players, a duty which used to be handled by Ed Barrow . . . Barrow, tho no softy, always was ready to chat with holdouts and try to bring them into line. . . . MacPhail has a different system. . . . He gives the malcontents the silent treatment—he refuses to answer wires, negotiate by mail or accept long distance telephone calls. . . Lt. Charles Hanger, 1943 University of California basketball captain, was among American prisoners of war liberated last week. . . . He was captured at Bastogne on Dec. 19, 1944.

A Tribute

I sing a song for a lady fair,
Whose verses we love to see;
Whom we're proud to claim as a loyal friend,
As every one will agree.
She writes of subjects the readers like,
As a poet she'll always star,
So I doff my hat with a rousing cheer
For our own Hilda Butler Farr.

She writes of a son who's across the sea,
A soldier who plays his part—
Who is mighty proud of his folks at home
And holds a place in each heart.
We know she often must lonely be,
But her faith is a guiding star,
So a toast to one we are proud to know—
Our own Hilda Butler Farr.

P. Waner Gets the Bad News from Yankees

New York, May 3 (AP)—Paul Waner was handed his unconditional release today by the New York Yankees on the eve of their first long trip of the 1945 season.

Paul Waner

Waner joined the Yanks last fall after drawing the pink slip from Brooklyn, where he had batted .287 in 83 games. Appearing in nine games as a pinch hitter for New York, the 42 year old veteran collected only one hit in seven times at bat. He walked his only time up in the 1945 campaign.

The elder brother of the famous team that played the outfield for Pittsburgh in the 1927-40 era, broke in with San Francisco in the Pacific Coast league in 1923 and spent two years there before coming to the Pirates, a year ahead of brother Lloyd.

During his 20 year big league career, Waner collected 3,152 hits, scored 100 or more runs in each of nine seasons, set a modern record by getting 200 or more hits in a season for the eighth time in 1937, made six hits in six successive at bats in 1926 and led the league in batting in 1927, 1934 and 1936.

Released by Pittsburgh in 1940, Waner signed with Brooklyn in early 1941 but became a free agent and caught on with the Boston Braves in May of the same year. Cut loose by the Braves in January, 1943, he again became a Dodger and remained at Ebbets field until he made his American league debut last fall.

[Fourth of a series concerning war time athletic activities of Western conference schools and Notre Dame, the problems faced and conquered, and their post-war plans.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

The coming of peace will be a prelude to the most gigantic sports program in the nation's history. That's what Harry Stuhldreher, University of Wisconsin football coach and athletic director, sees on the horizon.

The Badgers, he declares, are preparing for this athletic onslaught. Like many other students of athletics and physical training in the conference, Stuhldreher anticipates a vast difference between what is to come and that which developed after the first World war.

Wisconsin Takes Action

"It was spectator interest which brought the boom to athletics after World War I," he says. "But as a result of the training the millions of boys are receiving in all branches of the service now the big post-war development will be in an increased program which again will send college sports soaring on high."

Anticipating this, Wisconsin is taking definite action to expand its facilities. Plans call for a sports hall, or arena, which will be more or less of an indoor playground where outdoor types of games can be held in the winter months. An ice rink will be installed in the fieldhouse and the Badgers again will have hockey teams. Stuhldreher also plans to utilize all available outdoor space for a broader program of physical training.

Stuhldreher's top surprise in war time athletics has been the manner in which freshman athletes have delivered.

Girard an Example

"Coaching these youngsters has been a most interesting experience," says Harry. "I had wondered how these 17 year olds would fit into Western conference football. I soon was amazed at the adaptability and stability of these lads against the toughest sort of competition.

"Despite a lack of man power we have played the strongest teams in the middle west. We had only a sprinkling of navy trainees to back up these kids. I will admit they were not finished performers, but they showed me a great display of spirit and daring. I'm thinking not only of Earl [Jug] Girard but of several other first year men."

Wisconsin is one of two conference members which has enjoyed an increase at its home football games during the war period. Its home games from 1942 thru 1944 were played before 419,000. In the last three pre-Pearl Harbor campaigns the Badgers' total attendance was 324,000. Best individual season of the six was 199,000 in 1942. The total fell to 80,000 in '43, the low ebb year of sports.

13 Badgers Give Lives

Basketball attendance has declined only slightly, 424,000 to 419,000, yet 1941-'42 produced the best mark, 127,000, in an eight season period beginning with 1938-'39.

Thirteen members of the Wisconsin coaching staff are in military service. Likewise 13 athletes are known to have given their lives, two are prisoners, and at least four have been decorated. One of the prisoners is Lt. Mark Hoskins, whose Flying Fortress was forced down over Germany, and chances are he may now be free. Another in enemy custody is Col. Harry Pike, who was forced down over China after making many raids on the Japs.

CHICAGO WELCOMES BASEBALL'S NEW BOSS

Sen. A. B. Chandler (center) makes his first Chicago visit since being named baseball commissioner. Among those who conferred with him in the Blackstone hotel yesterday were (left to right): Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox; William Harridge, American league president; Warren Giles, general manager, Cincinnati Reds, and Leslie M. O'Connor, who has just been appointed a special assistant to Chandler. [TRIBUNE Photos]

MICHIGAN RISKS BIG NINE LEAD IN GOPHER SERIES

Michigan, defending champion, and Minnesota, one of the Wolverine's chief threats for the crown, will get a chance to settle their western conference baseball argument today in Ann Arbor.

The two have games scheduled, today and tomorrow, that have captured the spotlight in the busiest week-end of the conference season thus far.

Split with Iowa

Michigan currently is leading the conference, while the Gophers, rated as the team the Wolverines will have to beat for the title, are down in fifth place. Minnesota split its opening pair of games with Iowa last week, losing, 6 to 4, after taking the opener, 4 to 1.

Whether the Gophers had been overrated, or were looking past Iowa to this week's important clashes when they were upset last Saturday will be determined when the two clubs get together in Ann Arbor.

Indiana Meets Purdue

Meanwhile Indiana's Hoosiers, right behind Michigan with one victory and a tie in their opening games with Illinois last week, travel to Lafayette to meet Purdue. The Boilermakers, in their only conference starts, lost a pair to a strong Ohio State team.

Third place Wisconsin goes to Evanston to meet the last place Wildcats of Northwestern in two games tomorrow, and Illinois, seventh in the standings, meets Ohio State in Champaign in other conference games.

COCHRAN, HOPPE DIVIDE BLOCKS; CHAMP 4 AHEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., May 3 (AP)—Challenger Willie Hoppe defeated Three Cushion Titlist Welker Cochran, 60 to 57, in 55 innings tonight and narrow Cochran's lead to four points in their cross-country billiard championship tournament. Cochran's total is 3,278; Hoppe's 3,274.

It was the last of their eight games here, of which Cochran won six. The champion won an earlier game today, 60 to 57, in 54 innings.

They have now played 62 of their projected 90 game tourney. Play will be continued Saturday in San Diego, where six games will be run off in three days.

Other stops will include Portland, Ore., six games, May 11-13; Seattle, Wash., six games, May 14-16, and San Francisco, Cal., 10 games, May 21 thru May 25.

Busy Pros Again Find Time to Serve as Golf School Faculty

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

THE TRIBUNE'S 13th annual free golf school, opening Monday evening on the four courses of the Chicago park district, boasts the busiest faculty in professional golf today—the members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers association. Not only are these men committed to resuming their duties as instructors in the largest system of gratis instruction in the golfing world, but they also are immediately concerned with the most imposing rehabilitation program in the section's career.

Their curriculum in this 13th seminar of the game's oldest system of group teaching does not include geometry, calculus, or other advanced subjects. President Alex Cunningham and his associates will concentrate all of their teaching efforts on the A B C's of the game—the grip, the stance, and the swing.

They Won't Get Too Technical

All of these P. G. A. instructors, who plan to devote all of their tournament proceeds and personal talents in the 1945 season to rehabilitation of hospitalized veterans of World War II, realize how easy it is to bewilder the untutored novice with a barrage of intricate technical terms. In the preceding 12 years of this school, they have conducted the classes on the theory that a sound golf game is founded on the simple fundamentals.

The members of the Illinois P. G. A. are professional men in the same sense as lawyers and doctors. They have devoted their lives to the teaching and advancement of golf, attaining their positions only after an intensive five year apprenticeship. They are donating their services to THE TRIBUNE'S school for the 13th successive season, having comprised the original faculty at its inception in 1933.

To Erect Lecture Platforms

Each teacher on the staff occupies the same professorial rank in the school's pattern, but four men have been designated to handle the microphone on platforms which will be erected at each of the park district courses by The Tribune maintenance department. The locations of the quartet of classrooms follows:

DIVERSEY—In Lincoln park, at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd.

MARQUETTE PARK—Marquette rd. [6700 south] and Kedzie av.

COLUMBUS PARK—Jackson blvd. and Central av.

JACKSON PARK—63d st. and Stony Island av.

The four free lessons will be given next Monday night; Friday, May 11; Monday, May 14, and Friday, May 18. Each class will begin promptly at 7:15 p. m. and will continue for approximately one hour.

Name Faculty Members

Elmer Schacht, the Wheaton native who returned to his home area last season when he became professional at the Ridge Country club, has been elected to take over the platform chores at Jackson park, oldest of the four park courses.

Bill Gordon of Tam o' Shanter, who is also tournament chairman of the Illinois section, will man the mike again at the Columbus park classes, where he will be aided by Eddie Bush of Oak Park, secretary-treasurer of the section, and Harry Adams of St. Charles, the Illinois rehabilitation chairman who has returned here after nearly two years in war work. Jerry Glynn of Knollwood will be the master of ceremonies at Diversey in Lincoln, where Cunningham has been a regular teacher since the school shifted to the park district courses. Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, one of the co-founders of the school 13 years ago, will introduce his brother, Marty, of Hickory Hills, who has returned to Chicago after a 16 year absence, in the Marquette park sessions.

HE'LL TRANSFER HEADQUARTERS TO CINCINNATI

Walter Mulbry Will Be Secretary

BY EDWARD BURNS

United States Sen. Happy Chandler, baseball commissioner elect, visited Chicago yesterday as a part of his warmup. He said he hadn't decided when he will toss aside his senatorial toga or when he formally will take over his $50,000 a year job as successor to the late K. M. Landis. It seemed apparent to at least some of those who attended a press conference in the Blackstone hotel that he is functioning as commissioner, just now employing some of the political suavity which caused him to be elected governor of, then senator, from Kentucky. He explained he hasn't been out of work as a public figure in 16 years.

The senator has been making a tour of baseball cities and yesterday visited the offices of the commissioner, where Leslie M. O'Connor has been the boss since Judge Landis died last November. At the press conference it was announced Mr. O'Connor will continue indefinitely in baseball as "special assistant to the commissioner" and that Walter Warring Mulbry, Sen. Chandler's secretary in Washington, will become secretary and treasurer of the baseball commissioner's office, the title held by O'Connor during the 24 years of Judge Landis' tenure as baseball czar.

He Ducks the Hecklers

Sen. Chandler displayed beautiful footwork as a roomful of sports writers, some of them in a slightly heckling mood, fired questions at him. His most shocking statement was that he prefers Cincinnati to Chicago as the future site of the commissioner's office. He said that when he formally becomes commissioner he will establish his office in Cincinnati, which is a one league city and the smallest in the major leagues, but right across the Ohio river from his political constituency.

While it was a great blow to Chicagoans in earshot to hear a United States senator, now privileged to live any place he chooses, come right out and pick Cincinnati, those who looked out the Blackstone windows at the time the man was saying it couldn't blame him too much at the moment. It was as ornery a May landscape as we've ever seen while looking out over beautiful Lake Michigan from gorgeous Michigan boulevard.

Cubs Are Balked Again

Which reminds us the Cubs did not play baseball in Wrigley field yesterday and will now open up in St. Louis tomorrow [perhaps] without having competed since last Sunday, when they didn't compete very much as they were twice bruised by the Pittsburgh Pirates. The team, sans Lennie Merullo and Bill Schuster, utility shortstops, and Manager Charley Grimm and his man Friday, Red Smith, will take a day ride to St. Louis, starting at 11 o'clock this morning. Merullo went to his home in Boston and Schuster to his home in Buffalo, but will rejoin the team next week. Grimm and Smith went to Charley's home in the Ozarks.

Let's see now—about the senator. He repeated several of the announcements made earlier this week from Washington, Louisville, and St. Louis. He told of his visit with President Truman last Saturday and pointed out that he could not quote the chief executive but that he had gained the impression the President favors the continuance of baseball, as played by 4-F's.

Speaks for 4-F's

That's been printed, but the senator added that he had made certain suggestions as to why he believed genuine 4-F's should not be re-classified 1-A simply because they are ball players. [It has been pointed out that some draft boards have asked groups up for re-classification if there were any ball players or professional athletes present, and if any were found they automatically were re-classified 1-A].

During the early part of yesterday's press conference Sen. Chandler intimated that he might resign as senator and become commissioner in 30 or 60 days. Later, however, he said he might continue as senator until peace finally is effected. He emphasized, however, that if the senatorship and the commissionership should overlap, he will follow the precedent of Judge Landis and will work the two jobs for $10,000 and $40,000. As a full time commissioner he will draw $50,000 per

FOUR MEETS ON MIDWEST TRACK CARD TOMORROW

Illini, Seahawks, Ohio, Michigan Favorites

BY WILFRID SMITH

Track meets in the Western conference territory tomorrow, following the annual relays at Drake and Pennsylvania, are expected to be won by Illinois, Michigan, Iowa Pre-Flight, and Ohio state. The Buckeyes, preparing for the conference meet May 26 after finishing fourth in the indoor games with 17¼ points, will be hosts to Great Lakes and Michigan State.

Michigan's conference champions will engage Purdue and Miami, O., university at Lafayette while Illinois, Marquette, Northwestern, and Indiana are scheduled at Champaign. Chicago, previously entered, has withdrawn.

At Iowa City, the Pre-Flight squad, victors indoors over Wisconsin and Notre Dame, are prepared to tackle both in the only home appearance of the Seahawks.

31 Buckeyes in Training

Coach George Haney now has 31 Ohio State athletes in training and tomorrow's meet will be the only one at home. Last Saturday the Buckeyes engaged in an intrasquad meet. Featuring this preliminary test was the discus throw by Jack Dugger, Ohio State veteran. Dugger had a mark of 138 feet 8 inches which would have been good enough to take second place at the Drake relays.

Despite the fact that Illinois has reported several men as below form or unavailable because of injury—Dave Nichols, a fine hurdler, also has withdrawn from the university—the Illini are picked to win. The national collegiate champions apparently have sufficient strength to take the meet with Marquette a good second.

Won Drake Sprint

Al Zimmerman now is Illinois' best sprinter since Bill Buster pulled a muscle at Drake last Saturday. Bob Kelley, the best quarter miler in the conference, is gaining condition and with Marc Gonzales should dominate the quarter mile.

Marquette will be led by Charles Beaudry, veteran sprinter who won the Drake 100 yard dash, and Ken Wiesner, high jumper.

Fisher a Standout

Michigan, with a squad built around its middle distance men, should have no difficulty at Purdue even if Ross and Bob Hume do not make the trip with the Wolverines.

Purdue's best competitor will be Dick Kilpatrick who won the Drake high jump from Marquette's Wiesner. Miami, which won two relays in the college division at Drake, offers Fisher as its best performer.

HISPANO SOCCER TEAM HAS BOTH SKILL, COLOR

The Brooklyn, N. Y., Hispanos, national soccer champions in 1943 and 1944, who will appear in a veteran's fund benefit game against an all-star team from the Chicago National league at 3 p. m. Sunday in Wrigley field, rank as one of the nation's most colorful sides, as well as one of the most capable.

Two members of the Hispano lineup, Billy Gonsalves, inside right, and Fabri Salcedo, outside right, are well known to Chicago soccer fans thru having played in this city with the Manhattan Brewers. Reno Rodriguez, the Brooklyn goalie, appeared in Chicago with the St. Mary's Celtics in a match with the Spartas. Much also has been heard of Gonzalo Romero, the sensational one armed center forward. The Hispano lineup:

LAYDEN REFEREE OF NOTRE DAME FIGHTS TONIGHT

Fourteen finalists have survived preliminaries which began seven weeks ago. Seven of these are civilians, five are navy V-12 trainees, and two are N. R. O. T. C. trainees. The pairings for the championship bouts follow:

Don White, V-12, Columbus, O., vs. Eugene Sterett, Brooklyn, 127; William Summerlin, Savannah, Ga., vs. Robert Pasquarella, N. R. O. T. C., Philadelphia, 138; Kermit Rousseve, New Orleans, vs. John L. Groves, V-12, Flint, Mich., 145; Peter Hamill, V-12, Detroit, vs. John Caron, N. R. O. T. C. of Lakeland, Fla., 155; Ralph Deem, V-12, Milwaukee, vs. William Bevington, V-12, Nashville, Tenn., 165; James Dougherty, Woodlyn, Pa., vs. Joe Owens of Brunswick, N. J., 175; John Trave, St. Louis, vs. Tony Cash, New Orleans, heavyweight.

LEGION POST TO HOLD VETERANS' BENEFIT SHOW

The Fort Dodge post No. 859 of the American Legion will present a stage and amateur boxing show in the Coliseum Friday, May 25. Profits will go into the rehabilitation fund for veterans of World War II.

SIX BIG LEAGUE RECORDS DUE TO FALL THIS YEAR

New York, May 3 (AP)—At least six major league players appear virtually certain to establish new records this year, three of them catchers. Frank Hayes of the Philadelphia Athletics needs only 49 more games to pass Ray Mueller's iron-man mark of 217 straight games behind the bat, Al Lopez of the Pittsburgh Pirates needs 73 to overtake Gabby Hartnett's lifetime major league mark of 1,793, and Rick Ferrell of the Washington Senators is only 32 shy of Ray Schalk's American league high of 1,721.

Ott Bids for Another

Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs needs 24 more errorless chances to tie Lon Warneke's record of 221 consecutive perfect chances. Passeau's streak began Sept. 6, 1941.

Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Phillies and the New York Giants' Mel Ott are the other would-be record breakers. Foxx, with seven total bases to his credit this year, increased his lifetime total to 4,689, only 19 shy of Hans Wagner's 4,888, tops for a right handed batter. Ott, with 4,834, is 55 away from a new National league figure.

1944 Leaders Having Trouble

Statistics reveal that last year's leaders are having a tough time of it this season. Dixie Walker, last year's National league batting king, has slumped from .357 to .179, while Lou Boudreau, the American league leader, has fallen from .327 to .207.

Bill Nicholson, who paced the majors with 33 homers and 122 runs batted in, has only one home run and five runs driven in, while Nick Etten and Vernon Stephens, the American league leaders in home runs and R. B. I., respectively, are away behind this year.

8th Proviso Relays to Be Run Tonight

A total of 30 schools, 18 in class A, and 12 in class B, will compete in the eighth Proviso Relays tonight in Maywood.

Heading the list of entrants in class A is New Trier, defending champion. The others are Oak Park, Evanston, LaGrange, Maine, Morton, Thornton, Waukegan, York, Crane, Hyde Park, Lane, Lindblom, Phillips, Schurz, Harrison, Steinmetz and the host school, Proviso.

Downers Grove is the titleholder in class B, the other entrants including Argo, Barrington, Glenbard, Highland Park, Hinsdale, Leyden, Naperville, Riverside, University High, Wheaton and Crystal Lake.

The eight open events, in which schools of both classes may compete, are the 440 yard freshman, 880 yard sophomore, 440 and 880 yard, mile, two mile, shuttle hurdle and medley relays.

Other events are the 100 yard dash, mile run, pole vault, broad jump, discus throw, shot put, and high jump.

CHICAGOANS TOP FIELD IN ILLINOIS ROLLER SKATING

Chicago swept all places in the Illinois Amateur Roller Skating meet yesterday in Arcadia Gardens. In the novice men's figure skating Robert Gormley was first, Jack Mayes second and Edward Ketchem, third. Carolyn Buchanan and Thomas Halloran were first in the novice pairs division.

In the novice dance division Laverne Butlich and Matt Soloman were first, followed by Gilda Mazzica and Thomas De Cico. Eleanor Nepstead and Robert Gormley topped the pairs. Finals in the senior and intermediate classes will be held today.

PENNSYLVANIA DEFEATS BILL TO LEGALIZE RACING

Harrisburg, Pa., May 3 (AP)—Legislation to legalize betting on horse racing in Pennsylvania was defeated tonight by the house.

The vote was 98 for and 80 against, with 105 votes necessary to pass the bill.

The measure proposed to set up a state racing commission with authority to locate three major tracks in commupities where local option votes favored the sport.

Advocates of the bill estimated a 4 per cent tax on racing bets would return the state $25,000,000 annually, to be allocated for school purposes.

Nova Gives Eagle Severe Beating to Win Decision

Boston, Mass., May 3 (AP)—Making full use of his physical superiority, Lou Nova, 206, of Los Angeles, gave Charley Eagle, 181, of Waterbury, Conn., a terrific beating about the body tonight while gaining an unanimous decision in their 10 round boxing bout before 1,956.

CHANTILLY RACE TRACK RENAMED 'EBBETS FIELD'

CHANTILLY, France, May 3 (AP)—Racing is on at some of the tracks in and near Paris—and the betting is heavy—but on France's most famous track, in Chantilly, the ponies run for exercise only.

This birthplace of French racing, an hour's ride from Paris, was stripped by the Germans. The stands were torn down for fuel and the parimutuel equipment was torn up for scrap metal.

During their occupation of France the Germans insisted that racing go on to keep the Frenchman's mind off his troubles and also to permit the Nazis to get their hands on the 7 per cent wagering tax.

Yanks Call It Ebbets Field

Now, however, Chantilly harbors hundreds of American soldiers and the infield of the famed plant has been turned into a baseball diamond. A large sign proclaims it is "Ebbets field."

The track, however, remains and each morning it is taken over by trainers and their charges. Two native Frenchmen told today of sitting thru four years of German occupation. As they talked they watched eight thorobreds owned by the estate of the late Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia breeze thru their workouts.

"There were 1,800 horses in Chantilly when the Germans came," said Henry Count, who is training the Widener string, "but now we have only 400 left.

Trainer Loses Own Horses

"I had 90 in my stables when they came—I was trainer for Princess de Faucigny-Lucinge—she was a Rothschild. They sent all her horses and 10 of mine to Germany."

Percy Carter, also a trainer, explained that the Germans decreed all horses in France which were owned by foreigners or Jews on May 10, 1940, were to be appropriated by the invaders.

The Germans were extremely annoyed to find that virtually all the horses owned by American interests had been sold to Frenchmen before that date, Carter added.

RAMS ASK AID IN PLAYER QUEST; OFFER REWARD

Cleveland, O., May 3 (AP)—Cleveland's Rams, National Professional league football team, have offered a minimum reward of a $100 war bond to coaches thruout the country for each tip on a player who signs with the club and plays three league games, General Manager Charles F. [Chili] Walsh disclosed tonight.

Walsh and his brother Adam, the Rams' new coach, already have contacted 200 coaches and plan to make the offer to about 200 more coaches, newspaper and radio men.

"If the player makes good and stays with the team the reward will be increased in proportion to his performance," Walsh said.

FARM SYSTEM, CASH BRIGHTEN PHILLY FUTURE

Philadelphia, Pa., May 3 (AP)—General Manager Herb Pennock said today the Philadelphia Phillies plan to develop a post-war farm system "which will be comparable to those of the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals."

"Now that purchasing power is available," Pennock said, "we also shall endeavor to buy major league stars from other clubs."

Among the finalists who will compete tomorrow afternoon in the city-wide Y. M. C. A. girls' swimming meet in the Austin Y pool are seven who won their events in the 1944 meet. Three of them are entered in the intermediate class, for girls 15 to 17; two in the junior division, for swimmers 12 to 14 and the other in the midget group, 8 to 11.

Last year Marilyn won the 20 yard free style and breast stroke events while Barbara took the 40 yard back stroke and Miss Maplesden won the fancy diving title.

The two champions in the junior group are Joy Kinny and Fritzie Schalk, who won the 20 yard back stroke and 20 yard free style respectively last year. The midget champion who will be back seeking additional honors is Dolly Wilhelm, winner of the breast stroke in her class.

BAKSI TO HEAD EAST ENRICHED BY $3,792 PURSE

BY FRANK MASTRO

Joe Baksi, rugged, hard fighting heavyweight of Kulpmont, Pa., will leave for New York today none the worse for his 10 round conquest of Larry Lane in the Coliseum Wednesday except for a bruised right hand.

The injury is not expected to prevent Baksi from going thru with a scheduled match against Jersey Joe Walcott in Camden, N. J., next Thursday.

Baksi leaves enriched by a $3,792.90 purse, 30 per cent of the net receipts of $12,643 paid by 4,207 fans Wednesday. Eight hundred twenty service men, guests of the promoters, increased the total attendance to 5,027 for the show.

Card Shows Profit

Since $10,000 was needed to break even, the sponsors realized profits approximating $2,000.

Lane yesterday left for his home in Trenton, N. J., a badly battered fighter. His pains, however, were soothed somewhat by his 15½ per cent share of the proceeds, $1,959.67. Altho Larry was decisively beaten, his performance was nothing of which to be ashamed.

Fighters Collect $6,952

The total cost of the 12 contestants on the exciting program, including the $5,752.57 collected by Baksi and Lane, amounted to $6,952.57. Purses and results of boxers in five supporting fights follow:

Odell Riley, Detroit, $125, knocked out Johnny Flanagan, $150 [4]; Mack Parshey, Detroit, $125, knocked out Robert Satterfield, $125 [1]; Tony Musto, Blue Island, $200, stopped Buddy Waterman, Cincinnati, $125 [2]; McKinley English, Detroit, $125, stopped Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor, $125 [4]; Columbus Mitchell, $50, knocked out Frank Wilson, $50 [1].

Jackie Boyd, Chicagoland Golden Gloves flyweight champion, and Tilford Ward, West Side Boxing club bantamweight, will clash for the third time in a five round bout heading an amateur show tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison st. Each won a previous meeting. Other contests:

Tommy Reed, Savoy A. C., vs. Charles Nelson, West Side club [5], 135; Ernest Stevenson, Trainers' club, vs. Sgt. Ed. Hoxie, Tallahasee army air field, Miss. [3], 160; George Coyne, Madison A. C., vs. Ed Miles, Caleb A. C. [3], 118; James Ward, West Side club, vs. Richard Brewer, Coulon club [3], 135; Ray Payne, Madison A. C., vs. Charles Johnson, Caleb A. C. PAN-AMERICAN GAMES MAY GO TO BUENOS AIRES

The post-war site of the Pan-American games probably will be Buenos Aires which was deprived by the war of being host to the event in 1942, Avery Brundage, president of the Pan-American Sports federation, said yesterday.

Brundage said Buenos Aires had started to build an Olympic village and organized committees for the original games before the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor canceled the meet. "Argentine officials are ready to resume preparations just as soon as international conditions permit," Brundage said, "speaking for myself, I think they should have first consideration."

Brundage said the date of the Pan-American games would depend upon when the Olympic games could be resumed. "The Olympics will be held either in 1948 or 1952," he said. "Some time in between, we'll have to place the Pan-American games so as not to interfere with the Olympics."

BARTOLO 2 TO 1 FAVORITE OVER MELL TONIGHT

Boston, Mass., May 3 (AP)—Sal Bartolo of Boston, the National Boxing association featherweight champion, is expected to be a 2 to 1 favorite over Gus Mell, the Montreal slugger, in their return 10 round nontitle bout tomorrow night in the Boston Garden.

Three weeks ago, Mell gained a divided and disputed decision over Bartolo. The sponsoring Goodwin A. C. said a capacity crowd of 13,500 is expected. A sellout would make Bartolo's share of the purse $10,000 and Mell's around $7,500.

Cochran Wins 4th Block in Row to Take 7 Point Lead

Weather Man Bats 1.000 in Early Games

New York, May 3 (AP)—Double headers continued to pile up today to haunt big league managers with small pitching staffs as rain washed out the complete six game schedule in the major leagues.

The teams changed partners tonight all around in each circuit for new series opening tomorrow, the last sectional sets before the east vs. west battles open next Wednesday.

Baseball would settle for some of the balmy March weather that enabled the clubs to attain peak playing condition during northern training season but has been just the reverse ever since the curtain went up.

Cancellations Total 28

With the campaign 18 days old, the most games any club had played was 13, due to rain, cold weather, and a schedule dotted with open dates.

Twenty-eight games have been called off since opening day of 103 listed on the playing charts with the Chicago White Sox, who lost four of six home dates, and the Phillies, who missed three of six at home games, suffering most.

When today's New York Yankees' game with Philadelphia in Yankee stadium was rained out the Yanks left for Boston and a road jaunt that will keep them out of the Bronx until May 23. Chicago at Detroit, the only other scheduled action in the American, also was washed away.

Cubs, Reds Suffer

Cincinnati's visit to Chicago was a complete dud as the final contest of the two game series was postponed and both the Boston at Brooklyn and New York at Philadelphia series were ended with only one game played of three scheduled. Due to yesterday's double header, today's St. Louis at Pittsburgh game was the only one of their series actually lost.

NAME ZIEBELL HEAD OF STATE COACHING CLINIC

Champaign, Ill., May 3 [Special]—Norman A. Ziebell, athletic director of Morton High school of Cicero, was named today manager of the third annual state coaching clinic to be held here Aug. 22-25.

Dick Baxter of Peoria Manual, retiring president of the State Coaches association, handed the job over to Ziebell. The new clinic coach has served the coaches association as secretary-treasurer for four years.

A former Oshkosh [Wis.] Teachers college basketball star and a graduate of the University of Illinois, Ziebell is best known as a basketball coach and athletic administrator. He has directed Morton to two state basketball championships, in 1932 and 1941, four sectional titles, and five Suburban league crowns.

THREE MAROON SQUADS TO FACE WEEK-END TESTS

Baseball, track, and tennis teams of the University of Chicago all will be in action tomorrow. The tennis team will play a return match with Illinois Institute of Technology on the Midway. The undefeated Maroon team won its first match against the Techawks, 6 to 1, April 25.

WEATHER STOPS BASEBALL RACE IN CITY LEAGUE

For the second consecutive day all city league baseball games yesterday were postponed because of rain. The north and central section games will be played today, weather permitting, along with the regularly scheduled west and south section games.

The City league state tennis qualifying meet, also postponed yesterday, probably will be held this afternoon in the University of Chicago courts.

REP. PRICE ASKS EXPLANATION OF PROS' INDUCTION

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—A complaint by Rep. Melvin Price [D., Ill.] that professional athletes are victims of draft discrimination has started a war department investigation, and Price predicts a change in regulations in a few days.

The congressman disclosed today that he had protested to the department that some athletes are being inducted by the army even tho they cannot meet physical requirements.

He received a reply from Undersecretary of War Patterson saying: "I have asked the inspector general [Maj. Gen. Virgil L. Peterson] to make an investigation into the manner in which the war department directives in regard to induction of professional athletes are being administered."

Not Seeking Favors

As war mobilizer, James F. Byrnes, who since has resigned, cracked down on professional athletes last Dec. 23, asking Selective Service Director Hershey to review the military qualifications of such persons.

Price said "I am not asking for a special break for athletes but only a fair deal. No man should be inducted if he is legitimately 4-F, but in some instances athletes have been inducted without their classification even being changed from 4-F."

One regulation provides that when any professional athlete is rejected on account of physical condition his case must be sent to Washington for review.

"The history of many of these cases is that they are automatically inducted regardless of their physical condition," Price said.

Mentions Litwhiler Case

He mentioned to Patterson the case of Danny Litwhiler, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, now in service, stating that the following notation was placed on Litwhiler's service record:

"This registrant cannot be considered a soldier against your quota whether or not he is called by the army or navy because he does not meet the minimum requirements for military training."

Price said that Patterson told him there has been no lowering of induction physical standards. This is a particular point that the war department's investigation is expected to cover, Price indicated.

MAJ. WILLIAMS PLANS VISIT TO MEXICAN TRACK

Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board and president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, will attend the closing days of the race meeting at the Hipodromo de las Americas in Mexico City, he said yesterday, if resumption of the sport in the United States has not been authorized by next Thursday.

Maj. Williams was invited by President Oscar Obregon and other members of the Mexican racing commission who "believe that your presence will further cement the friendship which exists among the people of our two countries."

"If peace should be declared in Europe or a surrender of Germany become absolute," Maj. Williams said, "then I will change my plans and do what I can to have racing resumed in the United States and possibly arrange with the racing associations and my fellow members of the Illinois racing board for readjustment of dates."

CUTBACKS HELP CIVIL OUTLOOK LITTLE SO FAR

Output Shift Mainly to New War Items

BY THOMAS FURLONG

With production planning centered in the military procurement agencies the prospect of substantial expansion in civilian goods output after V-E day was described yesterday as unpromising.

Altho cutbacks in war orders are mounting and the war production board is rescinding many of its regulations limiting or banning manufacture of civilian products, spokesmen for government agencies in Chicago insisted that no widespread resumption of civilian production can be foreseen.

This was attributed partly to the man power situation in Chicago which officials of the war man power commission described as exceedingly tight. It will be a long time, they said, before cutbacks in certain war contracts will release enough men to fill high priority war jobs now open.

Material Controls Remain

It was the prevailing view the series of actions taken by the WPB has no immediate significance. The board has as yet completed no comprehensive and clear cut program for speeding the production of civilian goods in plants no longer needed for war jobs. The tight controls of basic materials and man power remain in effect. Until relaxed there can be no extensive resumption of civilian manufacture, spokesmen agreed.

Altho government agency spokesmen avoided direct discussion of the matter there was tacit recognition that it is the military services who dominate the production planning. From the beginning of the war other agencies of the government have been ineffectual in their attempts to get recognition for civilian production requirements.

WPB Chairman Krug announced April 27 that the "spot" reconversion program that was discarded under army pressure last December is being revived. This plan is intended to permit manufacture of certain civilian articles. In restoring the program, however, no provision was made for allocating to manufacturers basic materials like steel, aluminum, and copper. Manufacturers were given permission only to use "idle and excess" stocks of such materials. Krug emphasized that relaxation of controls will be "very gradual" so as not to interfere with production for the Pacific war.

Build Big Pacific Stockpiles

For weeks reports from Washington have emphasized the feverish pace at which the army and navy have been buying. The services, it is said, have been building up tremendous stockpiles of materials for use in the Pacific. This policy, which has been severely criticized in some quarters, is defended on the grounds that it protects the army and navy against shortages that might develop from a letdown in production after the end of the European war. It has prevented a start in the gradual shift to civilian production that was foreseen some months ago.

Government officials in Chicago agreed that the shift here will lag behind other manufacturing centers. Many of the cutbacks that have been made in this area, they said, merely cut down paper schedules and have no effect on current production. The recent cancellation of a 40 to 50 million dollar order for tanks to be produced at the Bettendorf, Ia., plant of International Harvester company was cited. Production was scheduled to start in June.

Steps Mainly Preparation

John Nuveen Jr., regional director of WPB, said the shift "is likely to be slower than the general impression that has been created." He described steps already taken by WLB as mainly preparation for conversion that will take place later.

A serious barrier to conversion is the steel situation, he said. He termed it the tightest since control of materials was initiated.

Lester Brown, Chicago area director of WMC, reported an unfilled demand here for 58,000 workers. Present projected demand for the six month period that began April 15 is for 100,000 more workers than are now available.

"It will take a lot of cutbacks to wipe out this demand," he said. "In the week of April 14-21, new contracts for war production in Chicago aggregated 41 million dollars, and 27 million in the preceding week, which shows the continued high level of production."

Expect Bigger Food Demand

After V-E day, he said, there will be vastly increased demands on the transportation and food supply industries of which Chicago is a center. These demands will quickly take up any slack resulting from cutbacks in other categories, he said.

Col. John Slezak, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, emphasized that the shift of operations to the Pacific does not necessarily mean an overall drop in production. While one plant gets a cancellation another plant may be ordered to increase output of a similar item. The backlog of orders of the district at the end of March 1 was 1 billion 629 million dollars, an increase of 340 million dollars over Dec. 31.

Broader Plan for Research Urged in U.S.

Organized industrial research is "relatively just a baby" and must be expanded if the United States is to maintain world leadership, Dr. Henry B. Hass, head of Purdue university's chemistry department, said yesterday.

Dr. H. B. Hass

Approximately 500 million dollars is being spent annually for scientific research, against 300 million dollars in 1939, Dr. Hass told a meeting of Butler Brothers' executives. The meeting was one in a series of educational gatherings scheduled by Butler.

Trained Technicians Needed

The principal research bottleneck is the lack of trained technicians, Hass said. A recent Purdue survey showed that American industry needs 50,000 engineers immediately.

Altho this country has drafted its potential scientists into the services, British universities have more technical students than ever before and Russia never slowed its scientific research or its training of technicians "even in the darkest days of the war," he said.

War developed products will not displace the old, he said. Instead, new products and materials will be designed for specific purposes for which they are better suited than was the old product. Magnesium is being produced at 100 times the prewar rate, but it will not replace steel or aluminum. It will have its own place in the metals industry because its particular value has been demonstrated.

New Devices from Synthetics

Among things to come will be nylon window screens which will transmit 95 per cent of the light instead of stopping 30 per cent, as metal screens do. Another will be saran, which is made of salt and waste refinery gases. It is a synthetic textile used in furniture upholstery and is mothproof, flameproof, and water repellent. A third will be geons, another synthetic, which when used as shoe soles will outwear leather eight to one and rubber three to one.

From the 14,500 types of synthetic rubbers have stemmed synthetic treads which will wear 120,000 miles, and inner tubes, which will require an inflation check only twice a year, he said. The now secret supersonic wave used to detect submarines may eventually be used by fishermen to locate schools before they cast their nets.

PREDICTS SLOW, DIFFICULT SHIFT TO CIVIL OUTPUT

As long as substantial military demands continue after V-E day the shift to civilian production will be slow and difficult even if man power and materials controls are largely lifted, Charles S. Davis, president of Borg-Warner corporation, said yesterday.

"The gradual transition to peace time production after V-E day will be the most difficult period we have yet faced," he said. "The change will not be sharply defined and will present many problems."

Davis said he believed there would be an easing of the stringent man power situation in the Chicago area within two or three months after V-E day. The initial cutbacks will not cause employment distress because those let off first will be persons who will not go back into the labor market.

MORE BOX CARS ASSURED, ODT TELLS SENATORS

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP)—Director J. Monroe Johnson of the office of defense transportation today assured the senate committee investigating the grain car shortage that "You're getting more cars and you're going to be all right."

His testimony concluded an eight day hearing before the interstate commerce committee on the cause of the car shortage which has resulted in grain spoilage in 11 midwestern states.

Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] said that he and Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] expect more conferences with Johnson, interstate commerce commission officials and representatives of the Association of American Railroads in an effort to see that the new wheat crop as well as the remainder of the 1944 corn and wheat crops will be moved satisfactorily.

CATTLE, LAMBS WEAKEN; HOGS SELL AT CEILINGS

Weakness prevailed yesterday in all branches of the live stock market except hogs at the Chicago stock yards. Hogs were bought quickly by eager buyers who paid the highest prices permitted by law for nearly all stock offered. Other meat animals, under pressure most of the week, sold slowly on a steady to weak basis.

Most cattle sold steady to weak as cently. Mostly steady prices were given for lambs, but trading was slow and weakness appeared in spots.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Oscar Wolff, president of M. Wolff & Sons, and a resident of Chicago for more than 65 years, will observe his 80th birthday today with an employe party in the company's offices followed by a family dinner at his home in the Belmont hotel. Wolff is one of the original importers of Spanish olives and is vice president of the Association of American Importers of Green Olives.

Harold D. Laidley, manager of the sales development department of White Motor company, Cleveland, O., will address the Greater Chicago Personnel conference in the Palmer House May 15, said Eugene J. Benge, conference chairman.

Awards for driving company automobiles last year without an accident were made to 36 salesmen of Grennan Bakeries, S. B. Spiese, manager, said. Nine drivers received war bonds for having driven seven or more years without an accident.

Herbert Elkland, recently resigned assistant vice president of the Second National bank, Paterson, N. J., was appointed secretary to the research committee of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, which has headquarters in Chicago.

D. H. Cooney, president of the Security National bank, Sheboygan, Wis., was elected president of the Southwest Manufacturing District corporation, Chicago.

De Vry corporation received its fifth army-navy E award for continued excellence in the manufacture of motion picture sound equipment and electronic training devices.

A. H. Strunck, sales manager of National Enameling and Stamping company's premium division, will address a Premium Industry club luncheon Thursday in the Merchandise Mart.

Reichel & Drews, Inc., Chicago manufacturer of industrial machinery, yesterday was awarded a second star for its army-navy E flag.

Division 1 of Stewart-Warner corporation has been awarded a third star for its army-navy E flag.

EXPECT BIGGER RUBBER SUPPLY AFTER V-E DAY

Material for Tires to Increase

More of America's rubber supply —largely synthetic—is expected to be apportioned to civilian use after V-E day, a spokesman for a leading Akron rubber manufacturer said yesterday. Synthetic rubber plants of all types are producing about 1 million tons annually. Of this amount, output of GRS rubber—the synthetic of the type used in tires—is about 850,000 tons a year. By the end of 1945 makers expect to be on a million ton annual basis.

Of the 18,700,000 passenger automobile tires made last year about 700,000 were taken by the military, an amount described as moderate in view of the world-wide war operations. Of the 14,600,000 heavy duty tires, including the type used on civilian trucks, about 9 million, or about 60 per cent, were assigned to so-called civilian use.

Require Extra Rubber

The amount of rubber used for heavy duty tires, however, was more than 40 per cent of the whole because military tires are used for vehicles and equipment that require far more rubber than ordinary truck tires.

Termination of the European campaigns soon will cause a sharp reduction in the demand from there for tires of all types. Needs of the occupationary forces may be met in part, it was said, by European tire plants expected to go back into production. There were said to be seven such plants in France and Belgium and one fairly large one in Romania. The production of even a few hundred tires a day would be helpful. The army is operating its own tire recapping and repair plants.

In the plans for the Asiatic campaigns lies part of the answer to the question how soon production of civilian tires will meet the civilian demand. Akron tire makers say they do not know how large the demands will be when the attacks on the Japanese are broadened.

Three Hurdles at Home

Meantime, they said three big domestic hurdles must be cleared before there can be a substantial boost in civilian tire distribution. They are: 1. Shortage of man power. 2. Shortage of rayon and cotton textiles. 3. Shortage of carbon black—a natural gas by-product which gives tires long life and strength.

Cutbacks in war plant production are expected to relieve the man power shortage which will also help production both in the tire plants and in the rayon and cotton textile plants of the south.

Relief for the carbon black problem already is in sight and expected to be solved in about 60 days. Possibly the best hopes for tire production rest with the assigning of man power to tire plants and to rayon and cotton textile plants which produce materials for tire bodies, it was said.

Predict Heavy Tire Losses

This coming summer is expected to bring the heaviest tire destruction ever experienced, an industry spokesman said.

"When the hot July sun gets in its work on many of the ancient tires now doing makeshift duty on so many of our ancient cars the resultant blowouts will sound like a miniature 4th of July," he said.

About 23 million automobiles are in service out of about 29 million in use at the end of 1941. Under present plans, manufacturers expect to make about 20 million tires this year and it is hoped the number can be increased to 25 million. In normal times production of 40 to 50 million tires was rated a good year. Given a free hand the tire makers say they can reconvert plants in days instead of months.

2 Cent Wheat Upturn Leads Grains Higher

Prices of grains advanced on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Wheat led the upturn and closed 1¾ to 2⅛ cents a bushel higher. Corn rose ⅜ to 1, oats ⅞ to 1, rye 1⅛ to 1⅜, and barley ½ to 1.

The upswing developed on less favorable crop reports from the southwest, the realization Europe will require vast amounts of food stuffs, and expectations the government will purchase 500,000 or more sacks of wheat flour in the next few days.

Lower Estimate Predicted

Reports of severe rust damage to winter wheat in Oklahoma and freezing temperatures in southwestern Kansas emphasized that the new crop is still a long way from harvest. Experts predicted that the May 10 department of agriculture winter wheat estimate will be lower than the 863 million bushels forecast on the basis of April conditions.

Announcement that the army will take 20 per cent of domestic flour and order about 6 million sacks a month, including granular flour for distilling, attracted attention.

Professional traders headed buying of wheat futures. Profit taking appeared on the advances, but pressure was light. September and December sold ⅛ cent below the seasonal high.

Professionals Buy Rye

Trading in rye was active at times and professional traders were large buyers. Speculators were inclined to await further developments abroad, because Scandinavia and Poland use large quantities of rye for food.

Europe will require large quantities of feed grains and corn; oats and barley strengthened on buying based on this. Cold and wet weather in the midwest and southwest is delaying field work and oats have been damaged by freezing temperatures.

3 NEW YORKERS MADE DIRECTORS OF ROCK ISLAND

Three New Yorkers yesterday were elected to the board of directors of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway to fill vacancies. They were John Gerdes, member of the law firm of Gerdes & Montgomery and professor of corporate finance and corporate reorganization at New York university; Albert H. Grant, member of the stock exchange firm of Vilas & Hickey; and Darragh A. Park, vice president of Manufacturers Trust company.

The 7,750 mile Rock Island system does not run closer to New York than Chicago which is more than 900 miles distant, but 11 of its 15 directors are easterners, 10 New York and one Boston. Only three are residents of Chicago, headquarters of the road. Only one, a resident of Denver, comes from one of the other cities on the extensive system.

INCREASED LENGTHS, WEIGHTS PROPOSED FOR ILLINOIS TRUCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 3—Walter A. Rosenfield, state director of public works and buildings, today said that the Green administration approves of a legislative bill to increase maximum weights and lengths of trucks operating in Illinois to correspond with regulations of near-by states.

Introduced by Rep. David Hunter [R., Rockford], chairman of the house roads and bridges committee, the bill would raise from 16,000 to 18,000 pounds the maximum axle load. Truck and semi-trailer combinations up to 45 feet would be legalized. This is 10 feet more than under present law. Truck and trailer lengths could be increased from 40 to 50 feet.

Highway haulers have complained that because of its law Illinois is a truckers' bottleneck on runs thru the state. For loads of war materials the state law has been waived by government request. Most of the trucking organizations have indorsed the Hunter bill which is scheduled for a house committee hearing in two weeks.

Spokesmen for farm organizations have opposed longer and heavier trucks, holding that they destroy roads unnecessarily. Hard road specifications now call for 9 or 10 inches of concrete pavement, compared with the 6 inches previously used, and state highway engineers said the new roads could withstand the heavier weights.

RIGID PAY-PRICE RULE TO REMAIN, DAVIS ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., May 4 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Davis asserted tonight he intends to hold the wage and price line rigidly "thru the squall" resulting from collapse of Germany. He told reporters stabilization of the nation's economy is more than ever necessary and will become an increasing problem with the surrender of Nazi forces and concentration on the Pacific war.

Davis said that as reconversion to civilian production is completed, civilian purchasing power must increase 30 to 40 per cent to maintain the war time production rate. This he would accomplish preferably by increasing wage rates, after conversion of industry and removal of controls.

Davis indicated he did not expect the government controls to operate in that future period, but that collective bargaining would bring about wage increases.

Sales for the year were approximately 133 per cent larger than in the preceding year, Straus said, and in the first two months of the current fiscal year sales were approximately 60 per cent above the corresponding period in 1944.

T LOANS

First there were V, then VT, and now T loans to war contractors. Please explain the distinction.—E. B.

T loans are bank loans obtained by war contractors against their accounts receivable and other claims under terminated contracts. Such loans were authorized by the contract settlement act of 1944 under which the war and navy departments and maritime commission are permitted to guarantee the lenders against loss. In practice such guarantees do not cover the full face amount of the loan, but may be for 90 per cent or less.

The T loans are for the sole purpose of financing termination claims. Their effect is to free the contractor's working capital pending final settlement with the government, or, in the case of the holder of a subcontract, with the prime contractor.

So far as the termination features are concerned, these loans serve the same purpose as the former VT loans, a designation no longer used for new credits. V loans are still available. They are for the purpose of providing war contractors with production credit as well as an advance against termination claims in event of contract cancellation. A V loan is obtainable only before termination, but a T loan may be arranged either before or after actual ending of the contract.

MONEY SCHEME HELD CURB ON CAPITAL FLOW

Program Assailed by Palyi

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3—The Bretton Woods world monetary program was denounced today by Dr. Melchior Palyi, Chicago economist, as a scheme which would hamper post-war foreign trade and movement of capital among nations.

Appearing before the house banking committee, Palyi said the 18 billion dollar administration sponsored plan has been "misrepresented" by government propaganda as a mechanism to stabilize currencies and promote world trade.

Would Sanction Exchange Curbs

Acutally, the proposed Bretton Woods stabilization fund would sanction foreign exchange controls by member nations that would restrict international trade, he said. Palyi formerly was chief economist to the Deutsch bank, Berlin, and chief economic adviser to the reichsbank. He has been in the United States since 1933.

The Bretton plan calls for a monetary fund of 8 billion 800 million dollars and a 9 billion 100 million world bank to make reconstruction loans. The United States would contribute nearly 6 billion dollars to the capital, if it is approved by congress.

Dr. Palyi said the charter for the fund permits "unlimited operation" by member nations of policies that would interfere with free flow of capital among countries. For example, he said, member nations are authorized, in the "initial period," to restrict the flow of capital in and out of the country.

View on Gold Objective

"Bretton Woods starts out on a desirable principle—namely: To restore the essential of the gold standard—international exchange stability—and to do so by reopening the flow of capital from creditor to debtor countries," Palyi said. "Unfortunately, it does so in half hearted fashion, compromising the objective of free capital movements by conceding the freedom of exchange restrictions. The arguments with which the administration attempts to force the issue with congress misrepresent the case altogether.

"The most significant misrepresentation in which official American propaganda for Bretton Wooods has indulged is the argument that there is no alternative to 'chaos' but this program. In reality, financial cooperation can take many forms widely different from the one proposed.

Need Not Be "Burocratized."

"For one thing, it does not have to be institutionalized and burocratized. It could proceed from one instance to another as they come up, or in the order of their urgency, without fixing in advance the forms and conditions to be met.

"It is difficult to believe the administration should not be aware of this fact. The reason why it insists on Bretton Woods may be political rather than economic. It may fear that opportunity to 'railroad' thru congress any such international arrangement might slip out of its hands."

CORRECT FAULTS: BURGESS

New York, May 3 (AP)—W. Randolph Burgess, president of the American Bankers association, today said he believed the reasonable amendments suggested by the association and others "would correct the most serious defects" of the Bretton Woods monetary plan.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, Burgess said the United States is facing international financial problems similar in many respects to those after World War I., but that despite this Bretton Woods was designed to deal with the characteristics of the depression of the 1930s.

Burgess said proponents of the plan admitted it was not perfect, but maintained that necessary changes might be made later.

Mid-Continent Airlines' March Revenues Mount

Operating revenues of Mid-Continent Airlines, Inc., in March were $205,120, an increase of about 55 per cent above March, 1944, J. W. Miller, president, said yesterday.

I. C. Revenues in 1944 Equal 1918-'19 Total

Railway operating revenues of the Illinois Central system in 1944 amounted to $259,271,902, exceeding those of 1943 by $11,634,323, or 4.7 per cent, Wayne A. Johnston, president, told stockholders yesterday. Last year's total approximated the combined revenues for the years 1918 and 1919 and were produced with nearly 25 per cent less equipment than was available in those years, he said.

Wayne A. Johnston

Freight revenues totaled $200,809,713, an increase of $5,464,176, or 2.8 per cent over 1943. Increased industrial demand for coal because of the war, the resumption of banana traffic from gulf ports, and a substantial increase in rail-lake movement were the principal factors contributing to the increase in freight revenues, Johnston said.

Passenger revenue reached a new high of $42,625,897, an increase of $4,252,808, or 11 per cent over 1943, but mail revenue decreased $64,010, or 2.16 per cent. The reduction of personnel in military camps along the system's lines accounted primarily for the mail decrease, Johnston said.

Net income in 1944 was $17,385,616, compared with $25,129,122 in 1943.

Funded debt was reduced $23,429,103 during the year. The system's debt, which reached its peak of $383,278,672 in 1927, had been reduced to $282,110,205 as of Dec. 31, 1944, Johnston said.

DISCOUNTS GIVEN A. & P. RELATED BY 4 SUPPLIERS

Danville, Ill., May 3 (AP)—Four manufacturing executives testified in federal court today concerning advertising allowances and quantity discounts their companies granted the A. and P. food chain.

Earl Jinkinson, assistant government prosecutor, said outside of court he was attempting to show the "centralized control" and "blanket purchases" of the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, which is on trial with 28 officers and subsidiaries on an information charging anti-trust law violation.

E. F. Chambless, former vice president of the Consolidated Biscuit company, Chicago, told of quantity discounts given the chain but said the same schedule was granted other chains. In a letter from A. and P. to Consolidated, the chain had asked a contract with Consolidated instead of with its various branches so the A. and P. could pool purchases and reach a higher bracket of quantity discounts.

1944 UTAH RADIO SALES, EARNING SET NEW PEAKS

Sales of $14,588,810 and net income of $559,579, or $1.90 a share in 1944 set all-time highs for Utah Radio Products company, Fred R. Tuerk, president, yesterday told stockholders. No provision has been made from 1944 earnings for renegotiation because 1943 proceedings are not settled, Tuerk said. As a result of the refund provision of $725,000 less appropriate income tax credit for 1943, net income in that year was $205,493, or 70 cents a share.

CIO HEAD BARS REDS' PLOT IN UNION COUNCIL

Accusations Against Mann Disproved

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

An attempt by Communists and their sympathizers to grab control of the CIO Chicago Industrial Union council, which represents 200,000 members of affiliated local CIO unions, has been frustrated by Philip Murray, president of the national CIO, it was disclosed yesterday.

To obtain control, the communist minority filed charges in March against Michael Mann, executive secretary of the CIO council, who is anti-communist. These charges were proved baseless by John Brophy, director of CIO industrial union councils, who was assigned by Murray to make an exhaustive examination.

Brophy reported yesterday to Chicago CIO officials. He directed that an election of the CIO council, which originally had been set for April 19, should be postponed for three months because "emotions are still running high among council members because of the bickering and friction within the council." This is caused by the communist dominated members of the minority group.

Communist Leaders Named

Leaders of the communist element within the council who instigated the charges against Mann and other anti-communist officers, were Morris Yanoff, regional director of the communist dominated United Office and Professional Workers union; Louis Torre, business agent of local 1114 of the communist led United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers; Jack Spiegel, a communist sympathizer, business agent of local 48 of the United Shoe Workers' union, and Albert Glenn, international representative of the United Automobile Workers' union.

All except Glenn are members of the executive council of the CIO federation.

Yanoff has written in defense of communism. In 1943, he defended Russia's execution of Henryk Ehrlich and Victor Alter, Polish labor leaders, and on Dec. 18, 1941, he signed a request sent to Atty. Gen. Biddle for the release of Earl Browder, No. 1 Communist.

Torre was a guest speaker during the 1943 term of the communistic Abraham Lincoln school, 30 W. Washington st.

Leader in Communist Groups

Spiegel was an active member of American Peace Mobilization, which was the successor to the American League for Peace and Democracy. Both organizations have been labeled communist.

Glenn was an instructor and member of the faculty of the Lincoln school in 1941 and joined in a plea for Browder's release March 11, 1942.

One of the charges filed against Mann, which Brophy found to be without foundation, was that Mann and other anti-communist board members had prevented deletion of a council constitutional provision that barred Nazis, Fascists, and Communists or their consistent followers from being delegates to the council from local unions. Another was that Mann and his allies had "not lent sufficient support to the campaign against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE." This campaign is communist inspired.

Mann Refuses to Stir Rancor

Another communist charge against Mann and the pro-Americans on the council was that they had failed to condemn the recent Montgomery Ward strikes by a CIO union, the Harry Bridges, west coast communist head of the CIO Longshoremen's union did so, asserting, "The strikes were in violation of labor's no-strike pledge."

Mann refused to accuse the Communists directly of causing the campaign against him, because such assertions would "hurt the CIO." He would only say that "CIO policy comes first with me—come hell or high water. I will not be dictated to by any group within or without the CIO that does not honestly stand behind the CIO."

Explaining his findings clearing Mann and his associates, Brophy said: "Thruout the conversations I had with the critics of the administration of the Chicago council there ran the persistent thread that those who did not agree with these critics on one issue or another were 'anti-CIO,' to use the phrase that came up constantly, or were agents of groups within the CIO supposedly trying to destroy the CIO, or were acting on behalf of sinister forces outside the CIO whose purpose was to deliver it to its enemies. I find all of these insinuations are completely baseless.

"The Chicago council is unusually fortunate in having a man of the caliber of Michael Mann as its secretary and in a position to devote his talents, as he has done, to the welfare of the CIO in such an important metropolis as Chicago."

Mayor Kelly Goes East to Meet His 3 Children

Mayor Kelly left yesterday for New York, where he will have a brief reunion with his three children, Seaman 1st Class Joseph and Patricia and Stephen, both of whom are students in an eastern school. He said he expected to return to his desk Monday.

DEFER HEARING OF WOMAN ON THEFT OF $1,300

Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court yesterday continued until May 11 hearing on a charge against Mrs. Trudy Ernst, 28, of 1412 S. Albany av., that she embezzled $1,300 from Goldblatt Brothers store at 1615 Chicago av. while employed there as cashier.

Mrs. Ernst, wife of a service man overseas, was arrested Wednesday with William Perkins, 37, in a hotel room at 2709 Washington blvd. Police said she was hiding in a closet. Perkins, who was charged with disorderly conduct, said Mrs. Ernst recently had bought him an automobile.

Mrs. Ernst denied buying the car. Perkins said she told him she had withdrawn the purchase money from her bank account.
